Kelley to answer to the public about FBI 'wrongdoings'

'Proper time' to tell facts of Justice Dept. investigation

WASHINGTON (AP) — FBI Director Clarence M. Kelley is going public this week in his first attempt to answer questions about two major investigations of alleged wrongdoing within the bureau before and during his administration.

An FBI spokesman said the director "thought it was the proper time" to face questioning about Justice Department investigations of FBI burglaries during the past five years and alleged financial wrongdoing and other abuses of power by present and former bureau officials.

Those investigations began in March and April, and Kelley has not been available for questioning since then. His last Washington news conference was more than a year ago.

Kelley will be questioned Sunday on the CBS television program, "Face the Nation," and he is considering holding a news conference later in the week.

Kelley finds himself in charge of an agency which was under attack before he took over three years ago. But the criticism has mounted along with more and more disclosures of improper and possibly illegal FBI conduct.

Until this spring, the disclosures involved misconduct during the decades of J. Edgar Hoover's reign over the FBI. Those activities, primarily the harassment of political militants, were widely condemned and Kelley issued a public apology.

The latest investigations may be more devastating for the FBI because they hold the first real potential for criminal indictments against current and former FBI personnel.

The probe of financial wrongdoing and abuses of power already has forced Kelley to fire the bureau's second-ranking official, Nicholas P. Callahan. An assistant director, Andrew Decker, has retained a private attorney to represent him in the case.

Department officials involved in the investigations say they have no doubt about Kelley's integrity and his ability to root out improprieties.

Kelley "feels the criticism can be handled but it will take some time," said an FBI official familiar with his thinking. "He does not feel beleaguered. But yet, he is concerned about morale in the bureau. He feels it may have slipped but it can be built up again."

Each wave of criticism sets off speculation that Kelley may resign, but the FBI source said the director has no thoughts of leaving.

Atty. Gen. Edward H. Levi, who has pushed the department investigations and is monitoring them closely, wants Kelley to stay, said an official close to Levi.

Donations reported to black ministers who backed him

Carter campaign accused of payoffs, 'street money'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Jimmy Carter campaign gave donations to black ministers who supported him in the California primary and paid out other "street money" that was not properly accounted for, a Southland newspaper said today.

The Carter campaign may have to return $150,000 in federal funds because of financial irregularities, the report said.

The newspaper said that it surveyed public records in Ohio, California and New Jersey and turned up several instances in which campaign funds spent in black and minority communities lacked required receipts.

Paul Hemmann, Carter's national administrator whose duties include financial accounting, was quoted as saying that irregularities in financial reporting may force the Carter campaign to return $150,000 of the $3 million in federal matching funds it has received.

Shortly before the June 8 California primary — which Carter lost to California Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. — the Carter campaign gave a total of $5,000 to four black ministers in the Oakland Bay area, the report said.

Rev. J. L. Richards of Oakland, who the newspaper described as one of the most influential black ministers in the Oakland area, said he received $2,000 from Carter campaign coffers.

Richards is a leader of two pastors' groups.

"I paid out money to some of the ministers in my group; some got $25 and some $50 — donations, that's all," Richards was quoted as saying.

"When a preacher stands up in his church and talks about Jimmy Carter, he's working for Jimmy Carter as far as I'm concerned, and he should be paid for it ... I don't work for no damn politician for nothing."

In a response to the story, Jody Powell, Carter's press secretary, said in Plains, Ga., on Saturday that the disbursement of money reported was "strictly legal and proper."

"It is a common practice in many areas of campaign activities," Powell said. "Every campaign in both parties that I know of expends resources on get-out-the-vote activities and transportation to the polls."

An unidentified Carter campaigner told the newspaper the endorsements of Richards and his associates was "the largest block endorsement we got in Northern California the whole campaign."

The newspaper asked Hemmann whether the disbursements to the black ministers represented a contradiction between Carter campaign reality and some of the Democratic presidential nominee's statements during the primary races.

"I guess when Jimmy stood in Maryland and said, 'I don't intend to deal with political hacks,' he was talking about not dealing with white hacks — not black hacks," Hemmann was quoted as saying.

But Powell said Hemmann was speaking in "jest" when he made that statement. It was followed by "a serious response expressing the campaign's disapproval of such practices, our efforts to minimize them and our determination to provide the most extensive documentation of expenditures possible," Powell said.

Richards said he received two $1,000 checks from the Carter campaign, one written to the Oakland Baptist Ministers Union and one to the Mt. Zion Baptist District Association. The other three ministers received checks of $1,000, the story said.

Storm gains speed; it's 1st hurricane

MIAMI (AP) — Packing winds up to 90 miles per hour, Tropical Storm Belle grew into the first hurricane of the 1976 season Saturday. A hurricane watch was issued for the Atlantic Coast from Georgia to Cape Hatteras, N.C.

The National Hurricane Center said Belle, which had been lingering off populous south Florida since it began to form Friday, was about 315 miles east of Palm Beach and moving at 8 m.p.h. Saturday night.

Forecasters said Belle would continue to gain strength Sunday.

"There is some threat," said Neil Frank, director of the hurricane center. "People should continue their normal activities but should be aware of the threat."

At 10:30 p.m. Saturday, Belle was centered near latitude 27.2 north and longitude 75.0 west. Gales extended from the center 100 miles to the north and 75 to the south.

Marine interests in the northern Bahamas were warned to be cautious and small craft operators along the Atlantic Coast were told not to make extended trips into the open ocean.

'Priceless' Rembrandt is stolen

AIX - EN-PROVENCE, France (AP) — A "priceless" self-portrait by Rembrandt was stolen from the Granet Museum here in the early hours of Friday, police reported Saturday. It came from the 18th century collection of French aristocrat Jean-Baptiste de Bourguignon de Fabrebouls.

Police officials said a search was under way throughout France in an attempt to recover the painting.

Officials believed the theft was carried out by an "expert" acting on behalf of a clandestine collector. The thief apparently concealed himself among some scaffolding erected inside the museum by building workers and allowed himself to be locked in Thursday night. He escaped through the cellars of the Museum, apparently without making any attempt to touch the other costly paintings in the gallery.

The scaffolding was erected for the installation of a burglar alarm system.

3 children hurt in explosion

The Democratic presidential candidate and his brother were playing softball at Plains high school when a huge boom resounded through the town, followed by a gigantic tower of black smoke.

Billy Carter, the other players and onlookers ran toward the station about one block away as Secret Service agents drove cars onto the playing field and forced Carter into one.

Billy Carter rushed up to the gasoline truck and tried to move it but several persons restrained him. One of Billy's employes, Randy Coleman, jumped into the truck a few minutes later and moved it to safety.

"If that truck had blown, this whole town would have gone," said Murray Smith, a Plains resident, who helped turn off the gasoline valves on the truck before it was moved.

The explosion caused little damage to the station. It blackened the white frame sides of the station and blew cans of oil and other auto accessories off shelves. The soft drink machine was demolished.

The three children who suffered minor burns were treated and released at a hospital in Americus, 10 miles away, a hospital spokesman said.

They were part of a busload of children from Hugley Congregational Church of Hugley, Ala. The bus had stopped at the station so the children could use the restroom.

'My God, this is the end of my life'

POMPANO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — "My God, this is the end of my life," Natalie Voudoukis told her husband after learning that her sister had died. Two hours later, she suffered a massive heart attack and died.

Services were held for both women on Saturday.

"You see, they were inseparable in life," John Voudoukis said Friday. "Natalie always did everything Lillian did, and I guess she just had to die like her sister too."

Voudoukis said his 70-year-old wife appeared to be healthy before her sister's death. But he said she became hysterical Wednesday after she learned of the death of her 72-year-old sister.

"Lillian was two years older and when she went to school, Natalie did," said Joseph DeLuca, Lillian's husband. "When she went to work for their dad in his wholesale grocery store, Natalie did.

Kleindienst accused of insurance frauds

CHICAGO (AP) — Former U.S. Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst represented two insurance companies accused of defrauding a Teamsters health and welfare fund of $1.8 million while serving at the same time as a lawyer for a Teamsters pension fund, the Chicago SunTimes said today.

The Teamsters Central States, Southeast and Southwest Areas Health and Welfare Fund, which filed a damage suit against the insurance companies earlier this week, shares Chicago offices and a budget with the Central States, Southeast and Southwest Areas Pension Fund which hired Kleindienst about a year ago as a Washington lawyer, the newspaper said.

It quoted one unidentified investigator as saying Kleindienst "put together the whole package" of insurance deals which the health and welfare fund said was an attempt to move Teamsters' money through several corporations for personal gain instead of paying insurance claims.

Kleindienst was vacationing and was not immediately available for comment.

Bates: 'adventure' motivated kidnaping

CHOWCHILLA, Calif. (AP) — The alleged kidnapers of 26 Chowchilla school children and their bus driver wanted money, but their main motive may have been adventure, says Madera County Sheriff Ed Bates.

Part of the reason for what Bates termed "the biggest kidnaping in United States history" was money, he said in an interview.

"But I'm more inclined to say it was more of an adventure-type thing," the sheriff added.

Because of a court-imposed gag order on disclosure of evidence, Bates refused to be more specific about the possible adventure motive or comment on earlier reports that authorities found a rough draft of a $5-million ransom note at the 100-acre estate where one defendant, Frederick N. Woods, lived.

Martian soil suggests activity

Life on Mars: 'tantalizing' evidence

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — A sample of Martian soil in the Viking minilaboratory has again shown "tantalizing" activity that could be evidence of life, scientists reported Saturday.

The new data were disclosed the same day that Viking 2 — mother ship and lander combined — rocketed into orbit around Mars.

As in experiments a week ago, scientists emphasized there were many "alternative explanations" for the activity, and said, "we have not found life on Mars."

Dr. Harold Klein, head of the Viking biology team, said, "the information does suggest at least the possibility of biological activity in the sample being incubated." The next step is to run a control test on soil that has been sterilized to exclude life. That test is due to be finished by Aug. 23.

A 40-minute motor burn sent the four-ton Viking 2 soaring into its first orbit of the red planet after blasting off from Earth 11 months ago. It marked the first time the United States has had two probes circling another planet at the same time.

After surveying terrain in the northern latitudes of Mars, Viking 2 will dispatch its lander for a soft landing Sept. 4, according to current plans. The region where Viking 2 will land is believed more likely to harbor Martian life than the Viking 1 landing place.

Dr. Norman Horowitz ruled out the possibility the activity in the latest Viking 1 test resulted from a life-mimicking chemical process that is believed to have caused unusual activity in a different experiment last week.

In the earlier Viking experiment, called labeled release, initial results seemed to indicate possible life in the soil. But in recent days scientists have been saying the data could have been caused by a chemical process mimicking life.

That process is one in which sunlight acting on the Martian soil releases oxygen from the dirt. In the labeled release test, oxygen may have eaten up a nutrient that was fed to the sample, and produced a gas waste product that resembled wastes from living organisms.

Two days ago more nutrient was added to the labeled release experiment. Scientists reasoned that if living organisms were present, they would continue to eat the nutrient and release gas. But Klein said Saturday the production of gas first dropped, then began to increase again.

"We can't explain it yet," said Klein. But he said the chances were "very, very, very remote" that the strange activity was a biological process.

The Horowitz experiment involved a five-day incubation of a soil sample in simulated Martian atmosphere and sunlight. The object was to see if anything in the soil was using carbon from the air to produce food and growth material. On Earth, the most common example is photosynthesis by green plants.

Horowitz said the activity monitored in the experiment was roughly equal to that found in soil from dry deserts of Antartica, which harbor a small, hardy population of bacteria and algae.

APPROACHING MARS

This crescent phase picture of Mars was taken by Viking 2 on Aug. 5 from a distance of 250,000 miles as it was approaching the planet for its orbit insertion maneuver. Viking 2 went into orbit around the plant at 5:30 a.m. Saturday. The view is the morning side. Toward the top of the picture, the four dark spots are the huge volcanoes of the Tharsis region. They appear dark because clouds and haze cover the region at this time of day, and the volcanoes stand higher than the clouds. In the bottom of the picture, at the tip of the crescent, is a bright circular feature, the large impact basin, Argyre. This basin is bright because its floor is covered with frost.

Fire hits valley home

It must have been a shocked Albert Welborn family Saturday night when they returned home to discover a fire had caused an estimated $2,500 damage to their living room at 850 E. Plaza Serena, Ontario.

A neighbor phoned Ontario firemen at 5:43 p.m. and firefighters were forced to break down the front door to fight the flames which enveloped a couch and chair.

The firemen knocked down the flames in about 30 minutes and stayed around another hour to clean up.

Firemen said that the probable cause of the fire was an electrical short.

'Hazardous' total: 28 on Indian Hill Blvd.

By GEORGE MacLAREN
PB Staff Writer

Sixteen more Indian Hill Boulevard elms have been added to the unsafe list and should be removed, a Pasadena certified tree surgeon has recommended to the Claremont city staff in a written report released Friday.

James Wanland, owner of Western Arborists, after inspecting all 118 trees on Indian Hill Boulevard between Harrison Avenue and Foothill Boulevard, suggested that 28 elms be cut down because of "severely weakened and hazardous conditions."

Wanland, a graduate forester from Michigan State, earlier had reviewed and confirmed the city staff's finding concerning 12 trees deemed unsafe.

But Wanland added 16 additional trees which he considered hazardous and cannot be made safe by tree rodding, cabeling or pruning.

The city's Parkways and Trees Commission at a special meeting July 29 approved removal of the first 12 trees, despite urgings by residents that another expert be hired to inspect the endangered elms.

A citizens group independently hired another tree expert, J. Harold Mitchel, to evaluate the trees, but his report is expected to confirm Wanland's findings.

The City Council meeting at 5 p.m. Aug. 18 at the Claremont Public Library will be asked to authorize the removal of the 16 additional elms.

City Manager Norman R. King has invited citizens participation in naming a replacement tree for the elms subject to removal.

Suggestions can be directed to the city Parkways and Trees Commission which will meet in September to take further steps in preparing for the Dutch Elm Disease headed for Southern California.

King said that since DED was first confirmed in Sonoma County in Aug. 4, 1975, 1,100 elms have been removed because of the fungus.

King explained that in an effort to reduce the impact of the disease in Claremont, the city has embarked on a systematic program of identification, sanitation, spray programs, tree replacements and tree redesignations.

King further explained that the 12 elms being removed starting Monday have heart rot, which makes them an ideal breeding ground for elm bark beetles which carry the fungus from tree to tree.

Woman takes action after tree incident

Ontario sued for $3 million

The city of Ontario has been sued for $3 million by a local woman who was hurt Aug. 7, 1975 when a Grenvillea tree branch fell on her truck at Euclid Avenue and Princeton Street.

Mrs. Manuela Llanas, 38, of 1332 E. Seventh St., in a complaint filed at West Valley Superior Court contends that she sustained bodily injuries, shock, and injury to her nervous system.

The suit is the second in two years to hit the city because of tree accidents.

In 1975 Janice Winterswyk Gearhart was awarded $1.1 million for injuries she received in 1972 when a tree fell on the car she was driving. She became paralyzed from the chest down.

In the latest suit, Mrs. Llanas alleges that the injuries have caused and continue to cause great physical and mental pain and suffering.

She alleges that the injuries will result in some permanent disability.

The complaint also seeks compensation for medical expenses, loss of earning and property damage.

18½-hour talk session brings results

18,000 end 4-day strike against N.Y. hospitals

NEW YORK (AP) — A four-day strike against New York's 16 municipally-operated hospitals ended Saturday when the city agreed to recall 1,350 employes who had been laid off because of the fiscal crisis.

The agreement with 18,000 non-professional employes represented by District Council 37 of the State, County and Municipal Employes, AFL-CIO, was reached after an 18½ hour negotiating session.

No estimate of the cost to the near-bankrupt city was announced, but informed sources said at least $23 million would be needed to make up for slashed Medicaid reimbursement payments from the state.

Conferees, working with mediator Basil Paterson, vice chairman of the Democratic National Committee, also agreed to set up a task force charged with making economics and new revenue within 90 days.

The aim was to avoid the necessity of future lay-offs.

Victor Gotbaum, executive director of District Council 37, said that, in return, the union had surrendered cost of living payments averaging $450 per person.

The hospitals, run by the autonomous Health and Hospitals Corp., remained open throughout the strike but the number of patients was cut from a normal 10,400 to 7,000.

Outpatient clinics, which usually serve 20,000 persons, were shut.

The striking workers ranged from maintenance and cleaning employes to nurses' aides and techicians. Top pay for the strikers reaches about $10,000 a year, however, the union officials said wages were not at issue.

The strikers faced mandatory penalties of loss of two days' pay for each day they were on strike, while their leaders could be jailed for up to 30 days and fined for violating state laws against public employe strikes.

First Deputy Mayor John E. Zuccotti said no deals had been made to keep Gotbaum and Lillian Roberts, his associate director from being penalized.

A HERO RECEIVES AN AWARD

Expert on chemical poison has no leads for 'legion flu'

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — An expert on chemical poisons said Saturday he has no idea what toxin could have caused the mysterious "legionnaires disease" that killed 25 persons.

"Nothing comes to mind," Dr. Richard Cohn, a Philadelphia toxicologist, told a news conference in Harrisburg.

Cohn is working as a consultant to the state Health Department in the search for the cause of the disease that struck persons attending a state American Legion convention here last month.

Researchers, using a process of elimination through intensive laboratory testing, have ruled out fungus, bacteria, exotic diseases, and most viruses as the cause.

They are now concentrating on toxins, or chemical poisons. Health officials said Saturday that toxins could come from animals, vegetables, chemicals, or common household items such as plastics.

There are literally thousands of toxins which can be harmless in some amounts and killers in others. Cohn said the trial-and-error testing could take months.

State Health Secretary Leonard Bachman told the news conference that four days of round-the-clock tests have produced "absolutely nothing that points to any known disease."

"Whatever caused the disease had to be a one-shot source that had a symptom delay of three to four days," Bachman said. "Beyond that our research has uncovered nothing."

All the 135 persons affected were in some way connected with the four-day convention, but they stayed in at least six downtown hotels and ate at numerous restaurants.

Bachman said there have been no cases of secondary infection, meaning the disease was not contagious. Secondary infection is infection of another person by the primary source.

With no new cases reported since Tuesday, health officials say they believe the disease has run its course.

Although the hunt for the cause is centered on toxins, researchers are still testing for viruses.

Several patients have recovered and are being tested to see whether their systems formed antibodies to fight the disease, said Dr. Jay Satz, the state's top virus expert.

Since antibodies react to particular viruses, they can be used to pinpoint the type of virus if that was cause, Satz said.

But the results of that testing won't be known until next week at the earliest, he said.

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Ed Ray stood ramrod-straight, his crewcut neat. Odessa Ray smiled and waved as some 2,000 persons gave the hero of Chowchilla and his wife a thunderous ovation.

Yet both would rather be back in the Madera County farming town where Ray has driven a school bus for 23 years. Since the bizarre hijacking of his bus and kidnaping of Ray and 26 children, life for the Rays hasn't been the same.

And life may never be the same for the Rays. He easily rates as one of the most famous school bus drivers of all time.

Wearing a new-looking leisure suit, tieless with a bright sportshirt open at the collar, Ray stood uneasily, his eyes smarting from the bright television camera lights.

"I don't know what to say," he said Friday after accepting another award, this time from Gov. Edmund Brown Jr.

"I'm proud to be here. We got the children back home. That's all I was worried about."

The meeting was interrupted by association members asking to shake his hand or get his autograph.

"I'm a school bus driver, too," said one. "Would you sign this for me?"

Ray signed his autograph.

"No," Ray said when asked if he ever in his life expected to be the center of so much attention. "I sure never dreamed I'd ever get stopped like that, either."

The governor referred to Ray when he said America's greatness "depends on ordinary people acting in extraordinary ways when called on to do so."

On July 15 Ray was driving summer school children to their homes when the bus was hijacked. He and the 26 children were herded into two vans and driven 95 miles to a Livermore quarry where they were buried in an old moving van.

Mrs. Ray said the Chowchilla Rotarians have given an award, and there's another event to attend next week.

"Hundreds of letters and cards from all over the world — Canada, Australia, Denmark, Hawaii," Mrs. Ray said.

She said there have been two "nasty" communications, however. About two weeks ago an unsigned note on a napkin arrived as well as a telephone caller, both threatening "bodily harm to people" unless a $20,000 ransom were paid

She said the FBI was notified and the Rays have heard nothing about it since.

"It made us a little nervous," she added.

Chaffey College trustees have adopted a final budget of $19.8 million reflecting a three cent tax decrease.

While the tax rate for the past three years was 67 cents per $100 assessed valuation, the new rate is estimated at 64 cents.

The budget is keyed to a projected five per cent increase in average daily attendance along with an enrollment of some 1,200 students residing in the Corona-Norco area which became a part of the college district on July 1.

The budget also includes $480,000 allocated for a salary hike of six per cent for both faculty and classified staff approved by the board earlier this summer.

The budget for 1976-77 includes $1.4 million in reserves.

On other business, the board approved the appointments of Anthony J. Pitale as assistant dean of occupational services and Dana S. Winters as Skill Center supervisor.

Pitale is a former director of occupational education program services for the Department of Education of Massachusetts.

Ferguson named Chino water district manager

He will succeed E. Gil Ross, who retired recently to go into private business. Theo Nowak had served as acting general manager.

Ferguson, an Ontario resident for 50 years, has served on the district board since his appointment in 1962.

He has long been active in water supply and water quality, serving on the National Water Pollution Control Advisory Board from 1970 to 1973 and on the California Water Commission from 1967 through 1975.

At present, he serves as a director to both the Metropolitan Water District and the Santa Ana Watershed Project Authority.

When he assumes the full-time district position, Ferguson will end a 25-year association with Tom Caldwell in the real estate profession.

"We regret losing him from the board but we are very pleased he agreed to accept this new post. His acceptance of the managership means the district will be able to continue smoothly in its role as the major water and waste water agency in the West End," said Masingale.

A replacement for Ferguson on the board of directors will be made soon. Remaining board members are Masingale, Alta Loma, Ernest Keechler, Chino, Richard W. Pehl, Upland and John G. Gilday, Fontana.

Rod Steiger surgery is successful

Steiger, 51, who appeared in such movies as "In The Heat of the Night," "No Way to Treat a Lady" and "The Pawnbroker," was admitted to the hospital Thursday for tests. Doctors decided Saturday morning to perform a cardiac bypass.

1-cent gas tax hike urged for highways

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Lt. Gov. Mervyn Dymally's state Commission for Economic Development is recommending a one-cent increase in the gasoline tax to finance highway construction.

The proposal is one of seven forwarded to Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. and the legislature last week by the commission of business leaders and legislators.

The commission has been a target of criticism by Legislative Analyst A. Alan Post, the legislature's chief fiscal advisor, who recommends abolishing it.

Dymally said the proposals came from a statewide conference on the business climate in March, and were approved by a majority of the 16 member commission. He said he abstained from voting on all of the proposals, as chairman.

The gas tax increase cleared the state Senate last year but has been bottled up in the Assembly because of opposition from Brown.

Other proposals included:

— Requiring state and local antismog agencies to consider the impact of air quality regulations on jobs before adopting them.

— Establishing a state department to promote tourism. That was the job of the state Commerce Department, which Brown abolished.

— Taking appeals on environmental impact reports out of the courts and putting them before a new state commission.

— Setting an expiration date on all administrative regulations now in force in the state, and requiring the agencies to readopt them at public hearings every 10 years.

Man found shot to death

Thrill of fight gone for chief surgeon of Tijuana bullrings

TIJUANA, Mexico (AP) With the keen eye of a surgeon, Jose Rodriguez Olivas watches in the callejon of the bullring, the alleyway formed by protective barriers and the grandstand.

The thundering snort of the beast comes. . . the hoofs stomp, the man standing courageously alone with his cape and sword, a flash, the spurt of blood that follows the mistake. . . .

As chief surgeon of the two Tijuana bullrings, Rodriguez has saved at least 20 lives since 1942, he figures. The thrill is gone, however.

"Many times I have watched them," says Rodriguez of the matadors, "and said to my assistants, 'They will bring him to us shortly,' "

The heroes destined to struggle for life on Rodriguez' infirmary beds included Armilla, who fought at the top for 22 years. At the end, he was gored in the leg. Andres Blando was never hurt until after he retired, his pigtail cut as the symbol, and ran to the aid of a wounded friend.

Rodriguez himself jumped into the ring when the horn of a bull pierced Curro Ortega's leg and a femoral artery.

"I grabbed the wound with my hand, trying to stop the bleeding," the surgeon recalled. When the bull went for Rodriguez, an assistant diverted the animal long enough for Rodriguez to walk Ortega out, holding the wound closed.

Last year, there was only one goring in Tijuana, suffered by the popular Adrian Romero. Rodriguez treated three gorings in a single afternoon in 1953 in the downtown ring, but no one has ever died fighting in Tijuana arenas.

A Spanish matador named Marcelino was caught in the armpit by a horn in 1973. As Rodriguez was working on Marcelino in the infirmary, the same bull gored Mario Sevilla in the leg.

The threat of death in the corrida is overwhelming for many after their first goring, Rodriguez believes.

"After the first goring, most bullfighters go downhill fast and eventually leave bullfighting," he says. "But a few great ones become even greater after they are gored.

"I am thinking of Joselito Huerta and Manolo Martinez and Antonio Lomelin and Antonio Valazquez."

The bull "inflicts wounds you wouldn't think possible," he says.

U.S. priest jailed in Argentina

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — The army has confirmed the arrest of a Roman Catholic priest from the United States for alleged subversive activity.

A communique issued Friday night said the Rev. James Martin Weeks, 43, of the La Salette Novitiate in Hartford, Conn., and five Latin American seminarians were jailed Tuesday.

It claimed that "extensive subversive literature and a phonograph record with subversive chants" were found in the house where Father Weeks and the seminarians lived in Cordoba.

Girl, 7, hit, dragged by car is 'critical'

A 7-year-old Pomona girl was seriously injured when she was struck and dragged beneath a car Friday evening while she was trying to cross White Avenue south of Second Street in Pomona.

The girl was identified by police as Mary M. Holguin, of 459 Lombard St., Pomona. She was said to be in critical condition Saturday night at Pomona Valley Community Hospital with multiple injuries.

According to police, the girl and two other small children attempted to cross White Avenue about 50 feet south of the crosswalk at the intersection shortly before 9 p.m.

The girl was hit by a car driven by Michelle E. Nelson, 22, of 2140 W. Orange Grove Ave., Pomona, as the car skidded to a halt in an attempt to avoid the girl.

McVittie asks parole subsidy audit

ASSEMBLYMAN BILL McVITTIE, D-65th Dist., has requested a legislative audit of the state probation subsidy program in which county agencies are reimbursed for supervising rehabilitation efforts of juvenile and adult offenders diverted from state prisons.

This rehabilitation effort has come under increasing public criticism during recent months, he said. "Ideally, allowing un-violent offenders to remain in their home under close supervision could save taxpayers a great deal of expense when considering the staggering costs of operating a prison."

But local residents have raised a number of serious questions, said McVittie. Some believe the release program has placed too many criminals on the street who aren't ready to live law-abiding lives.

"And county officials are complaining the reimbursement paid by the state for close supervision of these probationers is lagging far behind actual costs for supervision and increased demands on law enforcement."

McVittie requested a report from the Joint Legislative Audit Committee which oversees the auditor general's office.

The local REPUBLICAN CENTRAL COMMITTEE will hold an open house at the Pomona Republican headquarters, 175 W. Holt Ave., Thursday from 5 to 8 p.m.

Congress acted "without fear or favor" in voting to censure Rep. Robert L. Sikes, said REP. JIM LLOYD, D-35th Dist.

The local legislator said he helped initiate the investigation of the Florida Democrat after news organizations alleged that Sikes failed to disclose financial interests in businesses dealing directly with the federal government.

"We voted to censure a colleague who we know is very powerful as a result of his long tenure in Congress and his chairmanship of the military construction subcommittee of the Appropriations Committee," added Lloyd.

The convention delegates discussed such issues as taxes, crime, welfare and schools.

Stephens reported he has received endorsements of Assemblyman John V. Briggs, R-69th Dist., and Roy O. Day, long active in the Republican Party.

DAVID STIRLING, Republican nominee in the 64th Assembly District, said he would work toward reducing the size of government and government's expanding role in the everyday affairs of people if elected to the state office.

"Under our Constitution, government has only the powers the people give it. Today, however, government has become so massive that people have only the rights government gives them."

Stirling noted that government has become the nation's biggest employer with nearly one of every five persons working for government in California alone.

And government jobs are expected to increase by 70,000 in 1976, compared with an expected increase in the private sector of only 108,000, he added.

"The recent real property assessment increase and the additional tax increase are a shocking reminder of who is paying the bill for the massive growth of government."

TED SNYDER, Democratic nominee in the 33rd Congressional District, said a recent questionnaire sent to district residents by Rep. Del Clawson, the Republican incumbent, was a "taxpayer ripoff and insult to the voters."

The questionnaire cost $23,000 to print and mail and the questions were so biased that results will be virtually meaningless, he added.

"One of the basic planks in my platform is a proposal to end this misuse of public money by incumbents to assure their re-election. I believe strongly that no public mailing should be printed by incumbents during election campaigns."

The West Covina legislator was nominated by Sally Grove, Pomona Chapter president of the California Association of the Physically Handicapped, and Barrie L. Dyer, winner of the National Rehabilitation Association Award as "Southern California Professional Worker of the Year."

Lloyd joined the Easter Seal Society and California Association of the Physically Handicapped in sponsoring a legislative awareness seminar for mayors, councilmen and planning and architectural personnel to experience architectural barriers from a wheelchair.

Surviving are two brothers, Leonard M. of Pomona and Reid of Bakersfield, and a nephew, Thomas R. of Montclair.

Services will be held Monday at 3 p.m. in the First Baptist Church, Claremont. Todd Memorial Chapel Pomona is in charge of arrangements.

Robert Johnson

Robert L. Johnson of 801 W. Covina Blvd., San Dimas died Thursday in Garfield Cottage Hospital following a short illness.

Mr. Johnson was born Nov. 11, 1904 in Superior, Wis. He came to California in 1923 and lived in the Los Angeles area until moving to San Dimas in 1965. He was a member of the San Dimas Lodge 428 F & AM.

Besides his widow, Anne, he is survived by a son, Robert L. of San Dimas; a brother, Carl of Arlington, Tex.; three sisters, Mrs. Evelyn Schawabenthal of Chico, Miss Elsie Johnson of San Diego and Mrs. Hazel Rehnstrann of Upland; and a grandson, Martin R. Johnson of San Dimas.

Services will be held Monday at 11:30 a.m. in Todd Memorial Chapel Pomona. R. Roy Bowman will conduct the Masonic ritual for San Dimas Lodge 428, F & AM. Burial will be made in Queen of Heaven Cemetery, Rowland Heights.

Friends may call at the Pomona Chapel today from 2 to 9 p.m.

Stunt pilot killed

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — An American stunt pilot crashed and was killed Tuesday evening while putting on an air acrobatics display at the Amman airport for King Hussein.

He was identified as David Rahm, 45, of Bellingham, Wash., a professor at Western Washington State College invited to Jordan by Hussein to help set up a stunt flying club for Jordanian pilots.

Hussein sped to the runway after Rahm's stunt plane plummeted onto the tarmac and burst into flames. The pilot was found dead.

"Rahm was a world aerobatic hero, skilled and efficient and worthy of our respect," the king said in a statement.

Rahm and Hussein met in Canada in 1974, palace officials said. Rahm was due to lead the Jordanian stunt team on a trip to Canada for displays there next week.

"Don't talk to me about wasting gas and money. I ride the bus."

Taking mass transit to work is a good idea. But if you share the ride to the satellite parking lot where you catch your bus, it's even better. Because you'll be saving gas and money on the whole trip. Not just part of it. Share the ride to the bus. It sure beats driving alone.

Then and now

Convention time in Kansas City

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — It may not be the "Big Apple," but Kansas City is determined to shine when the spotlight shifts here next week for the Republican National Convention.

City officials somehow want to shake the old "cow town" image, although the modern, three-year-old Kemper Arena, where the Republicans will meet, is plopped right in the middle of the abandoned, decaying stockyards.

This is Kansas City's third national convention. The Democrats nominated William Jennings Bryan in 1900. Twenty-eight years later the Republicans nominated Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover.

In 1928, President Calvin Coolidge, who declined to run again, went fishing in South Dakota at convention time, and Hoover elected to stay home in Washington.

Many of Kansas City's landmarks have disappeared since that 1928 convention. And the city itself has changed radically.

The thriving livestock trade is gone, victim of decentralization in the meatpacking industry. Two-thirds of the 1.5 million population live in suburbs built in the last 45 years from farmland or from small towns now turned into satellite cities. Like most American metropolises, blacks and poor are concentrated in the older areas, some of which have been redeveloped after a period of decay.

But land traditionally has been set aside for public parks, boulevards and fountains, and this gives Kansas City and its suburbs more greenery than most.

Convention Hall, where the 1900 and 1928 conventions were held, is gone. The site is now a parking lot across from Municipal Auditorium in the center of town. Kemper Arena, a mile to the west, was built as a 16,000-seat basketball and hockey stadium. The Republicans are a month too early for the new Bartle Convention Center, a much larger $30-million showcase near Municipal Auditorium. It will open officially in September for the Poultry and Egg Institute convention.

Most of GOP delegates arriving here in 1928 came and went via the old Union Station. It's still there, in fact just across the street from the Crown Center Hotel, where President Ford and his staff will stay.

But time has taken its toll. Sections of the station are closed off and only five Amtrak trains arrive daily.

Most of the 25,000 people coming here for next week's convention will arrive at Kansas City International Airport, 20 miles and a $15 cab ride from downtown. It is three years old and often described as one of the most attractive airports in the country, with its three circular terminals. Nev-

Colonial life was endless work

By SID MOODY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

If England was a nation of shopkeepers, America was a nation of farmers. Ninety per cent of Americans lived off the land in 1776, succeeding only because all the energies and abilities of each family member were as closely knit as an argyle sock.

It was a life of hand-hewn labor that never ceased, only changed with the seasons. For the man, field and forest; for the woman, kitchen and child-rearing. The family was the atom at the core of the country. Together, the atoms formed a whole preculiarly American.

Life was hard and short. In 1775 life expectancy at birth was 34 years for males, 36 for females. But time was not a tick-tock; rather it passed by nature's clock — seed, till, harvest; shear, spin, sew — hours marked only by the sun's passage across the noon groove chiseled in the door sill.

Dark meant sleep; winter hibernation.

John Adams's escape from the New England winter was to wish he could sleep like a dormouse from the first frost to the first crocus. Instead, there was firewood to be cut, candles to be made from tallow, and other chores.

It was a gloomy time after nightfall. The average family groped about in the flickering light from the hearth or a burning knot of pitch pine until crawling between a muslin sheet and corn shock mattress to await the dawn.

In winter that was the only place to be. John Rowe wrote of his ink freezing as he filled out his diary. Even the sap ozzing out of the end of the great log on the hearth frequently turned to ice. Franklin, wearied of being "almost smoked to bacon" in front of the hearth, invented his metal stove, but even when fully stoked, it could not raise the temperature above a dubious 58 degrees.

The only breakthrough was the making of better privies, also known as houses of office, houses of ease or necessary houses. The necessary of Col. and Mrs. Joseph Webb in Wethersfield, Conn., was called Hospitality Hall and was fitted with a semi-circle of accommodations.

Public duty reflected the basics of private life. Every town had its hog reeve (and some still do, the honor deemed the equivalent of a colonelcy in Kentucky) who kept the pigs from running wild in pastures and saw to it their ears were clipped to identify the owner.

Hay-wards turned other animals out of the fields and fined offending owners. Fence-viewers supervised fence repairs.

In winter everyone was expected to help plow the roads, the first path cleared being to the tavern, followed by the school, doctor's home and finally the meeting-house.

Group spirit extended far from the village. Besides the various bees and barn raisings, there were log-rollings when the neighborhood men spent all day undercutting trees and then felling a giant in hopes it would knock down all the rest, a progenitor of the domino theory.

Women married ere puberty was hardly over and began child-bearing in their mid or late teens. Husbands were scarcely older.

A Virginian said that "an Old Maid ... among us (is) reckoned as ominous as a Blazing Star." At one time single men in Maryland and Pennsylvania were taxed, and Connecticut authorities forbade bachelors to live alone and assigned them quarters.

The vast majority of women were raised from the crib to be replicas of their mothers. They were taught to read, said Franklin, "and perhaps write their Name or So; and that is the Height of a Woman's Education." A

"Fix'd gown for Prude, — Mend Mother's Ridinghood — spun short thread ... Carded tow, — Spun linen, — Worked on Cheesebasket, — Hatchel'd flax with Hannah ... Pleated and ironed, — Read a Sermon of Doddridge's, — Spooled a piece, — Milked the cows, — Spun linen, did 50 knots, — Made a Broom of Guinea wheat straw — Spun thread to whiten, — Set a Red dye ... I carded two pounds of whole wool ... Spun harness twine, — Scoured the pewter."

Once married, childbearing joined the list of chores. Pretty young girls who could "talk saucily" to Hessian soldiers quickly aged from too frequent pregnancies. Calcium was literally drained from their bodies, rotting their teeth. A common folk saying was "one child, one tooth."

Mother's unresting place in this world was, of course, the kitchen. The cavernous colonial fireplaces were both furnace and stove and the cook was often burned along with the meat. The fire was set up with a huge backlog a foot in diameter that might burn a week. The fire was laid between that and a smaller forestick. Pots were hung from notched trammels, and meat was turned on a spit or boiled in a pot. Dutch ovens were used for baking, the bricks first heated by a fire to turn off the carbon which was then removed from the bread inserted.

One ingenious way of turning a roast was to suspend it from two strings which were twisted tightly and then allowed to unwind. When the meat stopped turning, one of the children wound it up again. Often meat was smoked by hanging it in the flue, a process called barbacao in the West Indies. It survives as "barbecue."

Now that's community property!

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (AP) — Eugene Schneider has been ordered to explain in court why his idea of dividing property in a divorce settlement was cutting his $80,000 house in half with a chain saw.

In papers on file here Monday, Schneider was charged by his estranged wife with cutting through the support beams of their home in Carteret with a chain saw last July 23.

Schneider told authorities that cutting up the house was his idea of complying with New Jersey's divorce laws which require fair and equitable division of property, an attorney familiar with the case said.

Housing inspector Leonard A. Zaleski said he found rafters, the shingles and roof decking of the home cut through. He said floor joists were also cut through near the walls, making the building unfit for habitation.

Schneider's wife of 33 years, Phoebe, is suing for a divorce on the grounds her husband would "constantly and continuously bring women into the marital home." She filed the additional charges of malicious damage to the home last Friday.

'Your Way' is really his way

CINCINNATI (AP) — Golf Manor Mayor Michael Schwartz's beef against the Burger King hamburger chain is simple: He says the "Have It Your Way" song was really done his way.

Schwartz, a singer and songwriter, filed a $9,500 suit against the chain Monday in Hamilton County Common Pleas Court.

The mayor of Golf Manor, a Cincinnati suburb, claims the hamburger jingle was taken from a song entitled "Man's World" that he said he wrote, recorded and copyrighted in 1968.

Shelves are stuffed as a ballot box

It's a landslide-year for political books

By JULES LOH
AP Newsfeatures Writer

It's election year, book fans, and, as ever, the shelves are as stuffed as a Cook County ballot box.

You can buy books on everybody from Adlai to Zumwalt. You can buy three books on Teddy, two on Rocky, three on Wallace and one on Wallace's wife. You can buy a book by Jerry Brown on himself and one by his father on Ronald Reagan. You can even buy a book, a slim one, on "Republican Humor."

And you can buy a number of books giving you the inside dope on who's going to win the election.

One, for instance, out early this year, had a compelling premise: that the eventual nominee of a political party may with certainty be divined before the first primary election.

The author, Arthur T. Hadley, rates potential candidates in various politically critical areas — staff, financing, strategy and the like — and in some 300 pages of unflawed analysis narrows the Democratic field to "only two possible champions.

Scoop Jackson and Mo Udall. Obviously.

Alas for Jimmy Carter, "he didn't have any spectacular success on any" of the key gauges, one in particular. "His staff was his weakness."

Carter, in fact, got short shrift everywhere.

Richard Reeves was out early with a book surveying this year's field of candidates. Among Democrats, he gave 15 pages to Teddy and 20 each to Scoop and Jerry. Jimmy got peanuts — 13 lines of biography and a few scattered paragraphs.

An alert publishing industry — which turned down as not worth the gamble at least one proposal last March by a recognized author to write a Carter book — has corrected that defect.

When the Democratic National Convention opened in New York, delegates were inundated with 13,000 quickie paperbacks on the nominee. There was no escaping them. One, "The Miracle of Jimmy Carter," was delivered to delegates' hotel rooms. Another, "Jimmy Who?", was shoved on reporters as they lined up for credentials. Thus, when the convention speeches tended to pall, delegates could flip through pages and revive their spirits on such passages as this, describing one man's discovery of the Carter secret:

"'Faith!' he said aloud. 'That's it! He has faith! ... This man Carter has got the kind of faith that moves voters — millions of them.'"

Or this:

"When this year is over, the political textbooks and the history books will have to be rewritten."

History books?

The speed with which some campaign books are written is matched only by the speed in getting them printed.

Ballantine Books, for example, received the manuscript for its Carter paperback, "I'll Never Lie to You: Jimmy Carter in His Own Words," on July 6. Four days later, 700 copies were flown to New York for the convention, and two days after that books were on sale.

Publishers are mum on how much profit is in a campaign book but it's significant that the larger houses tend to keep hands off.

Publishers Weekly, the trade magazine, has surveyed booksellers for an upcoming article on how well various categories of biography sell. Historical biography came in first, literary biography second. Political biography, including learned volumes by well-known authors, was dead last.

Take Carter's autobiography, "Why Not the Best?" It was published last October by Broadman Press, a small house in Nashville which also publishes hymnals. In the early stages of the campaign the stores didn't stock it. Now it has been reissued in soft cover and has sold about 175,000 copies with another 175,000 in print.

There are some other books, out this year, upon which fate did not shine quite so brightly:

"Thoughts," by Edmund G. Brown Jr. This was out before Jerry Brown started running, and here is one of his thoughts: "I don't even want to think about the Presidency ... just being Governor is a pain in the ass." Here is another: "We're going to move left and right at the same time."

"Republican Humor," by Stephen J. Skubik and Hal E. Short. One sample by President Ford: "Betty had a rather interesting theory as to why I played center rather than quarterback. She said it's one of the few positions where you don't have to move your feet." And a sample by Ronald Reagan: "I always grew up believing that if you build a better mousetrap the world will beat a path to your door. Now if you build a better mousetrap the government comes along with a better mouse." Take your pick.

"Reagan: The Political Chameleon," by former California Gov. Edmund (Pat) Brown and Bill Brown. From one former governor to another, "Ronald Reagan's election to the presidency would be a national disaster." And similar understatements.

"C'nelia: An Intimate Selfportrait," by Cornelia Wallace. "The sunshine was shining," she records.

"On Watch," by Adm. Elmo R. Zumwalt Jr. "The President is paranoid. Kissinger is paranoid. Haig is paranoid."

"Scoop: The Life and Politics of Henry M. Jackson," by Peter Ognibene. His subject, says the author, is "a tightwad."

"The Education of a Public Man," by Hubert H. Humphrey. "To lose to Nixon. Ye Gods!"

"The Creative Balance: Government, Politics, and the Individual in America's Third Century," by Elliot Richardson. "And so, at last, I come to the one firm conviction that I mentioned at the beginning of this discussion: it is that the subject is too new for final judgments."

And so to bed. —

Chaffey board members to protest unification

Schools Supt. Mike D. Dirksen and at least three members of the Chaffey Union High School District board will attend the Aug. 18 meeting of the San Bernardino County Committee on School District Organization to file an official protest against the Ontario-Montclair district unification proposal.

The meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the Ontario-Montclair district board room at 950 W. D St., Ontario.

The Chaffey board, following a lengthy discussion on the matter Thursday night, instructed Dirksen to prepare a statement voicing its objections and present it for approval at the regular Aug. 16 meeting.

Ontario-Montclair Schools Supt. Jack Jones requested the county committee to study a proposal which would allow unification of his district's schools and Montclair, Chaffey and Ontario high schools, now in the Chaffey district.

Four members of the Chaffey board and the district's top administrators oppose the plan, feeling it would be costly and detrimental to taxpayers and to students.

Only one Chaffey board member, Ray Sarrio, defended the unification proposal, claiming "unification may help our position politically in passing tax overrides and bond elections."

Chaffey's Assistant Supt. of Business Services Russell I. Dickinson cautioned the Chaffey board not to "take this issue too lightly. Their timeline is very impressive," he said.

"They (Ontario-Montclair) are trying to move as quickly as possible. I was impressed by the way the committee is trying to get this passed, like right now.

"They made a serious proposal and they are willing to push it to the end."

Chaffey Board President G. A. Chalfant said that "on the bottom line of this thing is one guarantee. Your costs will be increased. Many facilities will have to be duplicated at greatly increased costs. It's just a bad scene all the way around."

"Everyone is concerned about taxes going up in Ontario," said Dickinson. "No one seems concerned yet about what will happen in Upland, Alta Loma and Cucamonga."

Chaffey district operates high schools in Upland and Alta Loma, both of which are overcrowded. In addition to serving the Ontario-Montclair district, it draws students from eight other elementary districts. Most of these smaller districts would be left without high schools if the plan were approved, Dickinson stressed.

Board member John Schnepp said he felt the plan would cause havoc and greatly increase costs. "The entire vocational education program would have to be duplicated," he pointed out.

"Benefits of the plan," said board member Jack Carnine, are "highly surmised and quite questionable. I've heard nothing to make the benefits worth the burden," he added.

Mrs. Martha Chapman, a board member, pointed out that Richard Pearson, president of the Ontario-Montclair school board, was also chairman of the committee assigned to study the unification plan.

In closing the discussion, Dirksen said the county committee "is looking to this board to react. I'm concerned with what this proposal does to ethnic balance, to personnel, to property, to taxes and to our funding at the high school level.

"We need to begin to list our concerns," he said. "They're looking to hear from us."

A similar unification proposal went to the voters of the Chaffey district on June 6, 1972. It went down in solid defeat in all the districts.

MAC candidates file petitions

By Phyllis Cannon
PB Staff Writer

Six Diamond Bar residents have taken out nomination petitions for the Nov. 2, Municipal Advisory Council (MAC) election.

At the election, Diamond Bar voters will decide whether a MAC should be formed to serve as an official advisory body to the Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors.

The candidates are George D. Resh, a senior marketing representative; Arthur Ragazzi, a Los Angeles County deputy district attorney; Ronald Foerspel, a Diamond Bar business owner; Bob Newsom, a Diamond Bar Realtor; Ken Pine, a business executive and member of Pomona school board; and Brenda Engdahl, wife of the Rev. Richard C. Engdahl.

A seventh resident took out nomination petitions, but said Friday he had decided he would not return them, thus removing himself from the race. He asked that his name not appear.

Candidates must be residents of Diamond Bar and registered voters. They need a minimum of 20 signatures of registered voters in Diamond Bar to have their names appear on the ballot.

The deadline for filing nomination petitions is 5 p.m. on Aug. 27. There is no filing fee. Petitions are available at the Registrar-Recorder's Office, 808 N. Spring St., Los Angeles, Room 100. The telephone number is (213) 974-6711.

If the election decision is affirmative, four council members simultaneously will be elected. A fifth council member will be appointed by the Board of Supervisors. Supervisor Pete Schabarum will make this nomination.

If MAC is approved, terms of council members will be staggered. The appointed member and the two persons receiving the most votes would serve four years.

The two candidates receiving the least number of votes would serve two years.

Resh is chairman of the MAC feasibility study and secretary of the Diamond Bar Homewoners Association, which won authorization for the election from the Board of Supervisors.

Up to a maximum of 17 candidates on the ballot will cost the community $2,000, Resh said. Of that amount, $600 has been donated. If more than 17 candidates file, the community must pay the $6,000 cost for a second ballot page.

Diamond Bar residents who wish to help pay election costs may send checks payable to Diamond Bar MAC Election Fund, P.O. Box 4085, Diamond Bar 91765.

INSPECTING GEAR FOR WILDERNESS TRIP

Library to present karate, music programs this week

The program will be held at 2 p.m. and will feature a karate class from the Pomona Parks and Recreation Department.

On Friday at the library violinist Bob Parmeter will present the first of three weekly, special musical programs for children. The 10:30 a.m. program will include gypsy music and gypsy stories.

Other children's events at the library this week include a bedtime story hour Monday at 7:30 p.m.; a preschool variety program Tuesday at 2 p.m.; T.V. Club Tuesday and Thursday at 4 p.m.; "Kid Power" Wednesday at 3:30 p.m.; and a film, "The Red Balloon," Thursday at 7 p.m.

And for Friday the 13th, "Tales of Terror" will be told by candlelight at 2:30 p.m.

For information, persons may call 620-2017.

Twenty-three students and four adult leaders from Simons Junior High School in Pomona are packed for a seven-day backpacking trip into the wilderness of the High Sierras.

Under the supervision of instructor Robert Speakman, the group will leave today and return Aug. 15.

Speakman said the trip culminates "a summer-long combined effort of students, parents and staff members." He said the school district was providing some food and had given "moral support" for the activity.

"Our trip would not have been possible without the help of the Simons' parents, the summer school staff and the office help," Speakman added.

Adults going besides Speakman, are Diana Speakman, Jerry Duffy and Jack Martin.

The motorcycle lacks the chrome trim and its wheel is turned by a leather strap rather than a chain.

But the Harley Davidson motorcycle, built in 1912, can still attain speeds up to 45 miles an hour.

Jim Rogers, 2713 Third St., La Verne, a program analyst for General Dynamics, purchased the cycle in 1970 from a Monrovia resident who had restored it.

His father actually located the ancient motorcycle and showed it to his son. "We are both motorcycle enthusiasts and we both like old things," he said.

Asked why his father didn't purchase it, Rogers replied: "This would be hard for my father to explain to his wife."

The motorcycle is powered by a one cylinder engine. Although it has no gears, the speed can be adjusted by the tension placed on the leather belt which connects the motor with the rear wheel. A lever mounted to the frame allows the rider to apply the proper tension.

Rogers said his main problem is finding parts for the cycle. In many cases, he must make his own. The owner, however, has fitted the American machine with Japanese manufactured tires.

Rogers said he doesn't know the true value of the motorcycle, but has been offered $1,800.

There are believed to be only eight or 10 cycles in the state built from 1903 when they were first produced to 1915 when the manufacturer made drastic changes.

Rogers recently took the cycle to the California Highway Patrol office in Ontario for registration.

When he purchased the motorcycle, Rogers said the state had no antique motorcycle licenses. And he added, he just found out the state now required these for the older machines.

Warning on health food teas, smokes

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A researcher has warned that hundreds of "health herbs" now sold on the market as teas and smoking substances can cause users psychiatric problems and other medical ills.

Dr. Ronald K. Siegel says consumer use of more than 192 herbs sold as smoking substances and 396 herbs and spice sold for teas has increased sharply in the last two years, as has the number of persons seeking psychiatric care following use of the herbs.

In an article in the Journal of the American Medical Association, Siegel said that analysis of one type of tobacco-substitute herbs contained enough of the drugs atropine and scopolamine to produce toxic symptoms in a user smoking six to eight cigarettes a day.

The two drugs inhibit the transmission of nerve impulses.

Siegel reported that one man complained of blurred vision and hallucinations after smoking six to eight herbel cigarettes a day for a week.

Both parties guilty of ploy

Only the actual tally of delegate ballots in Kansas City will tell whether Ronald Reagan's surprise end run around the Republican left was the key play that snatched his nomination from the jaws of imminent defeat, or whether — to pursue the football metaphor — it was the worst fumble the erstwhile "Gipper" could have made.

The impression at this juncture is that it was the latter. In blatantly attempting to capture the support of liberal Republicans by his advance tapping of Pennsylvania Sen. Richard S. Schweiker as his running mate, the conservative candidate has not only not seduced any helpful number of that state's 103 delegates but may have lost the small but crucial Mississippi delegation, while disillusioning and alienating an unknown number of other conservative Republicans — perhaps fatally.

At the very least, even if he were to be nominated, Reagan has thrown away one of the weapons he could have used to harry the Democratic nominee, Jimmy Carter. This was Carter's selection of Minnesota liberal Sen. Walter F. Mondale as his vice president, a choice which Reagan immediately cited as proof that it was the same old Democratic party, trying to be all things to all men.

Now Reagan stands guilty of the very thing he accused Carter of: throwing a sop to the liberal wing of his party to keep it happy and at the same time to appeal to the broadest possible spectrum of the electorate. But the onus is far greater on him than on Carter, for nobody has ever yet been able to categorize Carter as either "liberal" or "conservative." And anyway, the Democratic party prides itself on being the party of liberalism.

Be all that as it may, the question many people are asking is, why this oh-so-clever manipulation of the ticket by both candidates?

It had been thought that politics had progressed beyond the days when the vice presidential slot was something merely to be used to "balance" the ticket; that the voting public, if not the delegates to party conventions, had grown too sophisticated to fall for this kind of maneuver; that despite the acceptance-speech and campaign promises of nearly every recent presidential nominee, everybody knew the vice presidency is worth no more than it ever was. And that, as John Nance Garner so colorfully put it, is "a pitcher of warm spit."

Beyond presiding over the Senate and casting a vote in case of a tie in that body, the vice president has no other constitutional function than to stand by in the event the president is unable to finish his term. And even though the statistical probability of that eventuality has proven to be rather high over the years, the parties have traditionally selected a nonentity for vice president, or someone whose chief recommendation is that he "balances" the ticket, or at least wouldn't rock the boat.

The crazy thing about the Reagan ploy — although no more crazy than it ever was in the case of other tickets in history — is that if he were to be elected and were to die in office, the nation, which had chosen a conservative chief executive, would all of a sudden find itself with one of virtually the opposite ideology.

Maybe some Republican delegates would go for a Reagan-Schweiker ticket on the chance that Reagan might die in office. But the odds are still heavily against a possibility, and that much more transparent do they make Reagan's strategy appear.

Does Mr. Reagan really think that liberal Republicans, in Pennsylvania or elsewhere, are so naive as to believe that a liberal vice president would exercise any influence whatsoever over the policies and decisions of a conservative president — that they will believe they are being offered anything more than that pitcher of warm spit?

Apparently he does, and maybe he has reason to. Politics does not seem to have progressed very much after all.

Thought

"Come now, let us reason together, says the Lord: though your sins are like scarlet, they shall be as white as snow; though they are red like crimson, they shall become like wool. If you are willing and obedient, you shall eat the good of the land;" — Isaiah 1:18,19.

"He who will not reason, is a bigot; he who cannot is a fool; and he who dares not, is a slave." — William Drummond, Scottish poet.

Rebuke the beasts that dwell among the reeds, the herd of bulls with the calves of the peoples. Trample under foot those who lust after tribute; scatter the peoples who delight in war. — Psalm 68:30.

"As never before, the essence of war is fire, famine, and pestilence. They contribute to its outbreak; they are among its weapons, they become its consequences." — Dwight D. Eisenhower, 34th U.S. President.

Bingo deserves a chance

Dear Editor:

I read the letter sent in by Mrs. Henning on Aug. 2 speaking against the authorization of bingo in Pomona. I would like to write my opinion of some of the things she mentioned.

Bingo is a form of gambling. However, I don't feel that Pomona will become another Las Vegas. If it did maybe our taxes would decrease instead of soar as they just did. At any rate that certainly won't happen as long as we have closed minds such as Mrs. Henning.

The people she mentioned who play and neglect their family responsibilities, causing their children to go without necessities are the people who are going to find some other form of gambling, whether it is playing cards or betting on the horses at the race track or with the neighborhood bookie.

The foregoing do exist in this valley. A million dollar booking ring was busted some months ago. And there are probably many more operating unknown. So it really doesn't make any difference whether the games are legal or illegal. If the people want to play they will play.

As for the ordinance inviting organized crime, I don't think so because it is already here. What does Mrs. Henning think these burglary and dope rings are? These are far worse crimes. So if there is going to be organized crime, there will be organized crime, regardless. I bet Mrs. Henning doesn't know Las Vegas has far less crime than we do.

As for the speakers who spoke up and admitted they had been playing bingo illegally for years, I feel that if they spoke up it must have been for a good reason. And adults admitting to a wrong is not the reason for juvenile delinquency. The reason is today's youths don't have anything constructive to do, and they don't have guidance. Their parents are too wrapped up in their problems to guide them.

I have been to several bingo parties and at least half of the people there are senior citizens. This allows them some form of recreation, and it really doesn't cost that much to play. I wonder if Mrs. Henning has ever gone to any of the bingo parties.

If she has then maybe she knows they are not as evil as she makes them sound. I'm sure more people benefit from some of these agencies than she thinks. I'm sure she could find out if she made a few phone calls and asked how much goes to charities.

Something good or bad can come of anything, like a life or death. But anything deserves a chance.

Mrs. Charles Johnson

Demos favored Ford as VP

WASHINGTON — Now that President Ford appears to have the Republican nomination safely tied up, Democrats are clearing their throats for the campaign oratory to come. They intend to portray him as a lackadaisical leader and to condemn him for pardoning Richard Nixon.

Yet the truth is that the Democrats had a lot to do with catapulting Ford into the White House and encouraging him to pardon Nixon. We have the evidence.

After Spiro Agnew was forced out as vice president, Nixon wanted to appoint John Connally in his place. But the Democratic leaders in Congress made it clear that Connally couldn't get confirmed. Then Nixon began to weigh other prospects — William Rogers, Melvin Laird, Nelson Rockefeller, William Scranton, and even Ronald Reagan.

But it was Gerald Ford, the favorite in the cloakrooms of Congress, who got the appointment. Afterward, Speaker Carl Albert boasted: "I think I was the first in Congress to tell the President that Jerry would be the easiest candidate to sell to the House. He's a very fine man to work with."

As the first appointed vice president in history, Ford was put through the wringer. His entire life was investigated by the FBI. Agents conducted more than 1,000 interviews. Among those questioned were such staunch Democrats as Senators Hubert Humphrey, D.-Minn., George McGovern, D.-S.D., Edmund Muskie, D.-Me., Henry Jackson, D.-Wash., Phil Hart, D.-Mich. and James Eastland, D.-Miss.

In these background FBI interviews, they expressed strong support for Ford's nomination. "Ford is a man of excellent character, possesses unquestionable integrity, trustworthiness and patriotism," McGovern told the FBI on Oct. 17, 1973. Humphrey said he had known Ford since 1949 and considered him to be honest and capable.

Muskie said he didn't know "anything of an adverse nature" about Ford. "He has bipartisan support in every respect," the senator from Maine informed the FBI.

Senators Jackson, Hart and Eastland had equally nice things to tell the FBI about Ford. Even auto worker's boss Leonard Woodcock, now one of the powers behind Jimmy Carter, assured the FBI that Ford "has the capacity to bring a torn country together."

What these Democratic leaders told the FBI in 1973 isn't what they plan to say about Ford in the 1976 campaign. They intend to make a campaign issue, for example, of the Nixon pardon.

Yet two years ago, some leading Democrats had the same views as Ford about punishing the fallen Nixon. Rep. Robert McClory, R.-Ill., a key member of the House Impeachment Committee, recorded what these Democrats told him.

On Aug. 7, 1974, just two days before Nixon quit, House Judiciary Chairman Peter Rodino, D.-N.J., is quoted in McClory's diary as saying "that he did not have any desire to prosecute the President beyond the time of removal from office or resignation and that he was not interested in any criminal prosecution."

The same view, according to McClory's diary, was expressed by Rep. Don Edwards, D.-Calif. "Both he and Rodino indicated that they wanted to communicate this to 'my guys' (the Republican leadership), which I did this morning," wrote McClory.

Speaker Albert also told McClory that "resignation was sufficient penalty and that he would advise against any subsequent criminal proceedings involving the President."

Footnote: The Speaker denied pledging to help block any prosecution of Nixon. Edwards said he didn't recall the specific conversation but acknowledged "there was an attitude" to let Nixon off after the resignation. Rodino was unavailable for comment.

CARPET CHEATS: Americans spent more than $2.3 billion last year for residential carpet. But a Senate investigation of the carpet industry has found that the purchasers often don't get what they pay for.

"No other home furnishing item appears to involve as much misunderstanding on the part of consumers or is fraught with such abuse at their expense," Sen. Charles Percy, R.-Ill., has written privately to Federal Trade Chairman Calvin Collier.

Citing the results of his Senate study, Percy urged the FTC to adopt new industry guidelines. The Senator, however, got the brush off. Now he will offer the guidelines to the industry. If the carpet companies won't accept them voluntarily, he may introduce legislation to control carpet marketing.

Carter from Nebraska?

Question: Will Jimmy Carter, peanut farmer from Georgia, carry the Deep South? Unquestionably.

Question: Would the same James Carter, if he were a wheat farmer from Nebraska, carry the deep South? Right now Dixie is caught up in almost unanimous regional enthusiasm for "a Southern President."

In Georgia many or most will concede that Jimmy could not again have been elected to state office, yet his home state will close ranks behind his bid for the Presidency.

In Alabama and Mississippi where Jimmy Carter had been considered much "too liberal," he is now considered "a Southern Democrat," "one of us."

In recent elections Southerners have departed from the party of their parents, figuring conservative fiscal policy more important than political tradition. But they've been uncomfortable as Republicans, yearning to be able to vote as Democrats again.

Now they can — and they will — even though to contribute to a party mandate nationally may return to Congress a host of "wild-eyed spenders" of whom the South disapproves.

So it makes for fascinating conjecture to imagine their party's candidate to be "James Carter, Nebraska Democrat, wheat farmer." Imagine that he has this same running mate. Assume him to have identical Carter convictions on crucial issues.

He supports the Humphrey-Hawkins bill. He would maintain the Voting Rights Act and other civil rights legislation. He would not seek a constitutional amendment to prohibit abortion. He favors increased federal aid to education.

He would not seek to end busing with a constitutional amendment. He favors national health care insurance.

He promises to reduce the number of federal government bureaus from 1,900 to 200. He would withdraw American ground forces from South Korea and reconsider our troop commitment to NATO.

In labor disputes involving teachers, firemen and policemen, he favors binding arbitration — with the right-to-strike only if the employer rejects the arbitration.

He suggests full pardon for draft evaders, case-by-case consideration for deserters. He is a fundamentalist Baptist. Back to the question — if this were James Carter, Democrat, Nebraska wheat farmer, would Dixie vote for him?

With his "moderate" program, probably yes. He'd still be a fresh face — he'd still be unidentified with the discredited political establishment, he'd still be talking unashamedly, and apparently totally sincerely, about old-fashioned virtues — and he'd still be a Democrat.

I don't know. This time I'd be interested to know what you think. Or, more significantly, what "y'all" think.

Doc Peirsol

Just in jest

The red blooded All-American boy isn't too interested these days in growing up and becoming President of the United States. In most instances he would much rather settle for a Congressional office. And if you must know the reason why, here's how one young public office opportunist explains it.

"Where else," he asks, "can one draw down real important on the job pay and expense money and at the same time participate in some rather unusual 'retirement' benefits?"

Rebuttal

Accuses Tiede of tall tales

Editor's note: Consumer advocate Ralph Nader has taken exception to a profile of him written by NEA Washington columnist Tom Tiede which appeared in the July 12 issue of the Progress Bulletin. In keeping with NEA's policy of fair rebuttal to any material appearing in its service, we present the following letter.

Tom Tiedes' recent column on our activities is so replete with mistakes that he deserves to be rescued from his own dis-service to readers. Herewith is a partial correction list:

1. We have recognized, contrary to his misstatement, many positive performances or groups in this country; in fact, we put some of these descriptions in a book entitled "So Proudly We Hail" (by Kenneth Lasson, Grossman Publishers, 1975). If you had asked, Tom Tiede, you would have learned.

2. College students do not send us money from their school fees and never have; they finance their own citizen groups, called public interest research groups, with such contributions all over the country. They fund the groups and run them by themselves. Tiede could have easily verified this if be had wanted to.

3. The press is not manipulated to praise our views; can you give any examples, Mr. Tiede, or are you simply trying to be humorous?

4. We do not favor greater control over law abiding private industry, only more 'law and order' against corporate crimes, consumer gouging, monopolies, pollution and other similar violations against the public.

5. We never lobbied for the seatbelt buzzers. We lobbied for seatbelts and now for the even more effective air bag systems.

6. We never lobbied for the interlock seatbelt system; that was done by the Ford Motor Company which, among several reasons, did not want to install air bags.

7. We don't think it is arrogant to go to court to defend the rights of airline passengers with confirmed reservations who find there are no seats available for them when they reach the gate. The airlines know how to deal with the no-show problem without penalizing the passengers who do show up. One airline, Eastern, found an answer several years ago to the no-show problem by offering conditional reservations to passengers who would normally be overbooked.

8. Like Tiede's other statements, there is no evidence for absurdly asserting that stopping airline overbooking increases airline rates.

9. Massachusetts election officials were not accused of "conspiring" to put my name on the presidential primary ballot. I criticized them for arbitrarily taking the names of non-partisan public figures and putting them on the ballot to make the primary more interesting to voters. This is unfair both to partisan candidates on the ballot and non-partisan citizens who, without even being consulted, are placed on a particular party (Democrat in this case) ballot.

10. Even journalists, under the first amendment, are not permitted by the law to engage in actionable libel. Mr. Tiede knows this and should have shared it with readers.

11. We advocate more competitive free enterprise and more consumer owned businesses, such as consumer cooperatives. Mr. Tiede's identifying our views with those of Mr. Galbraith's on the economy indicates that he has trouble reading well as writing accurately.

There are other errors in his column but the ones just described are sufficient to suggest that the columnist may have missed his calling. He should try fiction, clearly labeled as "Tom Tiede's Tall Tales."

Make trips short ones

CAUTION CONCERNING CAT CARRIERS . . .

. . . or, for that matter, carriers for any animal. This time of year, any carrier used must have PLENTY of ventilation to postpone heat buildup in such a confined area. The best type of carrier for this purpose has one side with screen only. For some long-coated or particularly excitable cats, however, screening on two sides would be preferable. The smaller the carrier in proportion to the animal inside, the more rapid the temperature build-up within that confined space. With some of the smaller carriers, depending upon a couple of holes in either end for ventilation, there's simply no trip quick enough to be safe. Within minutes, temperature build-up can reach dangerous levels. During hot, humid weather, even the well-ventilated carrier should be used for as short a time as possible.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Something very sad happened to our puppy. He died in some kind of fit. Before that, he was very restless and yappy, and he chewed a lot with frothy saliva even when he wasn't eating. Which, by the way, he didn't do much of for a while there. Sometimes he'd scream if we'd just go near him, so we didn't. What do you think this was that killed him? — B.T.

DEAR B.T.: While the symptoms you described could be due to other causes, they are quite typical for distemper, so much so, in fact, that I'd guess your puppy hadn't received distemper shots and that is or was indeed the distemper virus which caused his miserable illness and death. If so, the same thing would occur to another unprotected puppy in the same environment.

Check with a local veterinarian on home cleanup procedures, waiting period, and prior vaccinations for a new puppy, should you decide to try again. It's all too often a tragic mistake to consider distemper shots unimportant or something which can be put off until later. Don't bring another puppy into your home without that protection.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Can tropical fish get sleeping sickness? My favorite black mollie sure acts like he has. — R.V.

DEAR R.V.: It's possible. Trypanosoms do cause sleeping sickness in fish. This disease, however, is not passed directly from fish, but must go through a cycle involving a leech. Since leeches are unlikely in your aquarium, odds are your mollie's malaise is caused by something else.

DEAR DR. MILLER: I know hummingbirds are terribly small, but can you give me a comparison with something I really know? — S.H.

DEAR S.H.: Many adult hummingbirds, minus feathers, are the size of a bumblebee. The ruby-throated hummingbird weighs, including feathers, no more than a penny. But the bug-sized babies (usually two) hatch from bean-sized eggs.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Avoid trying to run the whole show if you're doing something with your group today. Your pals won't appreciate the heavy hand.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Be certain the goals you're striving for at this time are really worth your efforts. You could win a hollow victory.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You're not likely to hold the opinions of others in proper regard today. Take care lest you put down someone whose help you may later need.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Normally you have a keen assessment of the value of things. Your judgment today is faulty. Delay purchases until another time.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) This is not one of your better days to put agreements together. You'll run into serious opposition. Do nothing unless there's complete harmony.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) The boss will be looking over your shoulder today. Do a good job. He is apt to be very critical and won't tolerate mistakes.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) One who knows how to read you may try to manipulate you through clever pressure tactics today. Forewarned is forearmed.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You could try to run too tight a ship at home today and thereby create problems. Discipline is fine when it includes compassion.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Try to avoid political or philosophical discussion with an opinionated associate today. Each will say things he'll later regret.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) An old obligation may surface today to cause you some discomfort. You could make matters worse if you don't attend to it promptly.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) It would be foolish to let another make a major decision for you today. Things affecting you personally you must thrash out yourself.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Pay reasonable attention to sensible health habits today. Avoid foods or beverages known to disagree with you.

Your Birthday Aug. 9, 1976:

Involve yourself more in creative pursuits this year, either as a hobby or vocation. It could turn out to be a surprisingly strong suit for you.

Ann Landers

Lost her priest's respect

Dear Ann Landers: I am married to a splendid, loving man. I would do anything in the world to please him. Because of this I am now in a very embarrassing situation.

We can't get by on my husband's paycheck so I have taken a part-time job in a Catholic rectory. It is a pleasant place to work and I have the respect of all the priests in the house — at least I DID have until a few days ago.

My husband sometimes asks me to do unusual things to get him excited sexually. So long as it involves only the two of us I feel it is perfectly all right to accommodate him. Last Thursday he asked me to dress up like a street-walker and meet him at a certain place. I agreed. While I stood on the corner, with a ton of makeup, wearing a miniskirt, black net stockings, suede platforms and a padded bra, one of the pastors from the rectory came by. Rarely is he at a loss for words, but when he saw me he gasped, stopped dead in his tracks, gulped hard and hurried on.

The following day, this lovely man was very cool to me. I'm just sick about it and don't know what to do. Shall I explain the circumstances to him and hope he understands? — Not A Happy Hooker

Dear Not: Keep quiet. In order to justify yourself you'd have to squeal on your husband. Let's hope the priest has heard about costume parties and thinks you were headed for one.

Dear Ann: A friend gave me a kitten she had been hiding for two weeks. They already had three cats and two dogs. Her husband threatened to throw her out of the house WITH the animals if she took in one more.

The "kitten" is now ten months old and has caused more damage than I can describe in one letter. I have scars on my arms, legs and face from the scratches. Several pieces of furniture have been ripped to shreds. My carpets are permanently stained. The cat has attacked guests and scared several small children. Is it possible that he is mentally disturbed?

I love animals and have never had one I couldn't train or make friends with. Please tell me what to do. I am — Baffled

Dear Baff: Animals can be mentally disturbed, same as humans. From your description, you may well have a psychotic cat on your hands. Take him to a veterinarian for evaluation and counsel.

Dear Ann: I married a kind, considerate, thoughtful man. It's the second marraige for both Ben and me. We are in our 50s.

Ben's children are in their 20s. He has given them cars, paid their golf fees, continues to hand over spending money and buy them luxuries. Nobody works. They are all in college (for which their father pays, of course).

When I point out that his kids are taking advantage of him he becomes sullen and uncommunicative. Our marriage would be perfect if it weren't for this problem. What should I do? — Clear View

Dear Clear: Lay off. Your husband knows you are right but he can't help himself. His relationship with his children was established long before he met you.

The principal reason for second-marriage failures is kids. So watch it, dear, lest you become a statistic.

Parents, what should you do if your teenager is having sexual relations? Ann Landers' new booklet, "High School Sex And How To Deal With It — A Guide For Teens And Their Parents," gives no-nonsnse advice on how to handle this delicate situation. For each booklet, send 50 cents in coin plus a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Illinois 60120.

Erma Bombeck

More sewer than prairie

In our town, "Mary Hartman, Mary Hartman" comes on somewhere between The Star-Spangled Banner and man's tribute to flight.

Because of the nature of the material, they wanted to make sure all the parents were in bed and the kids glued to the TV set.

As I told the children the other morning, "I'm supposed to be using parental discretion, but I'm too dragged to discret."

"It's all right, Mom," they said. "If there was anything for you to make a decision on, we'd awaken you."

"Yes, Dayton. What bothers me is why they put it on so late."

"Who knows? There's this sweet grandfather who wears a raincoat, Mary's husband, who's your ordinary blue-collar worker, and a young girl seeking conversion."

"Conversion to what?" I asked suspiciously.

"One of your top three faiths."

"It sounds like 'The Waltons,' " I said. "Why does the grandfather wear a raincoat?"

"Grandad has a raincoat, doesn't he?" they grinned.

"Yes, of course. What does Mary do all day?"

"She's just your average stay-at-home housewife, like you. With the puffed sleeves and the dustmop."

"Sounds dull."

"It is. Some nights we can hardly keep awake."

"Then why do you?"

"We're trying to get a better understanding of your life, Mom. We never realized before what it was like to stay at home and just be normal, average housewife."

"It has its moments."

I thought I saw them nudge one another and giggle.

"Tell me," I said, "do they ever get into the good work we housewives do, like visiting the sick in the hospital?"

"Oh yeah," said our youngest, his eyes glistening.

"It doesn't sound like any more sex and violence to me than 'Wild Kingdom,' " I said.

Dr. Lamb

Hypoglycemia her problem

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have a number of health problems I am having to cope with and thought you might help, along with what my doctor has advised. Five months ago I was put into the hospital for extensive tests and the doctor diagnosed my problem as "profound hypoglycemia" and I was put on a special diet. I was given the glucose tolerance test for a four-hour interval. My fasting sugar was 50, then went straight up to very high levels and came rapidly straight down. It would have continued dropping had the test not been ended. The doctor said that I could not have taken it any longer. I went into a bad reaction with trembling, sweating, chills, dizziness and I couldn't talk plainly. He also had an upper and lower X ray of my digestive system and ran a lot of blood tests.

This all began when I had the mumps at age 19. I lost a lot of weight and my menstrual cycles stopped for more than a year. Now I have my condition under control with proper diet.

I have a severe milk tolerance that causes diarrhea and painful gas. Also I have low blood pressure with readings of 80 over 50 but my heart is fine. I bruise easily.

The doctor has ordered diet, vigorous exercise and extra vitamins.

I am a 24-year-old female, 5 feet 3 and weigh 122 pounds. My first child was born eight months ago. Any information or help would be appreciated. What would you suggest about diet, vitamins, exercise, etc?

DEAR READER — You have a good doctor and I certainly agree with his diagnosis. Many people get a diagnosis of hypoglycemia who do not have it at all. You have both features needed for a correct diagnosis, low glucose levels with symptoms occurring at the same time. The symptoms you had are fairly specific fof hypoglycemia, particularly the difficulty in talking which suggests that your brain cells were not functioning normally because of the low blood glucose level.

Many people have symptoms that suggest hypoglycemia, but those symptoms of trembling and sweating can also be from other things, that cause a release of adrenaline, including anxiety. Other people have low blood glucose tests and have no symptoms and should never be diagnosed as low blood sugar. You must have both at the same time to show what is really happening.

I would suspect that your mumps a few years ago affected your pancreas. Low blood glucose is a symptom, not a diagnosis, even when it is well documented as in your case. The rest of the tests were necessary for your doctor to understand what was causing the low blood glucose. Many things can, including liver disease and even previous surgery on the stomach. I am sending you The Health Letter number 3-9, Low Blood Sugar: Hypoglycemia for more complete information. Others who want this information can send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope and 50 cents for it. Just address your letter to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

You'll have to avoid milk and all milk products. But you could use butter or margarine since they contain none of the lactose that is causing your problem with milk. The exercise may help as long as you stick to a good diet designed for hypoglycemia. Comments about diet are included in The Health Letter you are getting.

South's jump to five diamonds was one of those premature saves. The game was team of four with IMP scoring and he felt that his opponents could make four spades. On the other he thought he would be set more than three tricks at five diamonds. His main hope was to get East and West to try five spades which he flet might beat.

West thought about five spades, but passed so that when it came to East he was able to make the correct decision and doubled.

The defense collected five tricks for a plus of 500 points.

South was mighty proud of himself. Four spades bid and made would have been worth 620 points to his opponents.

At least he was proud of himself until the results came in from the other table. At that table South bid just four diamonds and West went to four spades.

North opened the deuce of diamonds against that four-spade contract. South won and led back the king of hearts. West could do no better than play his ace. He led a spade. North hopped up with the ace and played queen and one heart to set the spade game.

Ask the Jacobys

An Illinois reader wants to know if three clubs is a forcing bid in the sequence between partners of one spade — two daimonds — three clubs.

The answer is that in all modern versions of standard American the three-club rebid over partner's two-diamond response shows additional values and the bid is a one-round force.

Glad you asked

Q: I hear that, of all places, Paris — famous for the French postcards of past years — is now cracking down on porno movies. Is this true? — Charles Nelson, Richmond, Va.

A: Not entirely. Alarmed at the spread of porno material throughout the city, the French government decided to confine X-movies, books, etc., to designated sexpo "ghettos." An estimated 40 per cent of all films being produced in France (though heavily taxed) are concerned with larger-than-life sexual foreplay and dalliance.

Q: I'm curious. In what part of the country are the most fat people living? — Grace Cardona, Flushing, N.Y.

A: In the Midwest, according to the Diet Workshop. This nationally franchised weight-control group conducted a survey based on a thousand people with a projected average of 47.9 pounds to lose. Results: new members of sample classes in the Midwest had an average 56.9 pounds to melt, the East was second with 46.2, the South with 45.8, and the West last with 42.7.

Q: What kind of teenager was Winston Churchill? — M. L. W., Milwaukee.

A: "In retrospect," he once said, "those years formed not only the least agreeable, but the only barren and unhappy period of my life . . . A time of discomfort, restrictions, worries and purposeless monotony."

A: Yes — a billion more — for a total of over 600 billion. The FTC, alarmed at the increase, has suggested that Congress make the scare warning on every pack a little scarier. Instead of gently cautioning smokers that "cigarettes could be injurious to your health," the agency wants to come out flatly and warn: "Smoking may result in your death." Or perhaps illustrate the warning with the old skull-and-crossbones symbol you once saw on bottles of poison.

Q: We've heard of show business brothers and sisters having different last names. But it seems so silly that Karen Black's sister's name should be Brown. Is it? — S. P. J., Park Ridge, Ill.

Flexibility is key to Canada's health insurance success

OTTAWA, Canada (AP) — While the United States debates national health insurance, Canada has developed a government-financed program that permits unlimited care for nearly every Canadian.

"Canadian experts believe that flexibility is a key reason for success — flexibility in the doctor-patient relationship and in the patient's right to enter the hospital of his choice.

"The doctor remains free to choose his patient and the patient remains free to choose his doctor, and that's extremely important," says Pierre Gravelle, assistant deputy minister of health.

In the Canadian program, there are no limits on hospital treatment or length of stay; in short, none of the deductibles so much a part of Blue Cross, the principal private hospital insurance in the United States.

"We've forgotten what it's like to be hit with a devastating medical bill," said a Toronto writer, Mrs. Marilyn Dunlap, whose son suffered a serious head injury requiring surgery and intensive care. "When I took him home, my total bill was $12 for renting a TV set."

The hospitals — most of them still privately owned by community organizations — send their bills to the government, not the patients. So do Canada's doctors, whose fees give them an average income of $45,000 a year.

Hospital rates are tied to annual cost budgets submitted by each hospital for government approval. Doctor fees are fixed periodically through a system of collective bargaining with each of Canada's 10 provincial governments. The provinces run the national health program under federally - established minimum standards. Their general tax revenues finance 50 per cent of the cost while the federal government pays the remaining 50 per cent.

In the United States, Blue Shield, the private insurance system that pays doctor bills for more than 75 million Americans, uses a reimbursement formula that encourages doctors to increase their fees in order to increase their Blue Shield reimbursement. Medicare uses a similar payment system, but with more restrictions on increases.

Fewer than half of the 73 Blue Cross plans, covering more than 85 million people in the United States, negotiate in advance the hospital rates they reimburse. The rest either pay what a hospital charges, or audit a hospital's bills after they're received.

Despite the unlimited insured care, Canada spends less per capita on doctors and hospitals than the United States. For 1973, the latest comparative figures available, the cost was $371.54 per person in Canada and $472.11 in the United States. For Canadians, this expense was 8.8 per cent of average personal income; for Americans, 9.4 per cent. (Blue Cross and Blue Shield paid about 30 per cent of the U.S. total. Patients paid 35 per cent and federal, state and local governments financed the rest.)

Nevertheless, Canada's health program, developed in stages starting in 1948, is beginning to suffer from rising costs.

"With the inflationary wage settlements of 1974 and 1975, hospital costs began to rise at more than 20 per cent per annum. This has moderated to an increase of 13 to 14 per cent for 1976-77," says Dr. Robert A. Armstrong, director general of health insurance for the Department of National Health and Welfare. Doctor fees have gone up eight to nine per cent in the past year, Dr. Armstrong said.

In the United States the Consumer Price Index for a recent 12-month period showed that hospital costs had increased 15 per cent. Physician fees had climbed 12 per cent.

The Canadian government has taken one step to control the open-ended financial arrangement, and other changes are planned, Gravelle says. In June last year, the minister of finance said the ministry would limit to 13 per cent annually the amount of increase it would accept for its share of hospital costs in each province. The 13 per cent would apply to the 1975-76 fiscal year. The percentage will be 10.5 for '76-'77.

As part of the general rethinking, Marc Lelonde, minister of national health and welfare, says, "The government of Canada now intends to give to human biology, the environment and lifestyle as much attention as it has to the financing of the health care organization so that all four avenues to improved health care are pursued with equal vigor."

While nearly all of Canada's 23 million people participate in the national health insurance program, only about 80 per cent of the U.S. population under 65 has health insurance of some kind, and the majority of the insured are from families with incomes of $10,000 or more,

Spotlight on spying

By JOHN MOORE

THE SPYMASTERS. The True Story of Anglo-American Intelligence Operations within Nazi Germany, 1939-1945. By Charles Whiting. Saturday Review Press. $8.95.

Recent revelations about America's espionage establishment have raised serious questions regarding the validity of spy organizations in a democratic society.

John A. Moore, Jr. is associate professor of Social Sciences at Cal Poly, Pomona.)

Charles Whiting's book does not directly address those questions. Nevertheless, it tells us some things we ought to know about espionage. AS Whiting notes, Franklin Roosevelt suspected that intelligence agencies were unnecessary if not irrelevant. Although the author would like to prove the opposite, his book seems to support Roosevelt.

The book is short, based on a few personal interviews, and on some personal observations. At best, its anecdotes may appeal to those who believe intelligence operations are run as the Marx brothers might have done it.

Consider, for example, these projects of the newly organized Office of Strategic Services (the wartime American precursor to the CIA): plans to release from a submarine a load of bats along the Japanese coast so they could fly into the shade of a million homes carrying small incendiary bombs; attempts to drive Hitler mad by dropping massive amounts of pornographic literature on the Berchtesgaden; a proposal to implant Hitler's food with female sex hormones so that his mustache would fall off and his voice become soprano.

None of these activities seems to have brought the war to a close any sooner, and even when the intelligence agencies came up with something spectacular it was either ineffectual or based on erroneous information.

Two episodes will suffice to underscore the point.

First, the British Secret Intelligence Service discovered late in the war that the Germans were producing in Poland several V-2s (embryonic guided missiles). The main result of this disclosure was to cause inter-departmental arguments about how significant the discovery was. Some SIS members believed the V-2s were uninportant; others advocated the evacuation of London. The government did nothing, the war on the continent went on, and between September, 1944 and March, 1945, 1000 V-2s fell on London. The SIS had made no differences.

An equally remarkable discovery was made by Allen Dulles, the OSS man in Berne, Switzerland. Dulles, later to head the CIA, reported in early 1945 his suspicions that the Germans were building a vast "National Redoubt" in the Alps in South Germany, to which the Nazi leadership and Army would retreat, never to surrender.

Of course, Dulles was wrong. But Whiting's interpretation of this misguided espionage is more damaging to history than the mistake itself, for he maintains that Dulles; incorrect assessment caused Eisenhower to fan out his forces south instead of heading straight for Berlin, thus allowing the Red Army to take the German capital first.

Thriller 'hooks' reviewer

By Phil Thomas

HIGH STAKES. By Dick Francis. Harper & Row. 201 Pages $7.95.

Dick Francis really must be unique. He writes thrillers that prove gripping to readers who normally wouldn't be caught dead, or alive for that matter, reading a thriller. And he writes them consistently.

The latest in his long string of winners is "High Stakes," a most satisfying novel that blends horse racing, the sport of kings, with the not-so-noble practice of fixing horse races. The book also contains a dash of barely graphic sex, a lot of violence, and a most revealing expose as to just how easy it is to fix a horse race.

The central character of this engaging tale, which whips along as smoothly and as quickly as a thoroughbred running free, is Steven Scott, wealthy inventor of toys who has taken to dabbling in buying horses and racing them.

Scott is the good guy, but he looks pretty bad, at least to the horsy set, after he sacks his trainer, Jody Leeds, for pulling some financial hanky-panky, such as padding the feed bills, etc. Unfortunately, for Scott, Jody manages to get his side of the story — slanted of course — out first and Scott comes off looking the villain.

If that's not insult enough, Scott then discovers that Jody has also been setting him up to make big bets, claiming they were a sure thing, and then fixing it so he loses them.

Scott, of course, is less than pleased with Jody. Jody is mad enough to kill Scott. A collision is inevitable and it comes, but before it does Francis introduces the reader to a sparkling cast of characters and involves them all in his dandy little story.

Book continues fall of Richard Nixon

NEA Book Critic

THE FINAL DAYS by Bob Woodworth and Carl Bernstein. Simon & Schuster, $10.95.

Waves of Watergate are still breaking in the form of instant histories, almost-factual fiction by offenders, and novels set in a scandal-ridden Washington.

It may be a measure of our cynicism that what intrigues most today is not dishonesty in public office, but intimate details of how the guilty are tracked and toppled from the peak of power and prestige.

Washington Post reporters Bob Woodward and Carl Bernstein, who described the thrill of the hunt in "All the President's Men," have also written the scenario of "The Final Days" of President Nixon.

The book begins with a description of the "extraordinary mission" undertaken by White House legal counselors Leonard Garment and J. Fred Buzhardt to urge the then-President of the U.S. to resign.

That date was Nov. 3, 1973, and it took Mr. Nixon almost 10 more months to accept his fate.

Perhaps the final irony of the story is that to the bitter end, Nixon never fully recognized the impropriety of his actions or understood the shocked response of the Amercian people.

"The Final Days" is an astonishing account — not so much for the titillating tidbits of gossip (Nixon carrying on a conversation with portraits of his predecessors hanging on White House walls) — as for the recreation of the atmosphere of an administration ridden with paranoia and contempt for its public.

Nearly 400 people were Woodward and Bernstein's sources for this book about the unraveling of Watergate and a president.

Although those interviewed are never identified, the authors could not have reconstructed page after page of dialogue and inner-most thoughts if they had not talked directly to most of the key figures, including the President's son-in-law, his barber, his lawyers, and especially to Alexander Haig, who apparently orchestrated the resignation.

Two days before his resignation, Nixon summoned Secretary of State Kissinger to the White House. "The President broke down and sobbed . . . How had it come to this? What has happened? . . . Finally the President struggled to his feet . . . the storm had passed."

Because it confirms our worst suspicions about the Nixon administration, "The Final Days" is fascinating and perhaps perversely satisfying reading.

Presidential press secretary Ron Ziegler is portrayed as a martinet who abused his staff. President Nixon, the authors suggest, was responsible for those missing 18 minutes on an oval office tape.

"In Canada, the poor have been brought into the mainstream of care," says Dr. Samuel Wolfe of Columbia University in New York, a Canadian doctor who helped set up the health insurance plan in Saskatchewan Province.

Because of the cost of health care in the United States (Blue Cross and Blue Shield coverage for a single family often is between $50 and $75 monthly), there is pressure for a national health insurance program. More than a dozen proposals have been introduced in Congress.

The closest to the Canadian system is the Kennedy-Corman health security plan, sponsored by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and Rep. James C. Corman, D-Calif. It would provide comprehensive hospital and doctor insurance, without deductibles, financed entirely from tax revenues.

Other bills have been backed by the American Medical Association, The American Hospital Association and the Republican administration. All have deductibles and would be financed through a combination of private insurance and government funds. Cost control is a major issue in all of the proposals.

The first step in the development of the Canadian system came in 1948 — a $500 million grant program to upgrade hospitals, research facilities and medical schools. Canada now has 155,000 hospital beds, or seven per 1,000 population compared with five per 1,000 in the United States. Of the Canadian hospital beds, 130,000 are in facilities built, renovated or equipped since 1948 in accordance with government standards.

A decade later, in 1958, the second step was formation of the Hospital Insurance and Diagnostic Services Program, at a time when the hospitals were having financial difficulties. Expensive technological innovations were needed, workers were demanding higher wages and private insurance wasn't sufficient to insure enough income for hospitals.

Two basic principles of the hospital insurance program were maintenance of traditional forms of ownership of hospitals and provincial autonomy in managing health care.

Dr. Armstrong says that today "90 per cent of Canadian hospitals and 94 per cent of the beds are still owned and governed by private voluntary agencies."

To insure quality care, federal legislation required the provinces to develop a system of inspecting and licensing hospitals. Many hospitals in those days, especially the smaller ones and those in small towns, were understaffed and ill-equipped.

At first, the hospital program was financed in the provinces by charging premiums. But by the early 1960s this approach was abandoned in most provinces as inefficient. Today, general revenue finances hospital care in all 10 provinces and doctor benefits in seven.

The final stage in the development of the national system began in the early 1960s when a Royal Commission on Health Services, the Hall Commission, was established.

To the dismay of the Canadian Medical Association, the commission strongly recommended a universal and government-run medical program.

The CMA had hoped the commission would recommend that the government merely supplement the private insurance system, as the AMA has proposed for the United States. "However," Dr. Armstrong says, "the commission had found that the premiums charged by private insurers were much higher than necessary to cover claims."

Federal legislation in 1968 launched the government's insurance program for doctor's fees and related medical services. On Jan. 1, 1971, New Brunswick became the final province to put a plan into effect.

Dr. Armstrong says that one of the common predictions was that Canada would cease to be an attractive country for medical practice.

"In fact, what happened was that the immigration of doctors from abroad more than doubled — it went up from an average of around 600 a year to about 1,400 a year within several years of the passage of the act."

Today, Canada has one doctor for every 630 people, compared with one for 857 population in 1961 and one for 769 in 1968. The U.S. doctor-population ratio is about the same as Canada's today.

Another common prediction was that doctors would be swamped with patients when the doctor insurance — called Medicare — went into effect.

"When Medicare first came in, there was some increase in the demand for services in most parts of the country, largely because the previously uninsured and those who had had inadequate insurance now had the same financial access to care as the more affluent," Dr. Armstrong said.

"Bringing in universal health insurance," he adds, "does not result in one additional case of illness. You may find one additional case you weren't aware of, and maybe that's a good thing."

Kansas City...

Sections of that downtown area are catching up with the times. Old buildings are being torn down and 20 and 30-story office buildings are going up in their place. The dominant attraction in the downtown area is Crown Center, a major office and shopping complex.

The old burlesque where, according to Rodgers and Hammerstein, "for 50 cents you can see a dandy show," is now boarded up — a preservation society the only thing between it and oblivion. Across the street and down the block is the Radisson Muehlebach Hotel, long the focal point of political gatherings, although Ford and his challenger, Ronald Reagan, opted for more modern quarters.

Between the Folly Burlesque Theater and the Muehlebach is a strip of go-go joints that city officials keep talking about tearing down to make room for a plush new hotel. Kansas City vice officers recently tried to rid the area of prostitutes, without success.

The vice crackdowns are not unlike the crackdowns of the '20s — only then the law was after illicit booze.

For the conventioneer looking for a drink, it all depends on where you're at. Missouri allows liquor by the drink, while Kansas remains a dry state. That means those staying on the Kansas side of the state line — and thousands will be — will have to go through the charade of joining the liquor pool at the hotel where they're staying or go to a private club at the invitation of a member.

Dodgers can't stop Big Red Machine

By BILL LANGLEY
PB Sports Editor

LOS ANGELES — There seems to be no stopping the Cincinnati Reds once they get the National League West pennant in sight.

The Reds are roaring now in the final two months of the season and the second-place Los Angeles Dodgers are currently paying the price.

Cincinnati, which has won 19-of-25 since the All-Star Game break and 10 of its last 11, opened up a 12-game lead over the Dodgers with a 4-1 victory Saturday night in sweeping the first three games of a crucial four-game series for the Dodgers.

There seems to be no stopping the Big Red Machine at this time as the poised world champions are proving their point by whipping the Dodgers, their biggest rival.

Red's leftfielder George Foster, the top RBI man in the majors, built his season total to 97 in delivering the big blow in Saturday's win.

Foster belted a three-run homer — his 24th of the campaign — off of Dodger starter Tommy John in the fifth inning to give the Reds all the runs they needed.

Foster came close to a homer in almost the same spot in the right-field seats just right of the Reds' bullpen in the fourth inning but Dodger rightfielder Reggie Smith made a spectacular leaping catch to take it away from him.

Smith paid the price though as he was injured in coming down hard on the railing. He left the game limping back to the dugout as the large crowd gave him an ovation.

The preliminary diagnosis revealed no fractures but Smith was taken to the hospital for additional x-rays.

Cincy's fourth run in the seventh inning definitely hurt the Dodger pride as the Reds pulled off a suc cessful delayed double steal with Foster taking second and Ed Armbrister scoring.

Catcher Ellie Rodriguez seemed to take too long throwing to second base and Armbrister was across the plate before Rodriguez got the ball back from second baseman Ted Sizemore.

Foster's big home run was set up in the fifth when Dave Concepcion and Joe Morgan hit back-to-back singles. Foster then hit John's 3-2 pitch into the stands.

Cincinnati righthander Pat Zachry had to struggle throughout the night but he still managed to beat the Dodgers for the fourth time this season. The rookie is 10-3 for the campaign.

Los Angeles' only run came in the second inning when Ron Cey hit his 16th homer of the season into the leftfield pavilion.

After Cey homered to lead off the second, Bill Russell followed with a single. Dusty Baker was retired but Rodriguez singled to put runners on first and second and one out.

Zachry was clearly on the ropes but John popped up trying to bunt and the Reds were able to double up Rodriguez trying to get back to first.

There was also one last gasp in the ninth inning when Baker opened the frame by drawing a walk from Zachry.

That was enough for Cincinnati manager Sparky Anderson, who called for lefthander Will McEnaney from the bullpen.

Dodger skipper Walter Alston countered by sending righthander Lee Lacy to the plate but the Reds won that battle of strategy when Lacy hit into a double play. Manny Mota then grounded out to end the game.

DODGER DATA — The series ends today mercifully for the Dodgers with Burt Hooton (7-11) pitching against Jack Billingham (8-8).

Monday's game from Pittsburgh will be on KABC-TV (Channel 7) at 5:30 p.m. with Doug Rau (10-8) pitching against John Candelaria (10-4).

Dodger catcher Steve Yeager was scratched from the original starting lineup because of a sore right knee.

COMIN' ROUND

Ram's Lawrence McCutcheon (30) swings wide around end to avoid Dallas' Charlie Waters in first quarter action Saturday night at the Coliseum. Rams downed the Cowboys 26-14.

Zorn scores, 'Hawks lose

From Associated Press

SPOKANE — Jim Zorn, a southpaw quarterback from Cal Poly Pomona, accounted for two touchdowns in the last 4½ minutes but his expansionist Seattle Seahawks fell short, 27-16, to the Chicago Bears in a National Football League exhibition game Saturday.

Quarterbacks Bob Avellini and Gary Huff each passed for touchdowns and Mike Adamle ran for a third to lead the Bears.

Chicago, which opened pre-season play with a 15-14 victory over Denver last Saturday, began the scoring early in the second period on Avellini's 22-yard strike to a wide-open Johnny Musso.

Rams dump Dallas

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Quarterbacks Ron Jaworski and James Harris provided the offensive spark and "the Jones boys" came up with the big defensive plays as the Los Angeles Rams rolled to a 26-14 National Football League exhibition victory over the Dallas Cowboys Saturday night.

Rams defensive end Leroy Jones blocked a Dallas field goal attempt and caused a Cowboy fumble with a jarring tackle, and defensive tackle Cody Jones helped the Los Angeles defense shut off the Dallas rush and keep constant pressure on its quarterbacks.

Jaworski completed 10 of 19 passes for 138 in the first half, helping the Rams move out to a 17-7 lead at the intermission. Harris then started the second half and quickly gave the Rams another touchdown when he hit Harold Jackson with a 45-yard scoring pass.

Lawrence McCutcheon scored on a one-yard plunge with the game 9½ minutes old, Tom Dempsey kicked a 36-yard field goal to make it 10-9, then John Cappelletti ran seven yards for Los Angeles' other first half score.

The Cowboys were unable to move the ball consistently on the ground as the Rams defense held Dallas within its own territory and a lone first down during the first 25 minutes of the contest.

But Staubach, going to the air late in the first half, completed 10 of 14 passes for 100 yards, and Danny White, who took over after the intermission, completed 10 of 21 for 101 yards.

Cappelletti, the former Heisman Trophy winner at Penn State, rushed for 75 yards on 12 carries in a bid to take over Jim Bertelsen's starting spot in the Rams backfield.

Cappelletti also grabbed three passes for 17 yards.

The victory keeps Los Angeles' exhibition record perfect at 2-0, as the Rams opened with a 26-3 victory the Tampa Bay Buccaneers. Dallas has yet to win as they dropped their first exhibition game 17-14 to Oakland last week.

Ex-president of ABA buys half of Buffalo

LOUISVILLE (AP) — John Y. Brown, former president of the defunct American Basketball Association, has purchased 50 per cent of the National Basketball Association Buffalo Braves.

Brown, in a telephone interview from Buffalo, N.Y., said he and his wife Ellie, who owned the ABA's Kentucky Colonels before that franchise folded in the wake of the ABA-NBA merger, would share ownership with Paul Snyder.

A source close to the transaction said the Browns purchased a share of the Buffalo franchise for less than half of the $3.3 million they are to receive in indemnity payments from the NBA. In addition, the Browns will receive television money and the indemnity payment from the NBA, the source said.

Snyder, who had owned 100 per cent of the stock, said he was pleased with the sale. "I feel Mr. Brown has been one of the most experienced owners in professional sports. I consider him one of the most creditable people in the industry, and we have a lot of the same philosophy about the sport and the industry," Snyder said.

Synder will remain president of the team and Brown, 42, will assume chairmanship of the team's board of directors, Snyder said. "I'll handle basketball and the league affairs and Mr. Snyder will handle the financial affairs," Brown said.

Brown said the purchase "keeps our foot in the door" for a possible return of professional basketball to Louisville.

Snyder had earlier tried to move the Braves to Florida, but that proposal was blocked by the NBA.

Brown said if the city doesn't meet its commitments to the club—including a guaranteed sale of 5,000 season tickets by opening day in October—the club might consider moving.

"It doesn't necessarily mean we'll move, but it gives us the right to move," Brown said. He said Louisville, Cincinnati and Miami would probably get the first chance at the new franchise.

B.C. Open postponed

ENDICOTT, N.Y. (AP) — Rain forced postponement of Saturday's third round of the $200,000 B.C. Open Golf Tournament.

Officials scheduled two rounds for today, with a third-round tee-off set for 4 a.m., PDT.

An overnight rain that continued throughout the morning made the 6,868-yard, par-71 EnJoie Golf Club course unplayable. The forecast called for intermittent showers through Monday.

Buddy Allin, winner of the Pleasant Valley Classic last Sunday, was at 12-under-par 130 after the first two rounds of the B.C. Open and held a fourstroke lead over Ed Sneed and Bob Gilder.

NOSE TO NOSE

Atlanta manager Dave Bristol and plate umpire Ed Montague didn't see eye to eye on this play Saturday night. Bristol was ejected, but Braves downed San Francisco 4-3.

Luebber barely misses no-hiter

ARLINGTON, TEX. (AP) — Unhearalded Steve Luebber of the Minnesota Twins solved his own personal identity crises Saturday night when he came within one strike of a no-hitter.

Luebber hurled 8 2/3 innings of no-hit baseball against the Texas Rangers before Roy Howell lined a 3-2 pitch into center field to shatter the 27-year-old right-hander's record book dreams.

As it turned out, Luebber needed relief help in a 3-1 victory over the Rangers and he was more philosophical than sad in the Twin dugout after the game.

"At least I solved the question 'Who is he?'" said Luebber. "I just haven't been around very long."

Angels descend into cellar again

OAKLAND (AP) — Sal Bando hit his 21st home run of the season and Joe Rudi and Phil Garner drove in two runs apiece Saturday, leading the Oakland A's to a 9-1 victory over the California Angels.

Right-hander Mike Torrez, 9-10, scattered eight hits and got his first victory since July 9. Angels' starter Don Kirkwood, 4-9, gave up the first six A's runs and eight of their 12 hits.

Bando, the American League's home run leader, connected with the bases empty in the third to boost Oakland's lead to 3-0. The A's had scored single runs in the first and second innings.

California scored in the fourth on singles by Bobby Bonds and Tony Solaita and a ground ball by Bruce Bochte, but the A's made it 7-1 with a four-run rally in the fifth.

Garner hit a bases-loaded single to score two runs in the fifth, Rudi brought in one run with a sacrifice fly and Gene Tenace had an RBI single.

The A's, second to Kansas City in the Western Division, picked up one game but still are a distant 11 games behind. The Angels returned to last place after escaping the cellar with a victory Friday night.

The A's scored in five of the first six innings, starting in the first when Bert Campaneris walked, stole second and came home on Rudi's single.

Billy Williams singled home Tenace in the second, Campaneris and Don Baylor had hits to produce a sixth-inning run and Bill North homered leading off the eighth.

The homer by North was his second of the season and also his second in two days.

Two stolen bases by Garner and the one by Campaneris gave the A's 243 for the season, 104 short of the major league record with 53 games remaining.

Russian women too much for U.S.

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — Ludmila Bragina set a world record and the Soviet Union women's relay team set another Saturday as the United States, with one of its poorest women's performances in history, lost a duel track and field meet to the Soviets.

Miss Bragina led an awesome women's assault by capturing the 3,000-meter run in a blazing 8 minutes, 27.1 seconds for a world record.

The Soviet women's mile relay team was clocked in 3:29.1 to smash the previous world mark of 3:30.3 set by West Germany last year.

In 13 of the 14 women's events, Soviet athletes placed 12. The only breakthrough came when Olympic silver medalist Kathy McMillan of Raeford, N.C., finished second in the long jump to Lidiya Alfeyeva.

The American women's squad, which could have scored 40 points just by showing up, wound up with 42. The women's team was weakened when at least a dozen Olympic team members, who were apparently homesick, did not show up for this two-day, rain-punctuated meet at the University of Maryland.

America's men, however, outscored the Soviet men for the 10th time in 14 meetings dating back to 1958 when the series started.

American women have won just once.

Edwin Moses of Atlanta and Mike Shine of Youngsville, Pa., repeated their 1-2 finish in the Olympic 400-meter hurdles and Olympic gold medal winner Mac Wilkins of San Jose, Calif., won the discus for the top men's performances.

Moses, whose world record of 47.64 won the Olympic title, clocked 48.55 and Wilkins tossed 217-2, 15 feet short of his own world record. Both marks were meet records.

Miss Bragina, the 1972 Olympic 1,500 meter champion, finished only fifth in that event in the Olympics at Montreal and was considered over the hill. But her amazing performance through misty rain was one of nine records set by Soviet women during the two days.

The 33-year-old Miss Bragina wiped out the previous world mark of 8:45.4 set two months ago by Grete Waitz of Norway.

The Soviet men, who trailed 59-46 after the first day, actually closed the gap Saturday when Alexander Barishnikov won the shot put at 69-43-4 and Viktor Anohin and Vladimir Ponomarevran finished 1-2 in the men's 800 to score upsets.

Embarrassment was added to injury when the third best Soviet woman 800-meter runner, Tatyana Providokhina, won the event in 1:57.0, the fastest time ever run on American soil.

There was consolation for Madeline Manning Jackson, whose third-place 1:57.9 bettered her own American record of 1:59.8.

Rain again spoiled high-jumper Dwight Stones' hopes when the world record holder failed to clear 7-5 and wound up last.

Stones placed only third during an Olympic rainstorm, and although he said he would never again jump in the rain he gave it a try Saturday and managed 7-2. His second attempt at 7-5 was very close, but the crossbar slipped off moments later.

A mile relay rather than the traditional 1,600-meter relay was run because the United States wanted to lower its own men's world record of 3:02.4. A team of Moses, Benny Brown, Fred Newhouse and Maxie Parks won in 3:02.6 as poor baton passes probably ruined record chances.

Indicative of the women's plight was their mile relay. A U.S. quartet of Debra Sapenter, Sheila Ingram, Pam Giles and Rosalyn Bryant captured a silver medal behind East Germany in Montreal. But Saturday, with Giles and Bryant not running, the U.S. team finished 4.7 seconds behind the Soviets.

Still, the combined defeat was not as humiliating as last year's 225-138 Soviet victory in Kiev.

The victory helped the Soviet women maintain their complete dominance over American women. The Soviet women had a 53-40 lead after Friday's competition.

Finishing second in the 3,000 was Raisa Katyukova of the Soviet Union in 8:41.8, and third was Francie Larrieu of Long Beach, Calif., in 8:54.9.

Miss Larrieu's time was an American record, bettering the 8:57.2 set by Jan Merrill of Waterford, Conn., in winning the national AAU title this year.

American men got a boost in the javelin earlier on the rainy day when Anthony Hall of New York City upset USSR's former world record holder Janis Lusis with a throw of 268 feet, 2 inches. Lusis threw 267-3.

Ray's used-car buy may pay off

TALLADEGA, Ala. (AP) — John Ray feels he made a very shrewd used-car purchase recently.

It has no headlights or taillights, no side windows, no windshield wipers; he can't get the doors to open and close properly; there's no muffler or smog equipment, and it only gets about four miles to the gallon. It only has one seat.

With Bob Burcham, a Georgia used-car dealer, at the wheel, Ray's machine has been turning the fastest laps — even faster than Dave Marcis' 190.651 miles an hour pole-position-winning speed — of any of the 40 cars in the lineup.

"We didn't qualify so well because of this," said Ray, displaying a quarter-inch sliver of Teflon tape that was found in the carburetor. "Once we fixed that, it really came to life."

"I love superspeedways, and I can't tell you how grateful I am to finally have a car as competitive as John's to drive," said the soft-spoken Burcham, a successful competitor on Southern short tracks.

History would be made if Ray's Chevrolet, or any of the other 28 Chevrolets in the race, win today. No Chevrolet has ever won a 500-miler at the 2.66-mile Alabama International Motor Speedway oval.

But a victory for Ray and Burcham would undoubtedly be a popular one.

Burcham is well-liked and respected, but he's never had a competitive Grand National.

Ray, from nearby Eastaboga, is still recovering from near-fatal injuries suffered at Daytona earlier this year. In 1975, Ray established a closed-course speed record for trucks on the AIMS high banks.

Ray's Chevrolet has an interesting history. He purchased it from DiGard Racing to replace the one he crashed. This is the car which won the pole position for both 1975 races at Daytona.

Indianapolis 500 champion Johnny Rutherford drove for Ray at Daytona last month, but the team was plagued by a cracked differential through the race.

Rutherford, a McLaren driver who had a schedule conflict this weekend, brought with him special McLaren-built Chevrolet engines that Ray is still using.

"The car and I have already established a rapport," said the 40-year-old Burcham. In his Grand National debut, at Daytona in 1974, the engine in his car blew with just a few laps to go in the race.

"Donnie Allison was leading the race in this car. He ran over the pieces from my engine and his tires blew. It cost him the race," Burcham said.

The car has always run fast here, but has never finished, a common problem for the Chevrolets, considered too fragile for the high-speed Talladega grind.

Supposedly tougher Ford products have won all but five of the 13 500-milers here since 1969.

Ford driver Buddy Baker, seventh fastest qualifier, has won the last three races here, the last one at a world-record average speed for 500 miles of nearly 170 m.p.h.

J.D. McDuffie led qualifying Saturday for the final 10 spots in the field with a clocking at 183.585 m.p.h. Only 4.483 seconds separate the entire field in qualifying. And only nine drivers qualified at a speed below 180.

WBC can't decide who is super-bantam champ

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Officials of the World Boxing Council, in the absence of their ailing president, Jose Sulaiman of Mexico City, reached no conclusions in discussions Saturday involving a controversial fight decision in Korea last week, or the site or a projected title fight involving Los Angeles and Ghana.

Sulaiman remained in a hospital here following an apparent mild heart attack Friday night, but associates said he was expected to fly home today.

The meeting lasted several hours. The main topic was the decision in a fight between Rigoberto Riasco of Panama and Yum Dong Kyun of South Korea.

Los Angeles referee Larry Rozadilla reversed himself after the 15-rounder in Pusan and awarded the Super-Bantamweight title to the Korean. From the ring, he had proclaimed Riasco the winner as the defending champion.

The referee returned to Los Angeles and said his life had been threatened if he didn't switch his vote to the Korean, a claim hotly denied later in Korea.

Promoter Don Fraser reaffirmed an offer of $85,000 to Kotey if the fight is staged at the Forum in Inglewood in October.

Ghana promoters insist on staging the fight there and offered Lopez $25,000. Lopez' manager, Howie Steindler, rejected the bid as he has done in the past.

Chako Higuchi captures European women's title

SUNNINGDALE, England (AP) — Chako Higuchi of Japan fired a cool, patient par-74 Saturday and won the European Women's Golf Championship with a four-round, 12-under-par 284, six strokes over her nearest rivals, Americans Kathy Whitworth and Sandra Palmer.

Mrs. Higuchi, unruffled by being the leader throughout the tournament's four rounds, won the $13,500 top prize plus an additional $1,800 — $900 apiece for having the day's lowest score in the first and third rounds.

Miss Palmer and Miss Whitworth tied at 290. Miss Palmer, five strokes behind Mrs. Higuchi after Friday's third round, had a one-over-par 75 Saturday while Miss Whitworth came on with a rush by carding a 70, the lowest score of the day.

Two other Americans, Judy Rankin — the winner here two years ago — and Debbie Austin, started the day tied with Miss Whitworth at 220. They finished in fourth place, one stroke farther back at 291, seven strokes off the pace.

Miss Whitworth and Miss Palmer each get $9,900 while Mrs. Rankin and Miss Austin collect $3,540 each. Miss Whitworth also collected a couple of special $900 prizes for shooting the lowest scores of the second and fourth rounds.

Mrs. Higuchi started the day knowing that all the pressure was on her rivals. With a five-stroke lead over Miss Palmer, all she needed was a steady par game and she was virtually certain of victory.

Peter Gregg wins IMSA 'Bama 200

TALLADEGA, Ala. (AP) — Peter Gregg drove steadily through a driving rainstorm and piled up a wide margin for victory in Saturday's shortened 'Bama 200 for International Motor Sports Association Grand Touring sports cars.

Gregg, Jacksonville, Fla., had a 77-second lead in his BMW over Phil Currin, Gainesville, Fla., in a Corvette when rain ended the race at 120 miles. Bob Christensen, Huntsville, Ala., was third in a Camaro.

Pole-position winner Al Holbert of Warrington, Pa., could not start his Monza in the race because a crew member ran it into a guardrail during a morning test session. Holbert relieved ailing Charlie Kemp in a Mustang II and finished fourth.

Amos Johnson of Raleigh, N.C., edged Gene Felton of Atlanta by four-tenths of a second in a 100-miler for IMSA Racing Sedans, small-bore sports cars, earlier in the day. Johnson drove a Pacer. Felton, the pole winner, was in a Gremlin.

Ramirez advances to Volvo net finals

NORTH CONWAY, N.H. (AP) — Davis Cup star Raul Ramirez of Mexico trounced Texan Cliff Richey, 6-1, 6-1 Saturday, but the on-again, off-again New England rain forced postponement of the second semifinal match in a $100,000 tennis tournament.

Top-seeded Jimmy Connors, the defending champion, and unseeded Zeljko Franulovic of Yugoslavia will play their semifinal round today, weather permitting, to determine who will meet Ramirez for the championship and first prize of $16,000 and a $10,000 car.

All remaining semifinal singles and doubles matches were to be played today.

Tournament officials said tickets for Saturday's and today's events would be honored today and on a first-come-first-served basis on Monday.

A semifinal doubles match between the team of Ramirez and Brian Gottfried of the U.S. and Bob Hewitt of South Africa and Geoff Masters of Australia also was postponed because of the rain.

Alan Hale: host for '500' event

By PHIL ROCHE
PB Golf Writer

ALAN HALE, movie and television star, will be hosting another cast of golfing celebrities when they tee off at the new El Prado Golf Course south of Ontario on Saturday, Sept. 4, the day before the California 500 auto race.

Sponsoring the event for the 7th year is the Ontario 500 Festival Association. Arlyn Rudolph is chairman.

She announced that the 18-hole shotgun start will be at noon and competition is two best balls of foursome.

Early entries include Jack Carter, Dennis James, Jack Garner, Ed Nelson, Charles Lane, Jim Malinda, Billy Barty, Fred Holliday, Norm Alden, Frank Cady, Jimmy Lennon, Jerome Thor, Buddy Lester, Jim Davis, Alvy Moore, Jerry Maren, Sam Hanks and Peter De Paolo (former Indy winners), Jack Narz, James Westmoreland, William Reynolds, Tim Herbert, Ed Nelson, Buck Buchanan and Norm Alden.

Sponsor players at a $100 tax deductible entry fee will receive choice tickets to the California "500" at Ontario Motor Speedway Sept. 5, free greens fees, golf carts, tickets to the Pernod awards banquet after the tournament. They will also be eligible for all tournament trophies and prizes.

All proceeds will go to the Little People International/Billy Barty Foundation.

RICH CROSON shot a fifty 75 in the recent 3-club event at Marshall club. Bill Patch and Jess Fisher shot 76s and Joe Kary fired a 78.

Thinking about it, I think I would select a driver, a 5-iron and a putter. I think the putter could be replaced by the driver so that an 8-iron or 9-iron could be used.

But I believe I would keep my trusted putter — especially if the tournament is at Marshall Canyon.

Golf courses are normally serene places, but at times:

The wife of former British Open golf champion Fred Daley picked up a live bomb planted by three men in a golf clubhouse in Belfast, Ireland, carried it outside and threw it into a hedge, where it exploded harmlessly, police reported.

"It never entered my head that it might go off," said Jean Daley, 66, whose husband won the 1947 British Open. "I did it on the spur of the moment."

The bomb exploded about 15 minutes after Mrs. Daley threw it into the hedge at Belfast's Balmoral Golf Club on Thursday. The men who planted the bomb escaped.

CALIFORNIA COUNTRY CLUB in Whittier has been selected by Sportscope Magazine as the site for its tournament honoring Bill Bryant as Mr. Junior Golf of Southern California.

Entries are now open for the Sept. 10 shotgun event which will have a field of 150 golfers teeing off at 12:30 p.m. Net proceeds go to the Southern California Junior Golf Association, which Bill Bryant guides.

An awards banquet is planned with ceremonies starting at 7 p.m. in the Clubhouse. The $60 entry fee includes green fees, golf cart, dinner, and donation to Junior Golf.

Many of Southern California top businessmen golfers are already entered, giving the tourney a Who's Who's in Industry atmosphere.

It's been my feeling too for a long time that most amateur players use too many clubs. I would be willing to bet that if most players left half their clubs at home, they would score better. Learning to use about five clubs well, they'd probably be surprised with their low scores.

Players in the old days used to hit shots of all distances with a few irons. I've seen golfers hit 7-irons 170 yards on one hole, then "baby" the same club on a shot 100 yards away. This use of clubs for varied distances is a lost art. I hate to see it lost.

Bryant has been a leader in the golfing community for more than 40 years, having built Laguna Beach and California Country Clubs. He was associated with Rio Hondo and Fox Hills in conjunction with Al Bryant, his father.

Bill Bryant is president of Southern California Golf Association and is directly responsible for the growth of Junior Golf, which has over 1000 members in the area.

Hall of Famers to be inducted

COOPERSTOWN, N.Y. (AP) — Robin Roberts and Bob Lemon, standout right-handed pitchers during the 1950s, and four others will be formally inducted into baseball's Hall of Fame Monday in this scenic village in central New York State.

Both Roberts and Lemon were voted into the Hall by the Baseball Writers Association of America. The Veterans Committee selected Fred Lindstrom, a third baseman for John McGraw's New York Giants in the 1920s; the late Roger Connor, a pre-1900 home run king, and Cal Hubbard, former American League umpire. The special committee on Negro Leagues named the late Oscar Charleston.

Some 10,000 visitors are expected to be on hand for the ceremonies presided over by Commissioner Bowie Kuhn at Cooper Park, adjacent to the Hall of Fame and Museum.

The ceremonies, bringing the honor list to 157, will be followed by an exhibition game between the New York Mets and Milwaukee Brewers at Doubleday Field, where baseball tradition claims the game was founded more than a century ago by Abner Doubleday.

Roberts, a right-hander who had a lively fastball and good control, spent only a half-season in the minor leagues in 1948 before joining the Philadelphia Phillies. He helped the 1950 Whiz Kids to the National League pennant by posting a 20-11 record, the first of his six straight 20-victory seasons.

His best year was in 1952 when he had a 28-6 record for the fourth-place Phillies. He later pitched for Baltimore, Houston and the Chicago Cubs, winding up his career in 1966 with a 19-season mark of 286-245.

Lemon, who began his career as third baseman and outfielder, won 20 or more games seven times for the Cleveland Indians. His mark over 13 seasons was 207-128, helping the Indians to two American League titles, in 1948 and 1954. He was a manager of the Kansas City Royals and now is the New York Yankees' pitching coach.

Lindstrom was the youngest player ever to appear in a World Series — 1924 when he was 18. He had 10 hits in that series, four off Walter Johnson, an original Hall of Famer. In 1930 he hit .379 with 22 homers and 106 runs batted in. He later played for Pittsburgh, the Chicago Cubs and Brooklyn.

Long Beach has tourney

LONG BEACH — Tickets for the 30th annual International Softball World Tournament at Blair Field August 20-29 are on sale at the 18 fire stations in Long Beach.

Sponsored by the Long Beach Fire Fighters, the tournament brings together the finest teams from 15 states, including Hawaii, and one team is entered from Ontario, Canada. The Long Beach Nitehawks are the defending champions, having won their 10th title last year in Kimberly, Wis.

Ticket prices are $3.50 (box seats), $2 (unreserved grandstands) and $1.25 (bleachers). The seats sell by sessions, day or night. However, a $35 season ticket entitles the buyer to attend all day and night sessions from August 20-29. Season tickets may be purchased only at Fire Fighter headquarters, 100 Magnolia Ave., Long Beach, or by calling (213) 436-2219.

How to handle Woody Hayes

FLINT, Mich. (AP) — All Michiganites worthy of the name are — or should be — incensed by Woody Hayes' two most recent outrages. After all, what are outrages for but to create outrage?

Hayes, who directs the savage onslaughts of the Ohio State University football team, most recently assaulted Michigan's sensitivities at a Big Ten football kickoff luncheon in Chicago.

For openers, he admitted that he had tattled to the National Collegiate Athletic Association about recruiting violations committed by Michigan State University football officials.

(Persons who turn in other persons to "authorities" are known by various names. Such usages as "snitch," "fink," "stool pigeon" and "informer" come to mind.)

Woody, one of the titanic figures of our era, cannot be classified with such shopworn words. I suggest the words "woodpeep" or "woodsneak."

But Hayes's second outrage — an alleged one — is of greatest concern because it falls under the category of atrocities that can be dealt with constructively.

Bob Page, sports reporter for Detroit radio station WJR, contends that the Woodpeep slapped him and attempted to throttle down questions formulated by Ed Ronders, sports editor of MSU's student newspaper. Page says the Woodpeep's throttling down of Ronders was physical but other reports from Chicago have it that the Woodpeep merely seemed to attempt to slap and throttle as a result of bothersome questions.

Whatever occurred, the incident is just another example of the Woodpeep's shabby treatment of fearful news hounds. When Woody wins a game, he may talk to reporters. When he loses, he may not talk to reporters. Either response is objectionable. But since the Woodpeep apparently will be around until the next Ice Age, we must find a way to protect reporters from the Woodpeep and, incidentally, the Woodpeep from MSU and University of Michigan fans during autumnal rites. Too, we can protect the Woodpeep from himself.

My solution is that the Woodpeep be enclosed in a cage on wheels before, during and after football contests.

I have in mind a vehicle similar to those that enclose lions and tigers and bears. This contrivance could be called a Woodpeeperbile. Not only would it prevent clashes but one can just imagine the publicity that would accrue to OSU after it unveils the vehicle.

Since the Woodpeeperbile has wheels, the Woodpeep would not be hampered much in his coaching duties while his and some other coach's thundering herds are galumphing around the gridiron.

Assistant coaches and sturdy benchwarmers could combine to push and shove the Woodpeeperbile up and down the sidelines while sackers and ravagers sack and ravage.

The Woodpeep would be free to signal, gesture, wave his arms and scratch himself. He would, of course, be wired to maintain contact with those coaches who are not industriously hauling him Hither and Yon.

Many persons, while they may favor my proposal, probably doubt that it can be implemented. Enclosing a Big Ten coach in a cage could be considered a violation of his civil rights.

This is arrant nonsense. If the Big Ten and the NCAA favor this suggestion, the Woodpeep would not utter a peep. He has proven his loyalty to those bodies — one need only cite his peepery and sneakery concerning officials at MSU.

It should be firmly stipulated, however, that the NCAA see to it that reporters and fans and other hostiles do not take advantage of the Woodpeep while he is in his Woodpeeperbile.

There are people, even in the media, who would — given the opportunity — taunt and jeer at a person in a cage. Some persons have been known to prod encaged people with sticks and hurl things into such enclosures.

This should not be tolerated. If the NCAA enacts my proposal I will insist upon protection for the Woodpeep. Elsewise, I withdraw the idea.

One other thing. Newcomers to Michigan — as well as residents of Ohio — should not think that my proposal smacks of barbarism.

History has given us examples of states and nations that allowed their citizens special dispensation to avidly dislike certain historic figures. For example, special dispensations were issued to citizens of territories occupied by Genghis Khan and Attila the Hun.

So it is in Michigan regarding Woody Hayes. In fact, many Michiganites would not trade the tiniest tract in Clio for the whole state of Ohio.

Nicklaus needs win to save season

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defending champion Jack Nicklaus is in the unusual position of needing a victory to salvage a season this week in the PGA national championship, the last of the year's four major tests of golfing greatness.

"If I win one of the majors it is a good season," Nicklaus said. "If I don't win one, it isn't a good season."

And, even discounting the majors — on which Nicklaus places such a high premium — it hasn't been an outstanding year for the man generally recognized as the finest player in the game.

The Golden Bear hasn't won in the three previous majors, the Masters, U.S. and British opens. In fact, he hasn't even been a major factor in them. He finished third in the Masters, but wasn't really within striking distance of the runaway winner, Ray Floyd. He wasn't close in the others.

He has won only one title, the Tournament Players Championship, and ranks fifth on the season's money-winning list. Both rank as all-time lows for Nicklaus. He hasn't finished lower than fourth on the money-winning list in a 15-year career dating back to 1962 and has won at least two titles every season.

"Actually, I've played pretty well at times," he said. "I just haven't won as much, perhaps, as I'd like."

He's been second twice, including the Canadian Open, his last start. He was fourth in another tournament, had the lead through three rounds of another and was eighth or better in three more.

But Nicklaus, preoccupied at least part of the season with the inaugural of his Memorial Tournament, hasn't exerted his usual influence on the tour this year. That lack of dominance, plus the rise of some new stars, makes it a wide-open struggle in the national championship that gets underway Thursday on the Congressional Country Club course.

More than a dozen men in the field of about 140 must be considered challengers for the title Nicklaus has won three times in the last five years. The purse hasn't yet been announced, but it's expected to go near $250,000 with a minimum of $45,000 to the winner.

Chief among the challengers are Jerry Pate, the sweetswinging rookie who claimed the U.S. and Canadian open crowns, and Johnny Miller, the moody man who shook off his summer lethargy to annex the British Open title.

And there's Ben Crenshaw, Hubert Green, Hale Irwin, Tom Watson and John Mahaffey.

The dynamic Crenshaw, holder of two 1976 titles, is the year's leading money-winner. His consistently high finishes in recent weeks indicate he's again reaching the top of his form.

Green is a three-time winner this year, while Irwin always ranks as a threat, is considered by his peers to be second only to Nicklaus and seems to play his best on the tough courses — which includes Congressional. Watson is firmly establishedd as one of the game's better young players and Mahaffey, twice a beaten challenger in the U.S. Open, could be on the brink of a breakthrough.

"I'll have lots more shots at the big ones," he said. "Someday I'll get one."

Congressional, the playground of the presidents, stretches 7,054 yards and plays to a par 70. It places a premium on long iron play. That immediately makes Al Geiberger, perhaps the game's best long iron player, a man to be considered. Geiberger, who has turned his career around in the last couple of years, has won twice this season, including the Western at tough Butler National.

Floyd is another consistent challenger and, of course, there's always the threat of Tom Weiskopf and South African Gary Player. Player hasn't won in a couple of years in the United States, but usually is at his best in the big ones.

Among the others in the field that includes all the $1 million winners are Roger Maltbie, who has won three times in the last 14 months, veteran Dave Hill and Lee Trevino.

Trevino was sidelined with a back ailment for most of the summer, missed both the U.S. and British Opens and played his first tournament in two months last week.

"The back is fine now," he said. "No more problems there. But I'd be surprised if I really play well in the PGA. I'm overweight and my legs are gone. I'm surprised I'm hitting it as well as I am. And I'm putting good. But I've been away a long time."

And, too, there's Arnold Palmer, still seeking the big one that got away. The 46-year-old Palmer hasn't won in this country in more than three years and didn't qualify off the money-winning list. He made the field as an invitee.

The lack of recent success, however, hasn't dimmed his gallery appeal. He's still among the most popular players the game has ever known.

And he's deadly serious about this one, the only major title that has eluded him in a career that now is in its third decade. He moved into Washington last week to begin his preparations.

"If I didn't think I could win," Palmer says, "I wouldn't be playing."

Ak-Sar-Ben racetrack in Omaha was closed in 1943 and 1944 when the U.S. Army occupied the plant for war purposes.

CHS girls' tryouts set

Tryouts for girls' tennis and volleyball teams at Claremont High will be held Sept. 1.

Girls interested must have a certificate showing they have passed a physical examination. They are advised to begin conditioning now if they haven't already since they should be ready to play Sept. 1.

Those interested in tennis should report to the Claremont High courts at 8 a.m. They volleyball tryouts will be held in the gym starting at 3 p.m.

Naber says he can wait

MENLO PARK (AP) — Unlike Mark Spitz after the 1972 Olympics, swimmer John Naber says he has no intention of trying to cash in immediately on his status as the winningest American at the 1976 Olympics.

"I've been offered a lot of proposals," said the 20-year-old senior from the University of Southern California. "But I'm telling the offerers to come back in a year. I've still got another year of school left, and if they're interested enough, they'll wait."

Naber, a winner of four gold medals and one silver at Montreal, said he wants to swim competitively for at least one more year.

"I only think one season ahead," he said. 'But I don't think there's any way I'll be swimming four years from now."

Noting that his parents are sufficiantly affluent to take care of his financial needs for the time being, he said his immediate goal is to promote swimming in the United States, not to make money on endorsements or through other financial opportunities.

"Swimming gets massive television coverage every Olympic year, but that's it," Naber said. "Once every four years just isn't good enough."

Still, Naber's friends and admirers here planned to honor him last week. A San Mateo County Sheriff's helicopter will deliver him to festivities at Burgess Park here.

Success hasn't spoiled Bengals' Ken Anderson

WILMINGTON, Ohio (AP) — Success hasn't spoiled Cincinnati quarterback Kenny Anderson. One of his teammates thinks maybe it should — but the Bengals' deadly passer doesn't agree.

"It's just not in his nature to have an 'I'm the one' type of attitude," tight end Bob Trumpy says of the quarterback who had to lead the National Football League in passing for two straight years before he was invited to his first Pro Bowl game.

"He went to a small school and has taken his success very well," Trumpy adds. "He could've really gone on an ego trip, but he didn't. I tell him he's still a rookie.

"He's really down to earth, in fact, too much. Right or wrong, we've begun to encourage him to raise a little hell. If someone does something wrong, like if they get through the pass protection, tell somebody. Be a field general. Be a little bit of an egotist on the football field."

That's not something that's going to come naturally for Anderson.

"Nothing bugs me more," he says, "than to see a quarterback chewing out a lineman after he gets sacked. I saw it happen on national TV last year, this quarterback belittling an offensive lineman.

"If I were the lineman, I'd be damned if I would want to play for him after that."

His teammates take pride in his accomplishments and what he has done for them, and they search for reasons why he has not become as well known as some of the league's other quarterbacks.

"With the career he has already had," says veteran center Bob Johnson, "a lot of quarterbacks would've been household words by now.

"I think we have to win more big games than we have. We play two Monday night games this year that'll help."

Wide receiver Chip Myers believes it's the size of the town he plays in that has to do with his lack of publicity. "You don't have to be a great player to get national press. It's playing in cities like New York, Chicago and Los Angeles where you receive national acclaim."

But Trumpy says: "Forget that theory. I think he's content with just the people who know football recognizing he's good. Maybe there's not that much to tell about Kenny and I think he wants it that way."

Trumpy may be closest to the truth.

Cal 500 schedule announced

A week-long schedule of preliminary racing action, including a revised procedure for qualifying, has been announced for the 7th annual California 500 which takes place Sunday, September 5, at Ontario Motor Speedway.

Beginning Sunday, August 29, which has been designated the opening day of practice at the two and one-half mile oval track, the schedule will be condensed into six days of track activity, including qualifying runs on September 1-2 to set the 33-car field for the September 5 classic.

"We've done away with the 100-mile qualifying races of the past two years", explained OMS general manager Ray Smartis. "That means we'll be returning to the Indianapolis format of individual, four-lap qualifying runs, with first day qualifiers gaining up-front starting positions ahead of the second day qualifiers," Smartis added.

The mid-week qualifying (Wednesday and Thursday) will follow three days of practice which include a daily track schedule of 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. The same time schedule will hold for qualifications. Spectator admission is $1 on practice days and $2 during qualifications.

The final day of pre-race track action is set for Friday, September 3, when the course will be open to the 33 qualifiers for final tune-up or carburetion runs and pit stop practice.

"We'll have open house on that final day, too," Smartis said. "The public will be admitted to the grounds and — after the carburetion runs are completed — to the garage area, free of charge."

The largest field of entries in California 500 history is expected this year, including defending champion A. J. Foyt who is the only driver ever to win all three Triple Crown events, although not in the same year. Foyt was the first to file a 1976 entry.

Ticket prices for the 1976 Cal 500 have been lowered over previous years and range from $8 to $30 for reserved seats. General admission is priced at $6.

Camper permits also are on sale for race fans who wish to camp overnight inside the Speedway's spacious infield on the eve of the 500.

Grant protects trout stream

Under the auspices of a new land conservation program, The American Land Trust, a corporate grant of $100,000 has been made toward the protection and preservation of this fishing and wildlife area 25 miles southeast of Sun Valley.

MBA swimmers break records

Mt. Baldy Aquatics competed in the Inland Empire Swim Conference championships hosted by Riverside Aquatics at the twin pools of Riverside City College July 24-25. The conference is a combined AAU and novice league, active primarily during the summer swim season.

Three league records were shattered by Baldy swimmers at the meet. John Moffet, swimming at the bottom of the 11-12 age group, broke his own 50 yard breaststroke mark at 32.4 in the prelims and finished with a first place 33.3 in the finals. The Claremont lad next took on the challenge of the 100 individual medley record and set a new standard at 1:02.7. As a finale to his program, Moffet captured the gold medal with a fast 55.7 in the 100 freestyle, falling .6 short of a third record. For his outstanding performance, young Moffet came away with the high point trophy in his age group.

On the distaff side, Leila Fernandes, also at the bottom of her age group (15-18), set a new mark in the 100 breast during the prelims as she clocked a 1:16.5. Miss Fernandes whittled it down to 1:16.3 in the finals to set a second standard in as many days. The Upland teenager completed her championship program by finishing ninth in the 100 free.

Eight-year-old Kathie Haase captured the gold as she swam the 25 butterfly in 17.3. Hailing from Claremont, Miss Haase added to the score as she earned two silver medals in the 100 free and 100 individual medley.

Not to be outdone, four Baldy "oldsters" participated in a special freestyle relay event for parents. Placing a respectable fourth were Cliff Moffet, Laurel Ryan, Jan Kimbrough and Marsh Hollenberg.

Federal Reserve Board announces confusing cut

NEW YORK (AP) — In what its chairman termed "another small and prudent step" toward reducing inflation, the Federal Reserve Board has cut its growth target for consumer savings, and thereby confused more than a few people.

Speaking very generally, money is the fuel of economic activity. The Fed controls it, or at least seeks to. Too much money flowing into the economy can generate inflationary demand; too little can retard growth.

For four straight quarters the Fed has reduced its long-term money-supply growth. Consumer savings are a part of money supply. The Fed says there has been an "ample flow" of savings into mortgage lenders. So the goal was cut.

What baffles a lot of people is how Chairman Arthur Burns reached the conclusion, as indicated in testimony a week ago to the House Banking Committee, that the savings rate was adequate and that by lowering the rate inflation would be restrained.

"Savings are what we want," snapped John Wright, who, as president of Wright Bankers' Service, manages and advises many banks on their investment portfolios. He finds the reasoning "astonishing."

If the supply of savings has been ample, he asks, why the persistence of 9.15 per cent home mortgage interest rates that have supressed new home construction?

"The declared objective of the board to reduce the savings rate," he said, "is in direct opposition to the national objective of increasing our rate of national capital formation, which begins and ends with personal savings, as distinquished from consumption."

The reason, said Wright, "is upside down."

He maintains it is also difficult to reconcile such statements as "activity in all major sectors of the private economy" seem "posed for further advances" with such basic econoic facts as:

—U.S. industrial production, at 73 per cent of capacity, has not yet managed to recover to even its lowest levels during the last three recessions — 74.2 per centin 1970, 87.3 in 1967 and 74.2 in 1961.

—Recovery of Gross National Product slowed from plus 9.2 per cent in the first quarter of the year to 4.4 per cent during the second quarter, in constant — that is, comparable — dollars.

—Growth of real disposable personal income also slowed to a plus 4.5 per cent annual recovery rate during the second quarter, while unemployment remained at an intolerable 7.5 per cent, and retail sales actually declined.

The underlying reason for the sluggish recovery, says Wright, is easy to find, a high, 7 to 7.25 per cent prime lending rate, "which reflects deliberate FRB policy." That rate, he states, is largely responsible for the sluggishness in business borrowing.

"Under these circumstances, it is no wonder that business investment is not expanding significantly and that unemployment is not diminishing at all," he concludes.

In Wright's view, the policy of the Fed should be one of encouraging capital formation, which begins with individual savings, and which supplies the wherewithal for an expansion of job-producing economic activity.

"Savings is what we want," he snapped.

Dividend surprise from GM

NEW YORK (AP) — General Motors surprised a lot of people, shareholders and union officials among them, with the timing of its announcement this week that it was restoring its quarterly dividend to 85 cents a share.

Although the world's largest manufacturer had declared a special 50 cent dividend earlier this year it has left the quarterly rate at the recession level of 60 cents. And industry analysts thought it would continue.

Among the reasons given was the company's need to retain capital for expansion and the "necessity" of waiting until wage negotiations were over, lest workers use the dividend increase as an argument for a pay raise.

GM didn't listen to the analysts. After recording an amazing profit of $909 million in the second quarter, and expecting a strong third quarter as well, it decided to turn over close to $244 million to shareholders.

That, roughly, is the sum that 85 cents a share equals when multiplied by 287 million, which is about the number of shares owned by about 1,325,000 GM shareholders.

Sluggish market has weak gain

By CHET CURRIER
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — A reluctant stock market managed only a weak response this past week to the leadership efforts of the nation's two most widely held issues, American Telephone and General Motors.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks edged up 1.36 to 986 even, ending a streak of three weekly declines.

Similar modest gains were recorded by Standard & Poor's 500-stock index, up .35 at 103.79, and the New York Stock Exchange composite index, ahead .20 at 55.46.

The only real strong showing of the week came on Tuesday, when the Dow advanced 8 points with AT&T and GM leading the way.

Telephone shares got a boost from a Federal Communications Commission official's ruling in favor of its rates on interstate phone calls and of its ownership of its Western Electric manufacturing subsidiary.

General Motors chimed in with an increase in its quarterly dividend to the pre-recession level of 85 cents a share. For the past year and a half the auto giant had been paying out 60 cents quarterly.

AT&T has more than 2.9 million shareholders, and GM more than 1.3 million. Those totals together, even allowing for some overlap, account for a good 10 per cent of all the nation's investors in common stock. Thus, when something notable happens to either stock, the effects can often spill over into the market as a whole.

But after Tuesday the excitement quickly died down. After a gain of less than 2 points Wednesday, the Dow dropped 5 on Thursday and gave up a fraction Friday.

Analysts said investors, and particularly institutional money managers, seemed to be paying little attention to stocks and concentrating instead on interest-bearing investments.

The spotlight in the bond market focussed on an offering of Treasury securities, which got a warm reception.

Wall Streeters have noted a strong interest of late in the tangible returns of interest and dividends, with investors having found capital gains in the stock market elusive through mst of this decade.

And that gives securities like the Treasury issues, yielding about 8 per cent, a strong edge on stocks. The average yield on the Dow 30 currently stands at roughly 4 per cent.

For those who were staying with the stock market, the week didn't offer much to counter recent signs of a slowing in the economic recovery.

On Friday the government reported that the unemployment rate rose in July for the second straight month, pushed upward by an influx of people into the job market.

The weekly count of NYSE-listed issues showed 1,068 gainers and 732 losers among the 2,064 traded.

Business briefs

DENVER (AP) — The 10th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals refused to reconsider the decision ordering Kennecott Copper Corp. to divest itself of the Peabody Coal Co.

The appeals court rejected Kennecott's contention that a shift in the national economy since the case was heard in 1972 warranted a reconsideration.

The court's decision said, "All litigation including administrative adjudications must have some finality. To accept Kennecott's argument would be tantamount to allowing litigants to thwart enforcement by protracted court proceedings."

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Aluminum Company of America has announced an increase of four cents a pound on the price of unalloyed aluminum ingot, bringing it to 48 cents a pound, effective immediately.

Alcoa said similar price adjustments will be made on other types of ingot which altogether account for about 45 per cent of its mill product line.

Community involvement

Programs aid elderly

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nursing homes around the country are quietly carrying out new, community-involved creative programs to benefit elderly and chronically ill people, according to Ted Carcich, president of the American Health Care Association (AHCA).

Many homes have stimulated their residents into participating in meaningful community activities, a survey by the AHCA, which represents about 7,500 nursing homes in 48 states, shows.

This involvement has been found to be essential in avoiding the isolation and the feeling of uselessness that previously characterized the nursing home resident, Carcich points out.

"Making it possible for the aged and the chronically ill in nursing homes to be self-sufficient and to retain their self-esteem is a major challenge," he says. "It is a chellenge facing society, since we have an aging population, thanks to the miracles of medical science. But chronic illness often is an unfortunate component of longevity."

A pioneering concept of community involvement by a group of health care centers in rural Illinois has drawn high praise from AHCA. The objective is to provide "total care" for residents and, as extensively as possible, for elderly and chronically ill persons in the community.

The latter aspect, known as "outreach," makes available various types of services to the community, including a "Telecare" program operated by a group of volunteer aged or chronically ill nursing home residents. The volunteers make telephone calls each day, at an agreed-upon time, to elderly or ill people living alone, in order to provide "companionship and reassurance," Carcich says.

Another community program undertaken by a home in Litchfield, Ill., which has facilities for 100 residents, is the "Help Line" crisis intervention program. Trained volunteers offer counsel on the telephone to persons calling to say they are contemplating suicide or facing some serious personal crisis.

The Illinois nursing homes also offer part-time nursing and other health services to aged persons in their own homes as a less expensive alternative to entering a nursing home.

The Meals-on-Wheels program involves delivering a hot meal every day, at nominal cost, to persons in the community unable to prepare their own meals or get them elsewhere.

"Sunshine Express" buses provide free transportation for the elderly to central locations for a Senior Citizens nutritional program, and for entertainment, crafts, games and other social activities offered there.

At a nursing home in White Plains, N.Y., residents do volunteer work. They have done mailings for the American Heart Association, rolled hundreds of pounds of bandages for shipment to a leper colony, made cancer pads for a local hospital and have stuffed toy animals for hospitalized youngsters.

In turn, White Plains volunteers bring the outside community in to the residents.

Lewis-Hackler vows repeated

The First United Methodist Church in Montclair was the setting for the marriage of Miss Judy Kay Hackler of Montclair and Douglas Frank James Lewis of Andover, England.

Pronouncing the vows was the Rev. Dan Turner, pastor of University Heights United Methodist Church in Albuquerque, N.M. The formal ceremony was preceded by a breakfast and followed by a reception in the church parlor.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Hackler of Bartlesville, Okla. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. L. Lewis of Kington, Herefordshire, England.

Mrs. Russell Wise, sister of the bride of Abilene, Tex., was honor attendant. Other attendants were Mrs. Burr Patterson Jr., Dallas, Tex., and Mrs. Dan Turner of Albuquerque, sisters of the bride. Serving as best man was Russell Wise of Abilene, Tex.

After a wedding trip through the National Parks of the Pacific Northwest, the couple will reside at Andover, Hampshire, England.

The bride graduated from the University of Northern Colorado and earned her master's degree from Cal Poly Pomona. She has been teaching in the Pomona schools.

Miss Junior Teen contest open

"What I like best about America and my ideas for a better America".

Girls between the ages of 11 and 16 who have fresh constructive ideas on this subject stand a chance of becoming this year's Miss Junior Teen in a contest sponsored by Montgomery Ward and Monsanto weardated.

The contest is judged in part on the teenager's ability to discuss this subject in a brief essay. Involvement in such matters and general community activity rather than beauty are the perimeters for this contest, now in its third year.

Miss Junior Teen will also appear at various fashion oriented functions sponsored by Montgomery Ward during the year. She'll be treated to a $500 shopping spree at Montgomery Ward.

Miss Junior Teen will be selected from six regional finalists who will be flown to Walt Disney World in Orlando, Fla. to compete for the title during a four-day visit. They will be photographed wearing Monsanto Wear-Dated Fall Fashions from Montgomery Ward that will be featured in national and local publications.

Rules of the contest follow: Applicants can pick up an entry blank in the junior teen or Crossroads department at Montgomery Ward stores or write to P. O. Box 3290, New York, N. Y., 10001. Two color photos, one full length, one head shot, must accompany the application.

The ballot must be signed to indicate permission to travel by the entrant's parents or guardian. The contest closes Aug. 31. To enter the local contest the entries must be in by Aug. 25, and the contestants will compete on Aug. 26.

Semifinalists will be notified by their local Montgomery Ward store or catalog office and regional judging will take place in early September. If there are any questions, contact Helen Tessier, the Wendy Ward director, at the Montgomery Ward store in Montclair at 621-3054.

Claremont resident given national office

Mrs. Julia Arri, member of the Pomona Business and Professional Women's Club and a resident of Claremont, was elected second vice president of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs at its recent convention in Denver, Colo.

Mrs. Arri has been a member of the executive committee of the national unit for two years, having served in the offices of treasurer and third vice president. She also serves as a member of the board of trustees of the BPW Foundation. She is a past president of the Pomona club, of Sierra Mar District and of the state organization.

Mrs. Betty Eagon, immediate past president of the California Federation of BPW and a past president of the Pomona club, served as chairman of the floortellers committee for the national convention.

Reports of the convention activities will be presented at the Aug. 17 meeting of Pomona VPW Club when the group meets in the home of Mrs. Virginia Butler, 153 N. Verdugo, Glendora, for dinner.

La Verne unit sets gathering

The La Verne Woman's Christian Temperance Union members will hear a report by Mrs. Ruth Weaver on the annual workshop of the WCTU when the group meets at 2 p.m., Tuesday in Hillcrest Chapel.

The meeting will be preceded by an organ prelude by Mrs. Jenny Via. The devotions will be given by Mrs. Carrie Perrault, who for 20 years was administrator of the WCTU Home in Eagle Rock.

Subject of the devotions will be "God's Timing." Mrs. Via and Mrs. Spenser Minnich will present a vocal duet, "The Lord is my Shepherd."

Bill G. Ewing, superivsor de los programas del distrito para los Centros de Ninos, dijo el martes al Directorio que la Ley Foran provee $10 milones en California para una amplia diversidad de sistemas de atencion a los ninos incluyendo el de casas familiares, por grupos y lugares adecuados para atender adecuadamente a los minos en las edades preeslar o durante su asistencia a la escuela hasta los 18 durante parte del dia.

Un punto que hizo resaltar Ewing fue que la operacion de informar y dirigir al los necsitados del servicio de la atencion para sus ninos era necesario crearlo en el Vaue.

"La educacion publica lo incluye todo", dijo el delegado Don Donnelly. "No se si estamos haciendo tan buen trabajo ahora como debieramos hacer, y si esto continua, no se donde pararemos."

Solicitando de los delegados que "encaren la realidad de hoy", el miembro del directorio C. Allan Braswell dijo "las madres trabajan y los ninos que despues trataremos de educar."

La mocion para negar la solicitud fue hecha por Gene Whitlock y secundada por Donnelly. La votacion fue de 3-2, con los votos en contra de Braswell y de la Sra. Presidenta Mary Montes.

Ademas de este grupo, hay un gran numero de padres que no ganan suficiente y estudiantes del distrito que calificarian para el programa. Families con pequenos ingresos se pudieran beneficiar tambien y pagar en escala proporcional.

Obviamente disgustado por la accion del directorio escolar, Moses dijo que el dinero gastado en aconsejar y guiar por el distrito esta "puesto al dia, y si hacemos algo por adelantado, eso es prevencion. Con este tipo de prevenicion, las carceles y los proyectos de diversion juveniles debieran disminuir."

El dia final para solicitar dinero por los distritos escolares de California del fondo creado por la Ley Foran es el dia 16 de agosto.

Antonio Moreno hijo del matrimonio de Antonio A. Moreno y senora, de 1262 E. Ninth Street, Upland, ha completado su entrenamiento en el Campo de Reclutamiento del Cuerpo de la Marina, en San Diego. Estudiante de la Escuela Superior Upland, el Sr. Moreno se incorporo a la Marina en marzo.

Fiesta hoy

Unos cincuenta grupos civicos de la comunidad se uniran al Comite Bicentenario de Pomona para presentar la segunda Fiesta anual del Rancho San Jose en el dia de hoy en la Plaza del Centro Civico de Pomona.

La fiesta durara desde medio dia hasta las 9 de la noche y se presentaran durante dichas horas entretenimientos gratis personalmente desde dos plataformas suficientemente separadas. No hay que pagar por la asistencia a los actos.

Ademas la Banda El Destino, cantante Pete Avitaia, "Inland Theater/Actors Inc", los cantantes Familia MacPherson, el Capitulo del Valle de Pomona de la Sociedad para la Preservacion y Estimulo de los Cuartetos de Barberos de America, Kundalini Reserach Institute y la Banda Moveng Through.

Los operadores de los puestos y de las exhibiciones son: Avenue of the Flags Committee, Alcoholic Council of East San Gabriel and Pomona Valleys, Bahai'i Faith.

Ademas Bonita High School Motocross Team, Bonita Band Boosters Association, Brownie Troop 615, Claremont Collegiate School, Discover Pomona Committee, Humane Society of Pomona Valley.

General Telephone Co. of California, Kiwanis Club of Greater Pomona, Mexican-American Community Relations Committee, National Association of Accountants, Pomona Brewers Baseball Club, Pomona Unified School District.

Pomona Valley Board of Realtors; Pomona Valley Chapter, National Association for the Advancement of Colored People; Pomona Valley Chapter, Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Quartet Singing in America; Pomona YMCA Junior Police; San Dimas Jaycess; Women of the Moose; Pomona-Claremont Chapter, Women's Christian Temperance Union; Save a Family Crisis Hotline; Southwest Little League; and Traffic Club.

Nueva estacion de bomberos

Los senores concejales estuvieron de acuerdo en su sesion del lunes en la necesidad de la misma, la tercera estacion de bomberos, pero no acerca de su financiamiento o si debiera construirse en la propiedad municipal de la calle 13 y la Avenida Benson.

El plano ha sido presentado por el jefe de bomberos Sr. Leon Lamphear que sugiere remodelar la casa existente en la propiedad a un costo estimado de $5,000 y la construccion de una nave para el material movil de un costo de entre $30,000 y $40,000.

THE OLD SOFT SHOE — Actor-dancer Buddy Ebsen, who suffered a bout with phlebitis several weeks ago, is back on the set of his TV show, Barnaby Jones, tripping the light fantastic with his co-star, Lee Meriwether. Ebsen has recovered enough to return to work on a steady basis to film the season of the detective series.

AN EXHIBITION of the works of two young California artists will open Aug. 25 at the Municipal Gallery, Barnsdall Park, Los Angeles. They are Raymond Saunders, professor of art at Cal State Hayward, and Carson Gladson, art professor at El Camino College. Both painters have exhibited widely and have works in many public and private collections. Gallery hours are 12:30 to 5 p.m. Tuesday through Sunday. Admission is free.

Costeau to film underwater series

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A new series of underwater adventures for television has been announced by Jacques Cousteau, KCET public channel and Atlantic Richfield Co.

The Cousteau Society is preparing the 12-part series with the oceanographer and his son Philippe as directors. Atlantic Richfield is financing the films, which will appear on the Public Broadcasting Service over a three-year period.

The first four programs, "Search for Atlantis," are described as "a fascinating blend of myth and reality, delving into areas never before covered in TV documentaries."

Film producer wounded in domestic row

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Film producer Bruce Post Campbell has been booked for investigation of assault with a deadly weapon after he allegedly confronted police with a pellet gun.

Campbell, 44, was shot in the leg by officers who said the pellet gun appeared to be a rifle.

'Armour-piercing'

Satirist on target

By Carol Felsenthal

"Our forefathers were the most humorless people imaginable." In fact, they were exported for their lack of humor, not for their kinky religious preferences according to Richard Armour, a very funny and prolific man.

But in spite of this country's dour debut, Armour — author of more than 50 books of humor — believes that America's sense of humor and satire is the sharpest in the world.

The U.S., he points out, is one of the few countries where the high and mighty are by no means safe from the cutting edge of the satirist's sword. In Russia, for example, no one above the rank of supervisor need fear being cut down to size. In Great Britain, satirizing members of the royal family is just plain taboo, not to mention in terribly poor taste.

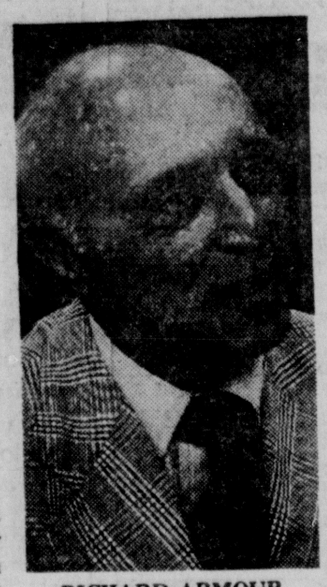
At a time when television and movies, not books, have become the sources of American humor, he seems part of an endangered species.

But, however much his millions of fans may fret, Armour is optimistic about the future of humor writing.

"All we need for humor to get better," Armour says, "is for times to get worse." That they always do, he clearly implies.

The trials and tribulations of frontier life, Armour explains, kindled the brilliance of Mark Twain, creator of "Huckleberry Finn", which in Armour's book is the greatest of all American books. The Civil War, the most uncivil and unsettling kind of war, brought Abe Lincoln, our only humorist president, to prominence.

Similarly, Robert Benchley, James Thurber, Fred Allen, products of the economic depression of the 30s, helped lift the accompanying emotional depression.



RICHARD ARMOUR

It's that irrepressible American ability for debunking pomposity and deflating pretension that keeps American humor healthy and keeps Armour, who has lectured and taught all over the world, anchored in southern California.

When he isn't lecturing or teaching, Armour pounds out light verse and prose on his ancient Royal.

Working all day everyday in his "Word Shop," Armour has written thousands of newspaper and magazine articles, the latter ranging in style and audience from the Saturday Evening Post to Playboy.

Some subjects of his wacky wit have included literature, art, sports, sex, education, war and the absurdities of adolescence and old age.

His latest, "The Happy Bookers," a history of books, libraries and librarians, was published this summer to coincide with the hundredth anniversary of the American Library Association and the Dewey Decimal system.

The book is also a testimonial to a life spent as much in the company of librarians ("my favorite people," Armour says), as in the company of his family.

In typical Armour style, this light history is the product of some heavy research and reading.

Armour, who has a Ph.D. from Harvard explains the method to his madness.

He's proud that his satire on war ("It All Started With Stones and Clubs") is recommended reading for first year West Point cadets and was purchased by every military library in the country — presumably for its historical, rather than hysterical or satirical value.

The "Happy Bookers" features the same happy combination. The reader simultaneously laughs at ancient Egyptian librarians plagued by patrons literally chewing and digesting new-fangled leather-bound books (the Stone variety didn't prove as appetizing) and learns about scrolls and hieroglyphics.

Baker to show craft

Ralph Nash, Canadian-born baker and cake decorator, will demonstrate his art at the monthly meeting of the Diamond Bar Artists Guild at the Coast Federal Savings & Loan Association, Diamond Bar, at 7:30 p.m. Thursday.

Nash, a fifth-generation baker, was trained by his father at Nash & Sons Bakery, Victoria, British Columbia. He has been baking and decorating cakes for 31 years. He will decorate a wedding cake with English Royal icing.

Admission to the meeting is $1. Information on the guild can be obtained from Maya Lalvani, 598-1329.

CLO to offer new musical

Critic Alistair Cooke termed it "the most ambitious, the bravest and the most enchanting breakthrough in American musical comedy since 'Oklahoma!' "

The original Broadway cast of "Pacific Overtures" and the award-winning scenery and costumes will be brought here from New York where the production was named Best Musical of 1976 by the New York Drama Critics Circle. It also won 10 Tony Award nominations. New York Times' Clive Barnes stated, "I would recommend it to the world."

"Pacific Overtures" is the story of Commodore Perry's historic voyage to Japan to open that then-isolated country to American progress and trade. The eagerness of the Americans, counterpointed by the reluctance of the Japanese, provides the basic conflict and drama from which author John Weidman has fashioned the book for "Pacific Overtures." Sondheim, whose last three Broadway shows, "Company," "Follies" and "A Little Night Music," have each won him the Tony Award for Best Music and Lyrics, has adapted traditional Japanese musical forms for the Broadway stage in "Pacific Overtures."

Prince, in his capacity as director, has drawn liberally from ancient Japanese Kabuki techniques in his staging.

"Pacific Overtures" has scenic design by Boris Aronson, by Florence Klotz and lighting by Tharon Musser. The choreography is by the award-winning Patricia Birch who was assisted by kabuki expert Haruki Fujimoto.

"Pacific Overtures" will play through Oct. 16.

Duarte can't close theater,

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A Superior Court judge has ruled the Duarte City Council can't close a theater which is showing what the council says are obscene films.

Judge Norman R. Dowds said Monday that as he interprets the Supreme Court ruling, "you cannot close down a theater merely because it is showing a dirty film."

NINA DIAMANTE

2 shows set at center

Singer-actress Nina Diamante and her husband, Jimmy Espinoza, will headline a show at the Pomona Education Center auditorium, 800 S. Garey Ave., at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday. The show is titled "Latino 76."

Espinoza and his wife recently signed a contract with Diversified Productions of Pomona. Both have extensive experience in television, theater and night clubs.

Tickets range from $10 to $6. Reservations can be made by calling 629-3450.

Jazz artists to perform

Jazz trumpeter Pete Daily and clarinetist Willie Martinez will be guest stars at the monthly meeting of the Society for the Preservation of Dixieland Jazz-East at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

The five-hour jazz session will be held at Riverside Moose Lodge, 5797 Picker St. The public is invited.

Daily is celebrating the re-release of his old record, "Pete Daily and the Chicagoans." He and Martinez have performed together for many years.

Martinez has also played with Alvino Rey and the King Sisters, Stan Kenton, Harry James and others. He was under contract to Columbia Studios for 10 years, and now leads his own band.

Louvre lineage

The Louvre Museum in Paris was first opened to the public on Nov. 8, 1793. The construction of the Louvre, originally intended as a royal residence, was started in 1204 by King Philippe Auguste. Its fine art collection was begun by Francis I in the 16th century.

Smog curtailing telescope viewing

PALOMAR MOUNTAIN (AP) - Smog from the Los Angeles and San Diego areas is having "a drastic effect" on space viewing from the Hale Observatory, its director says.

Dr. H. W. Babcock said "the reflector's viewing quality has been significantly affected" by light and dust pollution.

The U.S. Forest Service, meanwhile, is revising its rules for public use of federally owned land around the observatory and 2,000 acres owned by California Institute of Technolgy in Pasadena.

The 200-inch telescope will be protected from surging civilization as best it can be, ranger Wes Lewis said in a telephone interview Wednesday. "We recognize the significance of the telescope observatory."

Scientists estimate the $5-million Hale telescope installed 30 years ago would cost at least $30 million to replace.

"We will put up fences or whaver else we have to do" to protect it, said Lewis.

There was no word from Babcock or Caltech whether air pollution blamed on people was curtailing the scientists' work.

Dealers pay $500 for flawed coins

MONTREAL (AP) — Dealers and collectors are paying $400 to $500 for flawed $10 pieces in the first series of Canadian Olympic coins, Austin Page, managing director of the Canadian Olympic Coin Program, said during the weekend.

Page said 30 of the imperfect coins have surfaced, but officials don't know how many might have been produced before the dies were changed.

The coin without the imperfection has the head of Queen Elizabeth II on one side and the Montreal skyline on the other.

The imperfect coins have a faint impression of the queen's head on the skyline side and a similarly faint impression of the skyline across the queen's neck on her side.

Grand opening is scheduled at Highlands

The Highlands residential development in Etiwanda is proof that single family homes can be put on the market at prices that don't outstrain family budgets, said Randall Lewis, vice president of Lewis Homes.

The development, consisting of 35 homes, is located near Rochester Avenue and Church Street. Prospective home buyers are invited to view the new homes today during the development's grand opening.

Buyers may choose from five floor plans and nine exterior motifs. The homes are priced from $29,200, with FHA and VA financing available.

"Getting the price scale that low has to be regarded as quite an accomplishment considering that we haven't skimped a bit on quality," said Lewis.

"We've given The Highlands the same care in construction that we give our more expensive homes."

Marijuana too close to sheriffs

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Marijuana plants were found growing in front of the Sacramento County sheriff's department and had to be destroyed.

"They were one-half to one-fourth inch high," Bill Miller, a spokesman for the department said.

Raiders attack

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — Armed raiders attacked a group of French teachers and their families at a hotel just inside Ethiopia, killing one of them and apparently kidnaping another, a French Embassy spokesman said today.

A woman seriously injured in the attack underwent surgery today at a Nairobi hospital to remove a bullet from her rib cage, the spokesman said.

The attack occurred just before dawn Tuesday half a mile from the town of Moyale on the Kenyan-Ethiopian border, he said. The French, who work in Ethiopia, were traveling to Kenya for a holiday.

The embassy said the dead woman was Elizabeth Burst and the missing man was Alain Galaup. It said he apparently was kidnaped by the raiders as they retreated. Mrs. Burst was with her husband and child, who were not hurt, the spokesman said.

PLANNED DEVELOPMENT — This drawing depicts the $35 million planned residential community, Anaheim Shores, being constructed by Matreyek Homes of Upland on a 120-acre site in Anaheim. The project includes a 5.8 acre lake.

Matreyek builds Anaheim Shores

The Matreyek Homes of Upland has begun construction on the initial phase of a $35 million planned residential development in Anaheim.

The development, called Anaheim Shores, is located on a 120-acre site on La Palma Avenue between Brookhurst and Euclid avenues.

The community with 394 single family detached homes will feature a 5.8 acre lake with a mile of jogging and walking trails along a shoreline accented by bridges, waterfalls and streams.

Residents will also have use of pools and recreation areas.

Construction will be completed in seven phases, said Phil L. Velie, president of Matreyek Homes, and Bill A. Matreyek, chairman of the Upland development firm.

The south shore phases will consist of 212 homes designed by Architect Larry Jack Wood of Claremont. The first 62 units are scheduled for occupancy next December, with preview showings to start in November.

The projected sales price for the two, three and four bedroom homes will range from $62,500 to $75,000. Choice lots will also include lot location premiums.

Also included in the community will be an adult-oriented mobile home development on 35 acres along the north boundary. The 263 mobile sites will have separate recreational facilities located within the mobile home park.

These will include a recreation building, swimming pool and storage spaces. Leases for the mobile home sites, ranging from 40 to 62 feet in width, will average $170 per month.

To complete the Anaheim Shores community will be a future planned 11.2 acre city park and a four acre village center to provide shopping needs for residents.

The homes, which feature indoor atriums, will also be built in Matreyek's North Hills of Upland development scheduled for occupancy next December.

The development is located at Mountain Avenue and 17th Street. Work began last August.

Ontario gets 102 houses

This boosts the total number of house permits so far this year to 781, with a combined valuation of $25,461,083.

For the month, the city issued 148 building permits which represent a total valuation of $3,863,777. This boosts the totals so far this year to 924 permits and $31,735,936 valuation.

Permits issued for other categories include:

— Dwelling alterations, 65 permits and $163,060 valuation; commercial buildings, two, $150,000; alterations to commercial and industrial buildings, four, $64,500; and miscellaneous buildings, 52, $134,430.

Motor travel

It has been estimated that if motor vehicle travel continues to increase at its present rate, by 1990 vehicles will be covering some two trillion miles annually.

Farms seen as good realty investments

So believes Arno Gunther Seegers, a financial planner and registered principal of the Private Ledger Financial Services, Inc., Los Angeles.

"Today, rising rents and tax advantages make income property the preferred investment. But that isn't the case in urban areas where there are rent controls," he explained.

"Since the value of a property rises in relation to the gross income it produces, increasing rents are vital to an investor's profit over a five to seven year period.

"Should government impose rent controls as it recently did in Washington, D.C., it almost freezes the property value and thus damages the profit potential."

A number of other American cities also have rent controls, including New York and Boston. "Remember that only a few years ago, when price controls were implemented nationwide, rent controls were part of that program so the reimposition of rent controls in Southern California isn't as remote a possibility as you might think," he added.

Fear of controls have not yet impacted the real estate market here but supply and demand is still the primary pressure, said Seegers.

The inflationary situation that could cause wide spread rent controls may also make it necessary for government to give farm land a "tax loophole boost," he theorized.

"The U.S. must continue to increase its exports in order to improve the balance of payments — the number of dollars flowing in and out of this country. And the exporation of agricultural products is one important way to do that.

"Thus, for the first time since the end of World War II, we could find ourselves encouraging all farming — not paying the farmer to grow certain crops and let other lands lie unused.

"Both the yield and the government subsidies would interact to make fertile soil more profitable than apartment and commercial structures," he said.

While these are speculative trends, Seeger said he is advising his clients to buy large, well managed farm properties.

"Either situation could cause prices of farm land to react and with very little advance warning," said Seegers. "A city or county government planning rent control would have to spring it as a surprise, otherwise it would not be effective. And surprise situations don't allow enough time to react where real estate transactions are involved," said Seeger.

Volcanic gas kills 2

NAGANOHARA, Japan (AP) — Poisonous volcanic gas killed two persons and injured 17 today when a group of high school girls climbed near a 7,181-foot active volcano, police reported.

Killed were two pupils, 15 and 16 years old, attending a summer camp near Mt. Moto Shirane, about 100 miles northwest of Tokyo. A 39-year-old teacher and another 15-year-old pupil were reported in serious condition.

The 38 climbers were trapped in hydrogen sulfide gas when they neared the mountain top and encountered little wind to dilute the deadly gas, authorities said.

Another party saw the victims fall and climbed down to report to police.

Hydrogen sulfide initially causes vomiting, headache and dizziness and then paralyzes the central nervous system, authorities said.

WOULD YOU LIKE . . . . . .

1. Excellent opportunity for advancement as quickly as you are qualified?
2. To earn $12,000 to $20,000 annually? (our 18 top representatives did this last year, and several others earned more than $10,000).
3. Permanent employment where age is no factor?
4. Thorough inside training with continued field help as needed?
5. To close your sale after only one call?
6. No out-of-town travel?
7. Employee benefits such as pension plan & hospitalization?
8. To sell a non-competitive product?
9. To offer the most appreciated service the purchaser will ever buy?
10. To know in advance this is not insurance, books, appliances?

If you answered YES to at least 7 of the above questions then come and see:

Polly's Pointers

DEAR POLLY — Place a deodorant block or piece of cotton soaked in pine oil inside the canister part (not the dust bag) of your vacuum cleaner to freshen the air as you clean. —JEANNINE.

•

DEAR POLLY — A simple and easy way to soften cream cheese is to place the unopened package of cheese in a colander over a pan of hot water for a few minutes. —MARGARET.

•

Send your helpful hints to Polly's Pointers in care of this newspaper.

DEAR POLLY — I like to do needlepoint but do not have the proper frames to work larger pieces. I roll the canvas on a cardboard roller from foil or waxed paper and secure the edges with long hair clips. I can work the center stitches without stretching the outer canvas mesh. —MELMA.

•

DEAR POLLY — For years I have used the following method for keeping my own embroidery floss neat and handy: All you need is a discarded magazine. Place a skein of thread between two pages, with the thread ends hanging out and then fold the page under the thread in half so it holds the thread in securely. Repeat this on different pages with all your colors. —SHERRY.

•

DEAR POLLY — Place a small inflated wading pool in the back of the station wagon for a safe riding place for children. The soft sides protect them from falls and bumps. —DOT.

DEAR POLLY — When your daughters have outgrown their flannel nightgowns, cut the skirts apart and then sew them into pillowcases. If a gown has a ruffle, use the ruffle around the pillowcase opening. —BERTHA.

•

DEAR POLLY — When making a cake or cookies by hand, fill the mixing bowl to be used with very hot water and let it stand while you collect the various ingredients. Empty the bowl, add the shortening and sugar and they'll cream in half the usual time. —MRS. H.J.

•

DEAR POLLY — Here's a clip-and-save for growing tomatoes. Try using the large plastic tops of spray cleaner cans to start the seeds in. They can be covered with plastic wrap until plants appear. After danger of forst has passed, plants can be easily removed and planted in the garden. —LINDA.

THIS WEEK'S TOP PRIZE QUESTION:

ANNA MARIE CARTER OF ADEL, GA, ASKS:

"WHY DO LEAVES CHANGE COLOR IN THE AUTUMN?"

THE GREEN THAT YOU SEE IN LEAVES ALL SUMMER COMES FROM THE GREEN FOOD-MAKING SUBSTANCE CALLED CHLOROPHYLL. THERE ARE OTHER COLORS PRESENT IN THE LEAF, TOO, BUT THEY ARE HIDDEN BY THE STRONGER GREEN. IN AUTUMN, WHEN THE TIME TO SHED LEAVES APPROACHES, THE LEAF STOPS MAKING FOOD AND THE GREEN CHLOROPHYLL BEGINS TO DISAPPEAR. AS THE GREEN COLOR FADES, THE YELLOW, RED, ORANGE, OR PURPLE AUTUMN COLORS THAT HAD BEEN HIDDEN IN THE LEAF ALL THE TIME BECOME VISIBLE.

Amtrak will cut prices on special USA passes

The rail corporation announced on Wednesday that starting Sept. 8, its 14-day USARail pass will cost $165. A 21-day pass will sell for $220 and a 30-day pass for $275. The rates will be in effect until May 15.

The fares are 34 per cent lower than the current summer excursion rates, but 10 per cent higher than they were when first introduced last winter. The 14-day pass now sells for $250, the 21-day pass for $325 and the 30-day pass for $400.

The fares apply only to citizens of North America. Amtrak offers overseas visitors a separate reduced rate, although it is discontinuing that discount on Nov. 1.

ACTORS TO BE AT PLAZA — A professional acting company, Actors Inc. will make a special appearance at the Montclair Plaza Friday at 4, 6, and 8 p.m. The 40 minute show will be held in conjunction with the Plaza's 8th Anniversary Theme, "International Week." The show will follow the development of America through music. Actors Inc. perform a variety of material.

GENTRY FAMILY SINGERS

Gentry Family to present concert

A unique singing group, the Gentry Family Singers, from Fontana, will be presenting a special 30 minute concert at the Montclair Plaza on Friday at 7 P.M. as they help to celebrate "U.S.A. Day" during the Plaza's International Week.

The Gentry Family Singers, which consist of Mom and Dad (Carl and Tannie), son Virgil, and daughters April and Rhonda, have been singing together as a family for almost a year. The Gentry's have been enjoying wide acceptance because of their uniqueness and capabilities in singing such favorite songs as "Love Will Keep Us Together," "Sing," and "Joy to the World." Special performances have been made at Fairs, Banquets, and Disneyland.

Bring the entire family to see family entertainment at its best.

Tot Toggery has bag coloring contest

The Tot Toggery Children's Stores bag coloring contest is well under way at the Montclair Plaza. A total of 86 prizes will be awarded from eight local Tot Toggery stores. Grand prizes of a $100 gift certificate will be awarded to each age group. There will be five $10.00 and five $5.00 gift certificates awarded at each store.

The contest ends September 26th. No entry will be accepted after September 10th. There are three age groups competing: Group 1 — ages 4, 5, 6; Group 2 — ages 7, 8, 9; Group 3 — ages 10, 11, 12. Bags are available at all Tot Toggery stores, no purchase necessary. Contestants requesting a bag must be accompanied by an adult. Children of Tot Toggery employes will not be eligible for the contest. Only one bag per child may be entered. Each bag must have the contestant's name, address, phone number, age and store number printed on the back. The contestant's parents or legal guardian must sign their name certifying that the coloring was the exclusive work of the contestant. Winner's names will be posted in all stores on October 9th, 1976. All pictures will become the property of Tot Toggery and will not be returned. Bags may be colored with any media. Use your imagination!

LOSE FAT

"MODEL-ETTS" HELPS CURB YOUR APPETITE
•NO CALORIE COUNTING! •NO EXERCISES!
•NO SPECIAL DIETS!

Thanks to a group of New York doctors, you can now lose pounds of ugly fat without going on any special diet, without cutting out any special foods.

HELPS REDUCE HUNGRY MOMENTS

These New York doctors discovered a food adjuvant called "MODEL-ETTS." "Model-etts" does remarkable things. It helps you cut down your caloric intake by a natural automatic curbing of the appetite and of the desire for foods, resulting automatically in a reduced intake of food.

The doctors carefully checked results, and here is what they found: 1. Weight losses of 6 to 20 pounds without any ill effects whatsoever. 2. 96% of the men and women who used "Model-etts" lost weight. "Model-etts" is absolutely safe. It is a food adjuvant—not a drug. So, start today to shed those unwanted pounds and inches. If your condition is glandular or organic, see your doctor. "Model-etts" may help you stay on the diet your doctor recommends. Ask him about it.

One "Model-etts" Wafer has the hunger satisfying capacity of 1 pound boiled potatoes or 4 eggs or 5 slices of white bread, yet it contains only 6 calories.

Plaza shop has exciting lighting

One of California's most outstanding displays of home lighting is located at Montclair Plaza. The selection includes exciting imports from around the world, in styles to compliment any decorating scheme.

Davis Lighting has thousands of loyal customers from such far away places as Beverly Hills, Glendale, Encino, Palm Springs, as well as the Pomona Valley. These customers are absolutely convinced that Davis Lighting offers thousands of outstanding decorator items at half the price seen in other stores.

Lowell Davis, owner of Davis Lighting says he is able to offer such savings by cutting out the middle-man profit by direct importing or by completely assembling the item in his own shop.

"By doing this," Davis said, "we can actually sell thousands of beautiful decorator lighting ideas at savings of 50 per cent and more."

If you have not already discovered Davis Lighting, why not stop by and take a look. If you are already one of their many satisfied customers, now is the time to make a visit. The new selection is better than ever, and as always, the savings are outstanding.

DECORATOR ITEMS — are available at Davis Lighting at the Montclair Plaza. Lowell Davis, owner of the shop, is shown standing with just some of the shops items. Customers come from miles around to take advantage of Davis' wide selection of lamps.

Lady Markell has been in business since 1920, specializing in large size women's wear since 1958. Recognizing the need for fashion in women's larger sizes, Harry Gold opened the first Lady Markell in San Bernardino in 1958. In 1961, a Riverside store was opened, and in 1968 Lady Markell opened their store in the Montclair Plaza.

Since 1958, we have seen a rising number of manufacturers specializing in larger sizes making it possible for Lady Markell to select from a more diverse and complete line of fashions.

The trend has gone from traditional ready to wear departments — dresses, coats, suits, to sportswear — coordinates and separates. Even coats are reflecting this trend. Pant coats are showing more importance than street length coats. Bright and lively colors and younger styles in pant tops and pants bring the larger woman in touch with contemporary styling.

Lady Markell's experience and forward looking selections promise to keep the half size and larger woman on top of the fashion trends for years to come. Five trips annually to New York City, America's fashion center, by Lady Markell's buyer keeps their stock fresh and new.

Forecasting Fall, Lady Markell can alert the consumer to expect super looks in sweaters as well as jeans and calcutta fabrics in bottoms. Velvets for holidays will be featured with long skirts playing an important role.

17 more shot in Sudan

KHARTOUM, Sudan (AP) — Seventeen more men were shot by firing squads at dawn today for taking part in the attempt to overthrow President Jaafar el-Numairi last month, the Sudanese government announced.

Eighty-one persons were executed Wednesday.

Those who died today included Brig. Mohammed Nur Saad, who led the rebel attack in Khartoum July 2-3, the official Omdurman Radio reported. All the death sentences were ratified by Numairi.

Life sentences given to four rebels were reduced to 10 years, and one man tried by special military tribunal was acquitted, the broadcast said.

Awaiting sentencing are 210 men.

Saad, 40, was involved in an attempted coup last September and fled the country when it failed. He was reportedly allied with former Prime Minister Sadek el-Mahdi, leader of the conservative Ansar sect, who told a news conference in London that his Sudanese National Front was responsible for the rebellion last month.

RICHARD GOROW — A graduate of UCLA and a member of the Masonic order, Richard Gorow manages Montgomery Ward. He managed the Covina store before transferring to the Montclair operation. He joined the firm in 1964. He lives in Fullerton with his wife, Dorothy, and the couple's three children.

'Maybe we'll serve you'

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Ice cream and sandwiches, maybe? Judging from the store sign, the proprietor of the restaurant appeared to be in doubt.

Actually, the neon sign had said, "Mayberry," but the "rry" portion burned out recently, leaving the "maybe" in effect.

JACK PIFER — Jack is manager of General Telephone's Phone Mart, located just south of the main Plaza. The mart is the third store of its type to be introduced in the Southern California area. The system allows a customer to select the type of telephone and then take it home and plug it in to special preinstalled jacks for instant service.

"Flo's Place," another comedy pilot (NBC, Monday at 8PM), stars Della Reese as the owner/operator of a ramshackle but clean restaurant and boarding house near the San Pedro wharf, who inherits a tug boat. She and her son Louis (Eric Laneuville) find that it costs more to own a tug than it's worth and are eventually rescued from debt by Berto (Art Metrano) a former Navy man who buys the boat.

All Wrapped Up!!

"For Better or Worse," a comedy pilot on NBC, Friday at 8PM, stars Jack Weston and Marge Redmond (husband and wife in real life), as Jack and Marge Holland, a couple who celebrates their 20th wedding anniversary and end up visiting a marriage counselor. The couple invites Jack's business partner, Steve Weber (Conrad Janis) and his girlfriend Bambi (Nancy McCormick) to their anniversary dinner, and have one of their "famous" arguments. Steve and Bambi convince the Hollands to visit a marriage counselor (Edgar Daniels), and all seems serene until Jack and Marge try an experiment in touching.

'SLIPPING INTO A NEW SKIN'

"I have to soak up a character, slip into her skin, before I can play her," says Emmy-winning actress Cicely Tyson who literally put on another skin for her portrayal of a 110-year-old former slave.

"The Autobiography of Miss Jane Pittman," the story of one woman's long and eventful life and her courageous stand for the freedom and dignity of her people, will be rebroadcast as a special presentation on The CBS Wednesday Night Movies Wednesday, at 9PM on CBS.

Four months before filming started, make-up artists Stan Winton and Rick Baker began working with Miss Tyson to create her make-up, made from wafer-thin layers of foam rubber, that would "age" the actress. For their work, Winston and Baker also won an Emmy, bringing to a total of nine the Awards bestowed on the special by the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences. To create the make-up, Winston and Baker first made plaster casts of Miss Tyson's young, natural face and models of the faces she would assume as Jane Pittman at 75, 90 and finally 110 years of age. Then they designed the thin overlays that would be applied to each part of the actress' face, as well as to her hands and wrists. Other individual touches included separately applied eyebrow and facial hairs, yellow contact lenses that darkened and dulled her eyes, and a gold tooth. Application of the make-up during filming took six hours each day, starting early in the morning.

To test the authenticity of the make-up, Miss Tyson first went before the cameras as a 90-year-old woman: "I was nervous about seeing myself looking so realistically old," she said later, "but as I started to be Jane for the first time, I began to feel what it's like to have had such a long, hard life behind you. The make-up not only made me look old, but actually helped me feel old. As the application of it went on each morning I could almost feel the years seeping into my bones–and experience seeping into my head and heart."

Lee Remick is the woman who brings a new awareness of tenderness to James Coburn—a professional killer—in Hard Contract, an encore movie presentation on ABC Friday at 9PM.

'BRIGHTENING THE SUMMER'

For the most part, the television networks would just as soon forget about August. They spend most of their time, then, looking ahead to September, when the new TV season starts. A mini-series of specials starring a major talent such as Diahann Carroll therefore simply is something you don't expect in August. After all, the last time the lovely actress-singer had her own show on television was with the hit comedy series, Julia, the show which blazed new trails for blacks on TV.

Her mini-series, Saturdays (August 14, 21, 28 and September 4, 10-11 PM), would be a welcome addition anytime, but are even more of a treat during these last hot summer weeks.

The look and feel of the shows are designed to take our minds off the summer heat. Gone are the sterile curtain backdrops and garnish studio sets. In their place are soft and spring-like garden settings, enhanced by Diahann's own original costumes, fashioned by top designer Bob Mackie. She will wear gowns worth more than $50,000 during the four shows, ranging from cool to sultry to WOW! Which gives you more evidence that these are not the usual limited-budget variety shows the networks occasionally will schedule during the summer months.

Diahann's guest stars during the four weeks also are among the brightest in the Hollywood firmament. They include Sammy Davis Jr., Telly Savalas, Johnny Mathis, Marvin Hamlisch, Jim Nabors, Betty White, Phyllis Diller and Anne Meara.

In addition, she will be bringing on some new talent, in some cases providing them with their first television network exposure. Among these are singers Jon Lucien and George Benson and The Cleveland Choir.

Diahann of course, will be doing much more than merely acting as a traffic cop for all that talent. Because of "Julia" and Diahann's recent Oscar-nominated non-singing role in the film "Claudine," people sometimes forget that she started as a nightclub singer and quickly graduated to the Broadway stage. There, she was an instant hit, winning a Tony Award for the musical, "No Strings." "I still feel the best way to communicate is through music," says Diahann, "and I'm loving every moment of this series of specials as a chance to reach audiences in the way I feel does it best."

The results are likely to surprise many of her fans who only have seen her as the nurse in "Julia" or in her serio-comedy role as the Harlem mother on welfare trying to cope with her children, her new boyfriend (James Earl Jones) and the welfare worker.

A major feature of each of the specials will be Diahann's tribute to some of the great musical figures of our past. Thus, the music, style and atmosphere created by Josephine Baker, Duke Ellington, Carmen Miranda and Ethel Waters during the past few decades will be brought to life by Diahann, giving some younger viewers perhaps their first glimpse at some important figures in our musical history.

Joey Bishop guest hosts for the first time this year on NBC's The Tonight Show Starring Johnny Carson, Monday–Friday, at 11:30PM.

How to survive the earthquake that's coming.

When the earth decides to quake, there's nothing any of us can do about it.

And if we can believe the experts, it's going to quake. Right here in Southern California. Within the next eight months.

Starting tonight on Eyewitness News, Dr. George Fischbeck will be bringing you a four-part Eyewitness Closeup on earthquake prediction and how it can help us plan for safety.

He'll show you what to do if you're trapped at home. At the top of a high-rise office building. Or near a dammed-up reservoir.

Join him tonight at six on Channel 7. It may shake you up a little. But it'll also put you on firmer ground for when the real thing comes.

"THE NEXT BIG QUAKE."

An Eyewitness Closeup with Dr. George Fischbeck.
Tuesday through Friday at 6:00 P.M. on Eyewitness News.

120 S. EUCLID, UPLAND "AT RUGG LUMBER"

'Romantic Suspense'

More than a scattering of feminine hearts did a second empathetic flipflop when another woman entered the life of Richard Bellamy, the eminently eligible mature hearthrob of Upstairs, Downstairs.

Previously, they had held their collective breath until Hazel was safely, if not entirely happily, married to James. Then in through the door of 165 Eaton Place walked pert and plucky Virginia Hamilton in the very pretty person of British actress Hannah Gordon.

Would she walk right out again? Would she stay to assume a part in the life of the handsome upstairs widower? Would she rekindle thoughts properly set aside when poor Lady Marjorie went down on the Titanic?

Answers to these suspenseful questions can be found on PBS Thursday evenings at 8PM. In the meantime, it's no secret that Hannah Gordon has a passion not only for Upstairs, Downstairs, but for the Edwardian era in which the earlier episodes were set.

"I wish we were back in the Edwardian era," says the diminutive stage-TV star. "I adore the clothes they wore then and the style they had then. A lot of it remains, of course, but now that the program is going through the First World War the characters are having to suffer discomfort and economize in their lifestyle."

Hannah says she fell in love with "Upstairs, Downstairs" long before producer John Hawkesworth, bent on getting her for the series, signed her up first, and then wrote in a part to suit. Like millions of others, she had invariably made very sure that nothing prevented her from being in front of the telly when the Bellamys and their downstairs entourage were airing their peccadillos and their problems, and recollects missing "only one program since the series started."

She also spent many a delightful hour while making the hilariously successful British TV series "My Wife Next Door" listening to John Alderton, who had just finished playing Thomas Watkins, the Bellamys' first chauffeur, talk about "the air of magic that seems to surround the show."

Hannah had a firsthand taste of that magic the day she first walked on to the Upstairs, Downstairs set and found herself entirely comfortable even though she's "never come into the middle of something before."

"Normally, a cast has to create something from scratch," she's found, "but the situation here is very different and very interesting. With Upstairs, Downstairs, I find myself getting very positive reactions from the other members of the cast and this has helped me find and develop the character of Mrs. Hamilton."

Hannah also had some help from producer John Hawkesworth, who filled her in on Mrs. Hamilton's background and character. But he left the actual creation and interpretation of the part to her, explaining that he was sure she would add another source of great interest into the lives of the Bellamy family.

He didn't mention, at the time, what she'd be doing to the pulse rate of all the ladies whose dream cap has been set for Richard Bellamy ever since Lady Marjorie decided to take that trip on the Titanic.

A NEW BEGINNING

On an overcast day at Universal Studios' backlot, 75 members of the "Columbo" cast and crew assembled to start production on the NBC series' new season. The crew call was for 7:30 a.m. and by 8 cameras were ready to roll.

By 8:25, no one, including director Bernie Kowalski, had seen the title star, Peter Falk, who had stated in interviews and on television talk shows that he had "hung up his raincoat."

However, a script had been written, guest stars (William Shatner, Lola Albright and Bert Remsen) had been signed and the production crew and two cameras were ready to start the sixth season of the popular show.

At 8:50 a.m. Falk arrived, proving the authenticity of the report in the industry that he would again play Columbo. After some friendly hellos, Falk went into his mobile dressing room and soon emerged, the famous raincoat off the hanger and on the star.

Undisturbed by the sounds of fog horns, seagulls and the cry of a "man" being devoured by a monstrous shark—all part of the "Jaws" exhibit on the Universal Studios tour—Falk rehearsed and conferred with Kowalski and actor Alan Manson.

The suspense was over—Columbo was back.

TELE-TALK

John Ireland will be the guest star of "Little Girl Lost," a segment for the "Little House on the Prairie" series' third season on NBC, which starts in September (Wednesdays, 8PM).

Hope Lange, who starred in the TV series The Ghost and Mrs. Muir, has been signed to guest-star in the "Afternoon Waltz" episode of NBC's upcoming series, Gibbsville.

Lange, who was nominated for an Academy Award for her performance in the motion picture Peyton Place, will portray Harriet Shields, a member of the Gibbsville uppercrust who encourages a young heir into a romantic involvement.

Róbert Walker, son of the late actor of the same name and actress Jennifer Jones, guest-stars as Nat Stark, a member of the revolutionary underground, in "Tender Soldier," an episode of NBC's Police Woman now in production at the Burbank (Calif.) Studios.

Others in the guest cast are Mark Harmon, son of sportscaster Tom Harmon; Peter Hansen; and Cathey Paine, who plays a rich girl turned revolutionary.

"Tender Soldiers" was written by Scott Swanton, co-author of the book, "Patty Hearst and Me."

Julie Andrews has recorded a special promotional record for The Puzzle Children, her public television special which is being produced by WQED, Pittsburgh, under a grant from the 3M Company. The record features Miss Andrews singing "Something", with music and lyrics by Joe Raposo, from "The Puzzle Children" and also a personal message from the actress. PBS will distribute the record to radio stations all over the country.

Chico and the Man will shoot a special two parter to introduce Della Reese and start off the new season, it was announced by exec producer James Komack. The two segments, "Della Moves In" and "The Second Coming of Della", are being written by supervising producer Hal Kanter and producer Michael Morris. They will serve to introduce Della Reese as a regular on the series in her role of Della Rogers, a politically minded woman in the catering business who is also Ed Brown's landlady.

"Rosemary's Baby II," a terrifying sequel to one of the most popular films of the last decade, has started filming in Hollywood for telecast during the 1976-77 season on ABC.

Oscar winners Ruth Gordon, Ray Milland and Patty Duke Astin head the cast of the two-hour drama. Miss Gordon will recreate her Oscar-winning role as the mysterious Minnie Castevet. Stephen McHattie, who won critical acclaim for his portrayal of James Dean last season, stars as Rosemary's now grownup son. Also starring are George Maharis, Donna Mills, Tina Louise and David Huffman.

"Rosemary's Baby II" traces the growth of the boy, Andrew, whose birth was guided by a strange coven of devil worshipers. Ruled by a Satanic curse, the boy struggles to escape from the Satanists but finds that they can control his life at will and that he is helpless to prevent the ultimate destiny they have planned for him.

Sam O'Steen is directing the screenplay which was written by Anthony Wilson. Wilson is also the producer for Paramount Television. The director of photography is John A. Alonzo whose recent credits have included "Chinatown," "Lady Sings the Blues," and "Farewell, My Lovely."

Ask Them Yourself

Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question, on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N.Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

FOR CHARO

Is it difficult to be married to a man so much older than you?—S.M., Twin Falls, Idaho

● When Cugie (Xavier Cugat) brought me to America from Spain, he said, "You're young and beautiful, and I don't want to stop you from having a good time." Like most people my age, I'm very independent, and I don't like to be told what to do. If Cugie had given me instructions on how I was to behave, I probably would have gone out of my way to do the opposite. As it was, because he was able to make such a generous, unselfish statement, I have never had any difficulty remaining loyal to him, despite the more than 40-year age difference.

FOR JOHN DENVER

Did you always plan a career in show business?—Amy Campbell, Bedford, Mich.

● No. Originally I wanted to be in the Air Force. In fact, I applied for admission to the United States Air Force Academy, but I was rejected because of my eyes.

FOR POLLY BERGEN

You have a reputation for being smart, so will you spoil it by telling me about the stupidest thing you ever did?—J.S., Fort Worth, Tex.

● Sure. I put my whole salary on the crap table. That was in 1947, when I had just started singing (in Las Vegas). I plopped everything down—double or nothing. That was the first and last time I ever did such an asinine thing—and, ironically, it was also the only time I ever won!

FOR HELEN REDDY

Were you offended by being named to the Worst Dressed List?—Elaine Laramee, Ogden, Utah

● And how! Last year I was No. 1 on the list. This year I was demoted to No. 2, and I'm furious! I got great publicity from heading the list, and I felt sure I'd win that "honor" again this year. Oddly enough, most of the people I meet don't seem to agree with Richard Blackwell, who composes the list. Wish I knew just who he is and what he does besides making lists.

FOR DON MEREDITH, actor-sportscaster

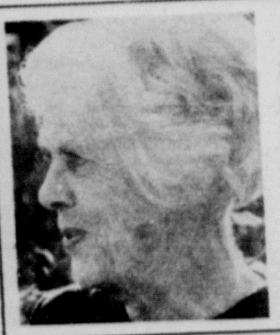
You seem to be so at ease as an actor. Did you take acting lessons?—Mrs. A.R., Rumson, N.J.

● I went to a drama coach once. She charged me $40 an hour and spent the first half-hour telling me what she had done in her own career. Then she spent the second half-hour trying to get me to get her a job in a film I was working on. So much for coaching. Actually, just working with fine actors gave me excellent training.

FOR ART LINKLETTER

As an adopted child, did you ever get to know your real parents?—E. Davis, Joplin, Mo.

● I found out who my natural parents are, but I have never contacted them. My real parents are my adopted ones (now deceased). They earned my undying love and respect. It never bothered me not to know anything about my natural mother and father.



FOR MRS. LILLIAN CARTER, mother of Jimmy Carter

Did you encourage your son to enter politics?—Mrs. L. Mills, Hobart, Ind.

● My late husband was deeply involved in political life. In fact, he was elected to the Georgia State Legislature. So politics was part of the family atmosphere when Jimmy was growing up. When he first considered running for governor in 1966, I did not press him one way or the other. He knew that I would support him wholeheartedly in whatever he did.

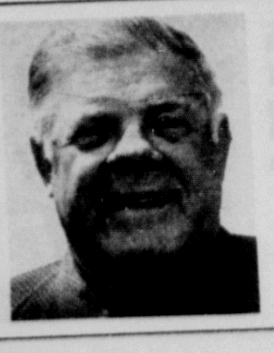
What was your most ego-shattering experience?—A.S., Oklahoma City, Okla.

● When I went into a bookstore and saw some of my books on the "used" shelf. I looked inside and guess what I found out? Three of my friends (or should I say ex-friends) had disposed of their autographed copies of "The Best of Everything," my first book. That was a rotten thing to do. They could have at least had the decency to rip out the front page with my signed message on it.



FOR WEEB EWBANK, former pro football coach

You coached both Johnny Unitas and Joe Namath at the peaks of their careers. How do you compare them?—Brad Peterson, Providence, Utah

● Joe was a little quicker setting up, and his hook passes were faster. John was better on play-action passes and roll-outs, probably because he had more mobility. In leadership, knowledge of game, preparing for a game, they were equal. Both are Hall of Fame material, and I was fortunate to have them.

FOR THE "ASK THEM YOURSELF" EDITOR

I saw a real old movie with Tony Martin, and I'd like to know whether he's still married to Cyd Charisse and whether he can still sing?—P.B., Lima, Ohio

● Tony and Cyd—married in 1948 and parents of Nicky and Tony Jr.—are still together. (He eloped with his first wife, Alice Faye, in 1937; they divorced three years later.) He hasn't given up singing, but his voice isn't what it used to be. That's probably why he's turning more to acting. But his sense of humor is still the same. He says: "I'm 35—around the waist." He tells a story of when he co-starred with Esther Williams in "Easy to Love": "I had to sing to her in a canoe. Suddenly the director yelled, 'Cut! Esther is smiling, and we can't see what you're doing with your hands!' The problem was solved by my singing as I held up an oar—so everyone could see I was not holding Esther."

On the Eve of the "Showdown":
Where Ford Stands on Today's

By the FAMILY WEEKLY Editors

As the nation's attention turns to the opening of the Republican National Convention in Kansas City, the two names on everyone's tongue will be Gerald Ford and Ronald Reagan. Reagan, whose views were covered in the June 13 issue of FAMILY WEEKLY, has shown surprising strength against Ford. This article focuses on President Ford's answers to some of the problems of the day, and how he would handle them should he serve another term in the White House.

On Inflation: Since I took office in late 1974, I have worked vigorously to reduce inflation and to reverse the decline of the economy. I am pleased that our efforts have been successful. The key economic indicators are going in the right direction. I pledge to continue my fight against inflation by not overstimulating the economy as we enter into the expansionary stage of our recovery. Such overstimulation would re-ignite inflation and risk another recession. The key to fighting inflation and creating new job opportunities is to control Federal deficit spending. My budget proposals, if accepted by the Democratic Congress, will assure a balanced budget by 1979 and a strong and durable economic growth for America.

On Busing: To many Americans, busing appears the only way to achieve equal educational opportunities. To many other Americans, busing appears to restrict individual freedom.

It is my responsibility and the responsibility of Congress to seek a solution to this problem.

I recently submitted to the Congress legislation asking Congress to join with me in establishing guidelines for the lower Federal courts to follow in school desegregation cases. Busing as a remedy ought to be the last resort, and it ought to be limited in duration and scope to correcting the effects of previous violations. The legislative guidelines I have suggested would establish this in law.

I believe every American community should desegregate on a voluntary basis. Therefore, I have also proposed the establishment of a citizens committee to assist communities in voluntarily desegregating their schools. Groups on both sides of the busing issue have told me such a committee would be a welcome resource.

On Medical Costs: Last year I sent to Congress a series of proposals to reform Medicare and Medicaid. These proposals would limit the open-ended nature of these medical-care financing programs and re-target much of the savings towards needed improvements in protection against catastrophic illness. They would reduce the pressures on the states to cut back services to the poor and reduce the number of individuals who participate in the programs.

During the last two years, I have signed into law several new health programs designed to make our health system more accessible and more efficient. But I have been unwilling to support legislation which would turn our excellent health-care system into a Government-run and totally Government-financed monolith.

The concept of free medical care for all is alluring, but it is also deceiving. Someone will have to pay for the more than $130 billion of medical care we as a nation will use this year.

The real challenge, as I see it, is to create a system that protects people against the financially crippling cost of medical care, but does it in such a way that all who use this care are mindful of its cost. Until I see a national health-insurance proposal that can accomplish this critical balance, I will not propose new legislation in this area.

On Henry Kissinger: Secretary Kissinger is an outstanding Secretary of State. His diplomatic efforts on behalf of the United States have contributed greatly to world peace.

I am proud of my foreign policy which has brought us to a position of highest leadership in the international community and has kept us at peace. As I have said repeatedly, I would like Secretary Kissinger to continue in my Administration, carrying out my foreign policy.

On Tax Reform: A major objective of any tax-reform package should be to simplify the tax system, as well as to make it more equitable. Past attempts to make the system more equitable have unfortunately also made it more complex. My Administration's objectives in tax reform are threefold—greater equity, greater simplification and lower taxes. I proposed such a program to the Congress last year.

In addition to tax reform and simplification, my tax program includes $10 billion of further tax reductions which have yet to be acted on by the Democratic Congress. Benefits are directed toward middle and lower income taxpayers and incentives for the creation of new jobs by business. These tax cuts would be linked to comparable cuts in Federal spending.

White House/Kennerly

"Busing as a remedy ought to be the last resort, and it ought to be limited in duration..."

On China: My Administration attaches great importance to its relations with China. We have philosophical and political differences with the Chinese, but we share a number of similar concerns. We both desire to see all countries free to develop without outside pressures or interference. We both oppose any forces of hegemony in Asia. We have very similar views about the need for a strong and united Western Europe and for good ties between ourselves and Japan. We do not hide the fact that there are areas where we differ. But on both sides I think there is a desire to work together.

On the CIA: U.S. foreign-intelligence agencies play a vital role in collecting and analyzing information related to the national defense and foreign policy. To operate without adequate and timely intelligence information would cripple our security. Our overriding task now is to rebuild confidence. Last February, I issued an Executive Order that established new policy guidelines as well as restrictions for the foreign-intelligence agencies. I also established a new command structure and an oversight mechanism for the entire Intelligence Community. These steps were essential, and will improve the operations and accountability of our intelligence agencies.

"The concept of free medical care is alluring, but it is also deceiving. Someone will have to pay for the more than $130 billion of medical care we as a nation will use this year."

On the U.N.: I believe that a strong, viable United Nations, whose membership works in a spirit of cooperation, is essential to world peace and prosperity. We are concerned by trends to use the U.N. for narrow political purposes. Such trends do severe injury. The United States believes it is important for the U.N. to give appropriate weight to the views of all of its members and to work in a spirit of consensus, rather than serve narrow interests. And we will continue to speak out forcefully when we feel that the U.N. is being threatened.

On Israel: Our support of Israel is unchanged and unfailing. As evidence of this, in the past two fiscal years I have requested over $4.3 billion in military and economic assistance for Israel. This is more than 40 percent of all U.S. aid to Israel since its birth in 1948. On the other hand, in negotiating for peace in the Middle East, our policy is not to impose a settlement or to seek one-sided concessions.

On Military Spending: In my first address to the Congress, I said that "A strong defense is the surest way to peace, and weakness invites war." My program calls for the continued improvement of our strategic nuclear forces to maintain a solid, formidable, strategic deterrent. It also calls for strengthening our conventional forces.

World peace depends upon a strong American defense posture; I cannot let our defenses erode. I will continue to advocate a strong defense posture, and I believe Americans and the Congress will support me in this.

On Détente: The U.S.-Soviet relationship in this nuclear age has the most profound implications for global survival. My position is that the security of this nation must be maintained first through our national defense. At the same time, it is also my policy to move beyond confrontations and crises to develop a more stable relationship with the U.S.S.R., if that is possible. The third point is that we must prevent Soviet expansionism.

I think we can make progress, but the suspicions and rivalries of more than a generation cannot be swept away in a short time. Our rivalry and competition will continue. Therefore, we must be firm when necessary but willing to shape a more constructive relationship when possible. There is really no responsible alternative.

On Social Security: To replace the Social Security system with a national pension plan would be a serious mistake. Social Security not only already serves the principal function of a national pension plan (i.e., it collects contributions from individuals and their employers in order to provide post-retirement income), it serves several other extremely important functions that a national pension plan would not serve. Some of these are:

1) Benefits that are automatically adjusted each year for increases in the cost-of-living; 2) insurance against loss of income due to severe disability or extended illness; 3) survivor's insurance for widows and children; and 4) benefits sufficient to meet the minimum needs of persons with relatively low earnings' histories.

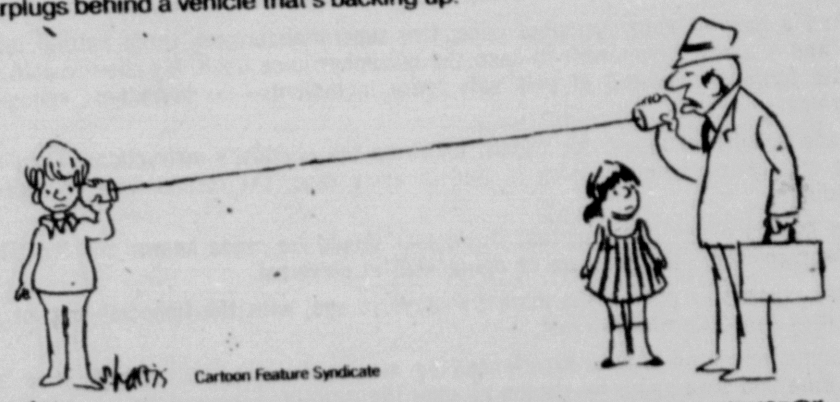
The Social Security system does require continual scrutiny and technical improvements, but any thoughts of replacing it entirely should be dismissed.

Observations™

Rule of reason? A slim little volume set us to chuckling recently—and then to thinking. Called "The Trenton Pickle Ordinance And Other Bonehead Legislation," the book was written and copyrighted this year by Dick Hyman, and published by The Stephen Greene Press of Brattleboro, Vermont. Here are some of the cockeyed laws it chronicles: in Lawrence, Kansas, a regulation against carrying bees around in your hat on city streets; in Quitman, Georgia, a ban against chickens crossing the road (presumably, even to get to the other side); and in Fountain Inn, South Carolina, a regulation requiring horses to wear pants at all times.

Laugh till it hurts. Most likely, nobody takes such regulations very seriously, so they don't do much harm. But there are far too many government regulations that are harmful, wasteful, and costly. According to the Center for the Study of American Business at Washington University in St. Louis, "the taxpayers spend about $3 billion a year to support a federal regulatory work force of 74,000 people." But that's only part of the cost. Rules often contradict each other, and our society is becoming vastly over-regulated, slowing down the economy, creating unemployment, and causing all of us endless frustration. No one knows how much the final tab is.

Hearing bells, seeing stars. Consider the regulation of Washington's Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA), which requires alarms to sound on vehicles being driven in reverse at construction sites. Sounds reasonable, as regulations often do. But OSHA also calls for some employees to wear earplugs as protection against noise. Sounds reasonable, too—unless you're wearing earplugs behind a vehicle that's backing up.



"I'M WITH THE FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION. DO YOU HAVE A LICENSE?"

They forgot to recall. Then there was the Wisconsin plastic toy maker, whose product was banned by the Food and Drug Administration in 1972, because of a potential hazard to children. The hazard was corrected, but in 1973 "an editorial error" by the Consumer Product Safety Commission (taking over from FDA) put the company's name on a new ban list. The Commission refused to recall 250,000 lists "just to take one or two toys off." Result: the company was forced out of the toy business, and laid off 75 percent of its work force.

What's your favorite horror story? We know we're not alone in our desire to stem the tide of over-regulation. You can help by telling us of examples of regulatory ineptness, contradiction, or plain silliness that we can verify. Write us, Department R, at the address below. If your "horrible example" holds up and we publish it, we'll send you a $25 U.S. Savings Bond. In the case of duplicate entries, the earliest postmark gets the bond.

Cucumber and Beauty

by ANA MAHER

Every woman, at some time in her life, faces the spectre of an aging skin. Most women never solve the problem, and finally become resigned. A fortunate few find the answer and are rewarded with a complexion that remains fresh and youthful all their lives.

Ten years ago, I had this skin problem. Nothing very serious, but when I took my mirror over to a bright light, I could detect evidence of dryness and tell-tale signs of advancing years. And I didn't like it. I knew that these were danger signals that warned of an aging skin.

I was also very bewildered. I had always taken the best care of my skin. And no matter what I did, my complexion showed no improvement. Finally I became resigned. After all, everybody gets older and most of us show our age.

Then one day I had a visit from an elderly widowed neighbor. This charming lady was about seventy, but she had the most beautiful, moist, youthful skin. I remarked about it and mentioned my own skin problem.

She told me she used a marvelous cream which had been formulated by her late husband, a physician, and that she made it herself. "Try it," she said, and then she left and returned with a jar of this cream.

So I tried using my neighbor's cream.

In only three weeks, I began to see a marked improvement. My skin was fresher, clearer, smoother. After two months, my former dry, dull skin was revitalized. My skin now had a youthful, almost translucent quality. I was thrilled with my neighbor's formula.

For six years, this kind lady kept me supplied with this cream. And I want to tell you that my skin was more vital and younger looking than it had been when I first started to use it, six years before.

Then my neighbor died suddenly—and with her went that wonderful cream and its secret ingredients. I was saddened by the loss of a good friend—and dejected by the loss of a miracle cream. Her family told me that her personal papers revealed no formulas of any kind. I was desperate. But I did have three jars left from the last batch she had made.

So I took the cream to one of the best known analytical cosmetic chemists. The cost of the analysis was enormous, but I got what I wanted. I had the wonder cream formula.

It had a base of pure cucumber juice, two super-moisturizers, three natural lubricants, and a special component to keep the cucumber juice fresh. My chemist told me that the formula consisted of only safe, pure ingredients—no hormones, estrogens or steroids.

I made a batch of cream for myself, following the chemist's instructions. Then my friends and relatives began using it. And in every case, the results were absolutely astounding.

Soon friends began insisting that the cream should be made known and available to all women, since the problem of aging skin is universal.

So my cream was put on the market four years ago, with the financial help of an uncle. It is called Cucumbre Frost.

The same wonderful results experienced by me, my friends and relatives were repeated time and time again by women all over the country. I have in my file hundreds of letters from grateful women telling of the remarkable results obtained with Cucumbre Frost.

Treatment is not a complicated ritual. I don't have time for that and the chances are you don't, either. You apply Cucumbre Frost at bedtime. Leave it on all night. It feeds, protects and nourishes your skin while you sleep.

I know what Cucumbre Frost can do for you. Therefore, I offer you this UNCONDITIONAL GUARANTEE. Try it. See for yourself in your own mirror how, after a few treatments, Cucumbre Frost helps revitalize dull, dry, aging skin. How, when used regularly, Cucumbre Frost helps facial skin to regain lost smoothness, moistness and freshness. Many women wrote me of astonishing results after only two weeks. Some take longer. But I say this to you: If, for any reason, you are not delighted with Cucumbre Frost—return the unused portion to me for a complete refund. No questions asked.

You have the opportunity to have a vital, youthful, lovely skin—at no risk. Cucumbre Frost can be purchased only by ordering it directly from me. Simply fill out the coupon and mail today.

What Astrology Doesn't Say About You And Your Birthday

True or False? There is a direct relationship between the month you start living and when you're likely to stop. (See No. 1)

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. There is a direct relationship between the month you start living and the month you're likely to stop.

2. Astrology aside, there is no scientific basis for the belief that people born at the same time of the year tend to share personality traits and general ability.

3. You're more likely to be left-handed if you had a hard time being born.

4. If you were born before your brothers or sisters, you're likely to be more of a "loner."

5. Your chance of growing up to be an introvert or an extravert is affected by where you fall in the order of siblings in your family.

6. First-born children have a greater drive for achievement.

ANSWERS

1. True—if your life span extends past middle age. A World Health Organization study impressed investigators by the frequency with which older adults died in the same month they were born—or shortly after. A follow-up study of mortality statistics tabulating month of birth and death of both sexes confirmed these findings. "In older persons, a birthday may in some subtle way influence the general morale of an individual," say the investigators. And it has been well established that morale has a direct effect on how long a person is likely to live.

2. False—according to the findings of British studies, which provide evidence of a definite relationship between season of birth and ability and general personality characteristics. It's pointed out that this might be caused by a number of factors other than astrology. For example, it has been found that "climatic temperature changes during fetal development are associated with subsequent ability at all levels."

3. True—as evidenced by studies at Canada's Simon Fraser University, which indicate a definite relationship between left-handedness and "stressful prenatal and birth conditions."

4. False. The opposite is likely to be the case. Research has shown that first-born children have greater needs for friendship, for affiliating with groups and establishing warm relationships.

5. True—as indicated by the interesting findings of a Boston College study in which undergraduates from two-child families were given a standard personality test. The result: first-born males and second-born females tended to be more extraverted. As the investigators suggest, perhaps the older male's identification with his father contributes to his more extraverted behavior. But it's noted that, for a girl, different relationships hold, and these might result in different behavioral patterns.

6. True. Studies show they have a greater need to achieve success or distinction in whatever work or activity they are engaged in. And it's interesting to note in this connection that, in a University of Wisconsin study, investigators administered a questionnaire to more than 2,200 U.S. Armed Forces personnel. Results indicated that first-borns succeeded in attaining higher military ranks.

"Reading why it was named the best car in the world for under $3,500† got me into the showroom. Finding out the model I wanted cost $300 more than the other make car I was interested in, almost got me out of the showroom. Then I drove it. Now I own it. Fantastic."

People who try it, tend to buy it. There have to be some good reasons for that. And there are. For no other car that we know of, at any price, offers the combination of overall economy, acceleration and interior roominess that you'll find in the Volkswagen Rabbit. Road & Track magazine went as far as to call it the "best car in the world for under $3500.*" You owe it to yourself to go as far as your Volkswagen dealer to see why.

The Rabbit. You got to drive it to believe it.

Amazing Super-Growing Species Soars Into A Magnificent Tree IN JUST ONE YEAR!

And if you think that's startling — just wait 'til you see the spectacular show when it starts to flower — Actually smothers itself in such lavish masses of bouquets, its branches appear to bend from the sheer mass and weight of the magnificent blooms.

That's the kind of wondrous results reported by the U.S. Gov't. Plant Research Stations . . . Botanical Gardens . . . and University Plant Scientists on what is undoubtedly the most fantastic flowering shade tree ever introduced in America — the incredibly beautiful Paulownia . . . the only flowering shade tree in all of nature that can do all of this and more:

READ WHAT THE EXPERTS SAY ABOUT THE INCREDIBLE PAULOWNIA . . . THE FASTEST GROWING FLOWERING SHADE TREE EVER DISCOVERED!

HEIGHT: Gov't. Plant Scientists and Botanical Experts report 18 to 22 feet of growth the very first year on specimen trees.

That's more growth IN JUST ONE SINGLE SEASON than even a fully matured 15-year-old flowering dogwood, or prize star magnolia.

SPREAD: University Researchers report beautiful ornamental spread of nearly 35 feet at maturity . . . packed with thousands of magnificent flowers. Think of it. It not only surges skyward in the most spectacular burst of beauty you've ever seen . . . but, also arches out in a magazine-cover display of color-drenched branches.

EASE: Leading editors report: . . . grows in almost any soil . . . and below-zero root-hardy, too. Yes, because nature has endowed this landscape-artist's "dream-tree" with super-growing strength . . . because it is virtually resistant to most every common disease . . . requires practically no care at all. You simply plant it and forget it . . . it's as simple as that.

Yes, who says you have to spend a small fortune for a flowering shade tree? — and then spend half a lifetime waiting for it to grow? It used to be that way — BUT NOT ANY LONGER. Not since we have finally tracked down the one single tree in all of nature that hoists itself high, so fast you can literally measure the difference in both height and spread from week to week . . . or take a yardstick and measure the incredible difference in feet from month to month!

VITAL STATISTICS FROM LEADING EXPERTS

MATURE GROWTH SIZE — 45 to 60 feet

MATURE GROWTH SPREAD — 35 to 50 feet

ZONE OF HARDINESS — completely root-hardy from deepest south to as far north as Montreal, Canada. Flowers beautifully even after 10 below zero winter freeze.

ONE YEAR GROWTH RATE — Experts report growth range of up to 22 feet the first year after planting specimen trees under optimum conditions, up to 15 to 18 feet under poorer conditions when pruned for foliage growth only.

FLOWERS — When tree is at blooming size, in just a few short years, you'll enjoy thick panicles of fragrant lavender blooms. Highly recommended by landscape artists as specimen planting for front lawn.

SOIL REQUIREMENTS — Natural strength and vigor allow it to soar full forth in even poor soil. You can plant it anywhere.

CARE — No special care whatsover. No spraying. No dusting. No special feeding. Naturally resistant to most every disease, pest or insect.

TAKES BUT 10 MINUTES TO PLANT — REWARDS YOU WITH A LIFETIME OF BEAUTY STARTING THIS VERY YEAR!

GROWS IN ANY SOIL — REQUIRES NO SPECIAL CARE — SOARS INTO A MASTERPIECE OF LUSH, GREEN BEAUTY IN JUST A MATTER OF MONTHS!

Best of all, unlike most trees that demand constant pampering . . . the only thing you do when you plant Paulownia is water it and enjoy it. That's why leading botanical gardens . . . landscape artists . . . garden editors . . . recommend it again and again for home-owners who want a stunning display of both beauty and shade . . . and with practically no more work than a couple of sprinkles a season.

SUPPLIES EXTREMELY SHORT . . . ONCE GONE, OFFER WILL NOT BE REPEATED THIS SEASON — SO ACT NOW!

Now, the price of this super-growing shade tree is not $20 or $30 but a mere $3.95 . . . yes, only $3.95 for this magnificent shade tree that rewards you with such a glorious display of growth IN JUST ONE SINGLE YEAR!

However, supplies are going fast. All orders filled on a First-come First-shipped basis. You must act now!

Here's a luxury sight you don't have to wait half a lifetime growing — a matched pair of flowering showpieces, so strong and sturdy you can actually sling a hammock between them.

Never Has There Been a Faster-Growing, Flowering Shade Tree Introduced To America — Royal Paulownia

Yes, plant this season — see it soar forth in a tower of beauty in just one year! It's the most spectacular splurge of both growth and beauty of any shade tree ever brought to this country. And it's so easy to grow even a child can do it!

A Handy Primer for Preserving Summer's Bounty for Winter

Family Weekly COOKBOOK

By Marilyn Hansen
Food Editor

An imaginative collection of recipes designed to help you savor the fruits of summer long into the winter. Some of these recipes are for canning, some are for the freezer, some are sun-dried, and others just kind of "make themselves."

Fred Lyon

Freezin' Season Fruit Pies

2¼ lbs. fresh peaches
2¼ lbs. fresh plums
Boiling water
¼ cup lemon juice
1 teaspoon ascorbic acid powder*
2 cups sugar
¼ cup quick-cooking tapioca
½ teaspoon salt
3 (8-inch size) foil cake or pie pans

1. To peel peaches: drop peaches into boiling water for 30 seconds; transfer with slotted spoon to cold water. Skins will slip right off.

2. Halve and remove pits from peaches and plums. Slice into large bowl (there should be about 8 cups); add lemon juice, ascorbic acid powder and toss to coat.

3. Combine sugar, tapioca and salt; add to fruit. Let stand for 15 minutes.

4. Divide fruit mixture evenly among 3 (8-inch) foil cake or pie pans.

5. Double-wrap in freezer paper or heavy-duty aluminum foil; label; freeze.

6. When needed, remove from freezer and unwrap. Makes filling for 3 pies

*Commercially known as Fruit Fresh

SPIRITED RAISINS

1 cup dark seedless or golden raisins
½ cup warmed brandy, rum, orange liqueur, coffee-flavored liqueur, chocolate-based liqueur, sherry or tequila

1. Place raisins in sterilized ½-pint jar. Pour warmed liquor or liqueur over them; and seal.

2. Let stand for 24 hours or more, shaking occasionally.

3. When using Spirited Raisins in a recipe, take out desired amount, straining liquor back into jar. To replenish, add more raisins and liquor to the jar, estimating proportions.

Makes 1 half pint

PEACHY-PLUM PIE

Pastry for double 8-inch pie crust
1 (8-inch) pan frozen peach-plum pie filling
1 egg yolk
1 teaspoon water
2 tablespoons sugar
Heavy cream

1. Preheat oven to 425°F. Roll out half of pastry and line the bottom of an 8-inch pie pan.

2. Slide pie filling out of foil pan into pastry-lined pie pan.

3. Roll out remaining pastry; cut into strips and make a lattice top.

4. Beat egg yolk with water. Brush lattice with egg glaze and sprinkle with sugar.

5. Bake for 60 to 70 minutes, until fruit is fork tender and crust is golden. Crust should be covered with aluminum foil when brown to prevent burning. Serve warm or cold with heavy cream if desired. Makes 6 to 8 servings

POLYNESIAN PAPAYA MARMALADE

1 jar (10 ozs.) orange marmalade
2 cups chopped Hawaiian papaya (1½ papayas)
1 cup chopped fresh peaches (2 small)
2 tablespoons lemon juice
Dash salt

1. Combine all ingredients in heavy skillet or saucepan. Cook over medium heat, stirring for about 15 minutes, just until juices have thickened slightly.

2. Pour into 2 sterilized half-pint jars. Seal.

Makes 2 half pints

GRAPEVINE PRESERVES

1 lb. (about 3 cups) seedless grapes, pulled from stems
2 small oranges, peeled and sliced
2 tablespoons lemon juice
2 teaspoons orange or lemon peel (optional)
1 drop green food coloring (optional)
1 cup light corn syrup
2¼ cups sugar
¾ cup water
1 pkg. (1¾ ozs.) powdered fruit pectin

1. Chop grapes in blender, a few at a time, at low speed. (Do not purée.)

2. Repeat for oranges. Measure 2 cups fruit with juices into bowl. Stir in lemon juice, peel; add

3. Thoroughly mix corn syrup and sugar into fruit; let stand for 10 minutes.

4. Mix water and pectin in saucepan. Bring to boil and boil for 1 minute, stirring constantly.

5. Stir pectin mixture into fruit; continue stirring for 3 minutes.

6. Ladle quickly into sterilized freezer jars or container, allowing ¼-inch head space.

7. Seal according to manufacturer's directions. Let stand at room temperature for 24 hours. Store in freezer.

8. If used in 2 or 3 weeks, store in refrigerator. Makes 2½ pints

FRESH FRUIT PICKLES

- 2 cups cider vinegar
- 3½ cups sugar
- 2 cups water
- 2 bay leaves
- 1 tablespoon pickling spice
- 4 fresh peaches, peeled
- ½ lb. fresh plums, halved and pitted
- 1 small cantaloupe, peeled and cut into slices
- ½ lb. seedless grapes

1. Combine vinegar, sugar, water, bay leaves and pickling spice in a large saucepan. Bring to a boil, reduce heat and simmer for 15 minutes.

2. Arrange fruit in hot, sterilized jars and pour pickling mixture over fruit. Seal immediately.

3. Let stand in boiling-water bath for 25 minutes or in pressure cooker according to manufacturer's directions.

Makes 2 quarts

SPIKED PEACH JAM

- 3 lbs. fresh ripe peaches
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- 1 pkg. (1¾ ozs.) powdered fruit pectin
- 5½ cups sugar
- Port, bourbon, brandy or rum (optional)
- Paraffin

1. Peel peaches; drop peaches into boiling water for 30 seconds.

2. Transfer with a slotted spoon to cold water; slip off skins. Halve and remove pits.

3. Finely chop or grind peaches to make 4 cups; add lemon juice.

4. In a 6- to 8-quart saucepan, thoroughly mix peaches with powdered fruit pectin.

5. Over high heat, cook and continuously stir until mixture comes to a full boil.

6. Add sugar; bring to a full rolling boil and boil for 1 minute, stirring constantly.

8. Into clean, hot, sterilized crocks or jelly glasses, pour 1 tablespoon liquor if desired.

9. Add hot jam, leaving ½-inch space at top. Cover jam immediately with ⅛-inch hot paraffin.*

10. Gently tilt jar so paraffin "climbs" and seals edges all around. Store in cool, dry place.

Makes 6 to 7 cups

*A grosgrain ribbon "lifter" can be placed on jam to help lift out paraffin. Pour a thin layer of paraffin onto the jam, lay ribbon in paraffin and pour another layer of hot wax over the ribbon. Secure end to crock with tape until paraffin sets firmly.

Yukky. Yummy.

Fruit-Fresh. You need it for canning, freezing, and fresh fruit.

If you want all the fruit you serve to look and taste its freshest, what you really need is Fruit-Fresh. Because Fruit-Fresh contains a special ingredient that locks in the natural, "just-picked" color and flavor. Which means no more brown, mushy-looking peaches.

Fruit-Fresh is economical, too. A 5-oz. can will preserve up to 75 lbs. of peaches. Here's how: For Canning: simply add Fruit-Fresh to the regular syrup. For Freezing: add Fruit-Fresh to the syrup or dry sugar. For Fresh Fruit: sprinkle Fruit-Fresh on your just-sliced fruit before refrigerating. Sound good? It tastes delicious.

Free Offer: For free Fruit-Fresh dessert recipe booklet, send self-addressed stamped envelope to: Fruit-Fresh Recipe Offer, Dept. FF475, Box 1467, Pittsburgh, Pa. 15230.

BRANDIED DESERT FRUITS

- 1 pkg. (1 lb.) light brown sugar
- 3 cups water
- 1½ lbs. Thompson seedless grapes, in small clusters
- 1 pkg. (6 ozs.) dried apricots
- 1 pkg. (10 ozs.) pitted dates
- 1 cup raisins
- ½ cup blanched whole almonds
- 1 cup brandy

1. Combine sugar and water in a saucepan and bring to a boil. Reduce heat and simmer for 5 minutes.

2. While syrup is simmering, arrange fruit and almonds in hot, sterilized jars.

3. Remove syrup from heat and add brandy. Pour over fruit and seal jars. Makes 2 quarts

VINELAND VINEGAR

- 1½ cups white wine vinegar
- 1 tablespoon honey
- ½ cup Thompson seedless grapes
- 1 thin slice fresh pineapple
- Peel of one small orange

1. Warm the wine vinegar and honey in a small saucepan.

2. Place grapes, pineapple and orange rind in a pint bottle and pour in the warmed vinegar. Cap and let stand for several days. (Variation: Omit pineapple and orange peel; add sprigs of favorite fresh herb.)

Makes 1 pint

SANTA ROSA JAM AND JELLY

- 1¼ lbs. fresh red Santa Rosa plums (about 8)
- ¼ cup water
- 1 box (1 pint) fresh strawberries
- 7½ cups sugar
- 3 tablespoons lemon juice
- ½ bottle (6 ozs. per bottle) liquid pectin

1. Slice and pit plums. Put plums and water in large, heavy kettle. Bring to a boil. Reduce heat and simmer for 5 minutes.

2. Halve strawberries (there should be about 2 cups); add to plums, along with sugar and lemon juice. Mix well.

3. Bring mixture to a full, rolling boil, stirring constantly; boil for 1 minute.

4. Remove from heat immediately, stir in pectin. Skim off foam with metal spoon. Stir and skim for 5 minutes.

5. Cover large bowl with several thicknesses of cheesecloth. Secure with large rubber band.

6. Pour hot jam through cloth, stirring gently to allow most of juice to strain through.

7. Spoon pulp mixture out of cheesecloth (there should be about 2 cups). Mix in ¾ cup of the strained jelly.

Whether you're canning, freezing, or putting up jams and jellies, Karo Syrup's gentle sweetness lets natural fruit flavor shine through. Just blend the right amount of Karo and sugar for smooth syrups, bright color and fresh taste.

Try these Karo-tested recipes next time you want just-picked flavor on your table.

Strawberry Jam

4 cups fresh crushed strawberries (about 2 quarts whole berries)
2 cups sugar
1⅓ cups KARO Light Corn Syrup

In large kettle, mix together strawberries, sugar and corn syrup. Quickly bring to boil over medium heat, stirring until sugar is dissolved. Cook rapidly 30 to 40 minutes or until jam sheets from metal spoon and becomes clear in color. Stir occasionally to prevent sticking and skim with metal spoon as foam rises to the surface. Remove from heat, cool 5 minutes, stirring gently. Pour into hot sterilized jars. Seal according to jar manufacturer's directions. Makes 4 (½ pint) jars.

Pickling Syrup

3 cups sugar
3 cups KARO Light Corn Syrup
2 cups water
2 cups cider vinegar
4 (2-inch) sticks cinnamon
2 teaspoons whole cloves

Stir together sugar, corn syrup, water and vinegar in 5-quart kettle. Tie spices in cheesecloth and add to sugar mixture. Bring to boil over medium heat and boil 15 minutes. Makes enough syrup for 4 pounds peaches, pears or watermelon rind or 2 pounds dried fruit.

Spiced Peaches

Prepare Pickling Syrup. Add peeled peaches, whole or half, to syrup; simmer until peaches are tender. Remove spice bag. Pack peaches in clean hot jars; cover with syrup. Seal immediately. Process in Boiling Water Bath 10 minutes.

Down-Home Canning Ideas From Loretta Lynn's Garden

By Loretta Lynn
In conversation with Helen Dorsey

I love to preserve foods. I put up everything you can think of: vegetables, fruits—even crab apples and blueberry preserves. I have an old book on canning we've used for years, but I almost know every recipe by heart.

I've never had any fear about my stuff spoiling. I've done things like canning beans the cold-pack way. I seal them in sterilized jars and then boil them for hours in a water bath. I think the thing we like most in our family is my canned green beans with salt pork. When you open them up, they taste as fresh as beans just out of the garden!

Country-western singer Loretta Lynn: You'll find her planting and pickling in the summer months.

In the summer, we always have a wonderful garden. When I look out the window and see how beautiful it is, it makes me mad to think I may not have the time to be there for the next planting. Last year, I made sure I'd be home at the planting time and went out and bought the seeds and planted everything! My housekeeper helped me. She kept the weeds out and cared for it. Gardening's certainly one of the little things I just love to do!

DILL PICKLES

4 dozen firm cucumbers, about 3 inches long
6 cups cider vinegar
3 qts. water
⅓ cup coarse salt
12 heads dill
3 cloves garlic, chopped
6 pieces of alum (size of a pea)

1. Scrub cucumbers with a brush, rinse well and pack into hot, sterilized jars.
2. Heat together vinegar, water and salt until salt is dissolved.
3. Stuff 2 heads of dill and a piece of garlic and alum into each jar.
4. Fill each jar with hot brine. Seal at once. Store in a cool place. Makes 6 quarts

FRESH PICKLED BEETS

2 doz. whole, medium-sized beets cooked, peeled, cut in quarters
½ cup sugar
½ cup water
1½ cups cider vinegar
Pinch garlic powder
1 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon whole mustard seed
1 teaspoon whole celery seed
1 teaspoon whole black pepper
½ teaspoon whole allspice
¼ teaspoon whole cloves

1. Set quartered beets aside.
2. Combine sugar, water, vinegar, garlic powder, salt, mustard and celery seed in a saucepan. Tie pepper, allspice and cloves in a cheesecloth bag and add to saucepan.
3. Bring to boil and allow to boil for one minute. Add beets and bring to boil again.
4. Remove spice bag. Pack beets and liquid in hot, sterilized jars. Seal at once. Makes 3 pints

Preserving Summer's Bounty

8. Ladle jam into hot, sterilized jars, filling to within ⅛ inch of top; seal with 2-piece metal caps or with paraffin.
9. Repeat for remaining jelly.

Makes 1½ pints jam, plus 4 to 5 half pints jelly

SOLAR PLUM JERKY

2 lbs. fresh plums (about 14-16)
¼ cup light corn syrup

1. Slice plums thinly (there should be 5 cups); discard pits.
2. Turn plums into large saucepan; add corn syrup and bring to a boil, stirring. Boil for 3 minutes.
3. Pour mixture into blender container; blend until smooth. Set aside to cool.
4. Prepare a smooth, level drying surface in full sunlight. Cover cookie sheets or baking pans with clear plastic wrap.
5. Pour strained purée onto prepared surface and spread to ¼-inch thickness.
6. Let dry in sunlight. (Drying may take up to 24 hours.) Bring pans inside at end of day and finish drying second day.*
7. Fruit is dry when purée can be peeled off plastic easily.
8. For storing, roll up Jerky in plastic wrap and seal tightly.
9. Jerky will keep at room temperature about 1 month, in refrigerator about 4 months or 1 year in freezer.

Makes 2 sheets about 12 x 15 inches each

*Drying may be finished indoors. Set cookie sheets in 150°F. oven. Leave door open. Jerky can be dried completely indoors. Set pans of purée in oven. Heat to 200°F. and turn oven off. Reheat oven several times a day to maintain a temperature of 200°F. Jerky will dry in about 24 hours.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS ABOUT HOME CANNING

Adequate supplies of glass jars are expected this year. There are more metal lids on the market because production has been increased. No shortages are expected in pressure and water-bath canners.

"I don't understand why you have to use a steam-pressure canner for some foods, and not for others."
Higher temperatures are required to destroy botulinum bacteria in such low-acid food as meats, fish, poultry and all vegetables except tomatoes. The only safe way to can these foods is to use a pressure canner, which provides temperatures (240°F.) higher than that of boiling water (212°F.).

"I like to add celery, green pepper and onion to tomatoes when I can them. Is this safe?"
Adding other vegetables lowers the acidity of tomatoes, which can provide a favorable environment for the growth of botulinum bacteria. So when you add other vegetables, use the pressure-canner method and follow the directions carefully.

"I use the open-kettle method. What's wrong with that?"
In this method, food is cooked in an ordinary kettle, then packed into hot jars and sealed without processing. Temperatures in open-kettle canning are not high enough to destroy spoilage organisms that may be in food. Spoilage bacteria may also enter the food when it is transferred from kettle to jar. So the open-kettle method is not recommended, except for jellies.

"Is it true that jams and preserves need to be processed in a boiling-water bath?"
Yes. This prevents the growth of molds and yeasts that can cause spoilage and destroy quality.

"I use lids with screwbands. When should the screwbands be tightened?"
Before placing filled jars in the processing kettle, tightly screw down screwbands and leave in tightened position. Do not tighten screwbands any more after processing.

"Can lids and screwbands be reused?"
Metal lids with a sealing compound should not be reused. Screwbands in good condition may be reused.

"How should the seal on home-canned jars of food be checked?"
To test a jar that has a flat metal lid, press center of lid; if lid is down and will not move, jar is sealed. Test the seal on glass jars with porcelain-lined caps by turning each jar partly over in your hands to see if liquid seeps out of the jar.

"Where can I get information on how to can food at home?"
Write to the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402 for these publications: "Home Canning of Fruits and Vegetables," HG Bul. 8 (45¢); "Home Canning of Meat and Poultry," HG Bul. 106 (35¢); "How to Make Jellies, Jams, and Preserves at Home," HG Bul. 56 (55¢); "Making Pickles and Relishes at Home," HG Bul. 92 (45¢).

Woman with arthritis increases grip strength with Mentholatum Deep Heating Rub

PHILADELPHIA—"My grip strength improved," said Sara Kait. A spritely 75 year old nursing home resident, Miss Kait had taken part in tests conducted by Mentholatum Deep Heating Rub and Extra Strength Lotion. First an instrument was used to measure grip strength. Then Mentholatum Deep Heating Rub was applied for temporary relief of minor pain and to improve mobility. Later, when tested again, the grip strength of most of those tested had significantly improved. "It certainly works," said Miss Kait.

Drain Flooded Cellar Fast

NEEDS NO ELECTRIC MOTOR OR GAS ENGINE POWER

To drain out your cellar, pool, vat, cistern, excavation, boat, don't break your back hand-pumping or bailing. Just connect your garden hose to nearby water faucet and free end to intake side of DRAIN-DRI. Connect another length of hose to discharge side, turn on faucet, and normal water pressure makes the Drainer work. This siphon pump has no moving parts to wear, jam or break down. Only $3.43 plus 55¢ handling and postage. Money back guarantee.

H. HI, ALL YOU RABBITS written by Carl Memling, illustrated by Myra McGee. Ideal for nursery school or kindergarten children. Pub. price $5.50

You know—as do child psychologists, doctors and child care specialists—that the kind of picture books you provide for your child during the early years will have a profound effect upon your child's future development.

And Parents' Magazine's editors and child care specialists want to help you during these most important years of your child's life. That is, to pinpoint —from a multitude of children's books—those which will most happily and effectively encourage your little one virtually "from the cradle" to enjoy books, and through them to acquire a joyous curiosity for all the new and happy experiences and ideas that good picture books bring into little children's lives.

Brilliant Authors And Illustrators Turn
Your Child's Bedtime Into A Wondrous
World For You To Share With Your Child

Through membership in Parents' Magazine's Bedtime Storybook Club, a new book is sent every month, each carefully selected by Parents' Magazine's experienced editors and child care specialists. The books are the creations of America's best children's writers and illustrators; the stories are rich in the drama and delight that make your child want to hear them again and again, and to turn the pages by himself and talk about them with you, in the happy nightly reading ritual.

SKIING, RUSSIAN STYLE
But don't fall . . .

A trial run: The Russians have introduced faster and more efficient methods of space travel, and now they've come up with a speedier way to move across some of their snow-laden terrain. With the help of a backpack engine, fitted with a propeller, cross-country skiing can now have the same thrills as downhill—speeds in excess of 30 miles an hour are possible, claims the designer. The engine is set in motion as the skier builds up his own momentum. While this mechanism may make cross-country more fun, isn't skiing perilous enough without being harnessed to a lot of sharp-edged equipment?

Diana Rigg talks about her coming of age: "Ever since I was a young girl, I knew I would reach my peak at around age 35. Well, I'm 36, and, unlike so many other women, glad to admit my age. I have begun to realize my true self. My body is in better shape than it's ever been. I've been on a protein diet, and I find I have much more energy—both physical and mental—as a result. I've got lines around my eyes, but they don't bother me. Even though I love children, I've prepared myself not to have any and not to be embittered when I'm older because I didn't. Children are supposed to be your greatest comfort in middle age, but I have enough wonderful memories already. I'm looking forward to being a sexy, crazy old lady."

"Of course I'm interested in actuarial science, Foster. It's just you that bores me."

Why are college athletes generally Republican conservatives? Here's Democrat James Michener's view: "The athlete and his coach move in a world of conservative values and are surrounded by conservative types. Very few Democrats among the alumni have private jets or good jobs to dispense or the spare cash to endow athletic scholarships or build press boxes so that the university 'can really go big time.' Also, coaches know that conservative, hard-nosed procedures pay off. For every hotshot newcomer who throws passes all over the place, there are 10, tough old buzzards like Woody Hayes and Bear Bryant who work on the system of four yards, a cloud of dust and a bucket of blood. They're the ones who remain in coaching till their mid-sixties. Rich Sortun, who played varsity football at the University of Washington and later in the NFL, best explained the conservative politics of athletes: 'You are subtly channeled into an educational rut. Your advisors suggest fairly simple courses, like physical education or business. The practices leave you too tired to study more than what you need to get by. You're definitely too tired to think on your own. You're told to be suspicious of hippies and radicals. You end up avoiding the associations—the intellectual give-and-take with people of various philosophies—that are really as much college education as what you learn in the classroom. Increasingly, you accept the philosophy of the locker room. Physical strength and the ability to withstand pain are the most positive virtues. Women are things. Bookish people and little people are suspect. Finally, with the scholarships, the alienation and the practice hours, you come to view it all as a job.'" From "Sports in America," by James Michener (Random House, $12.50).

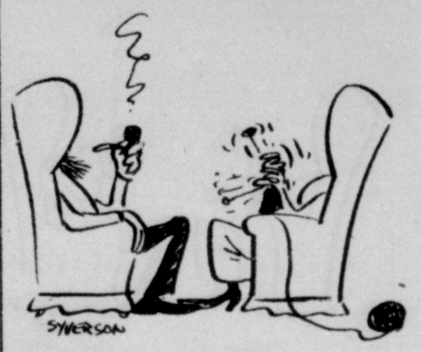
ARMOUR'S ARMOURY
By Richard Armour



PRE-TV

Most houses today have a family room,
What once we described as a den.
It's where we all sit and watch TV,
But what did we do back then?

I dimly recall (it was long ago,
No screen, then, at which to look)
We often played games, like checkers or cards,
Or maybe we read a book.

It's possible, even, that in our den,
Or so at least says my mother,
We did what's not done in our family room:

DoubleKnit Slacks with the INDELIBLE CREASE

Webster says,
"INDELIBLE –

2 PAIRS of Executive Slacks for only 19.95

3 pairs for 29.75
4 pairs for 39.30
All 5 for only 48.95

The whole world knows how DoubleKnit Slacks will wear like iron. They even outlast your car! But up till now, the crease has been no good at all!

Now Haband, the mail order people from Paterson, N.J. say "Our Indelible Crease will not twist out, won't wash out, won't sag, bag, or droop!

Let's face it! A good sharp crease is the first thing they look for in appraising your appearance. Now Haband's new INDELIBLE CREASE is actually locked into the stitches for the life of your slacks! What you get is a straight, handsome, permanent knife-like crease that will look as good after countless repeated washings and wearings as it will the first time you try them on! And that is IN ADDITION to all these other Haband Deluxe "EXECUTIVE CLUB" Dress Slacks features:

100% POLYESTER NO-IRON DOUBLEKNIT

FULL CUT!
Haband's straight leg modified patterns give you greater comfort in waist, seat, knees, crotch, and thighs. Yet the gentle two-way s-t-r-e-t-c-h of genuine DoubleKnit eliminates "old man" baggy pants and makes you look taller, slimmer, better tailored. Remember – Business Slacks are Haband's Business. You get wider belt loops, exact-to-the-inch waist & inseam sizes, the works! Let us show you this extraordinary value!

THE NEW COLORS!
Besides the basic office colors Brown, Blue, and Black, we offer the new European shades of Dusty Green and Rust.

You will be Shocked at this VALUE !!

We are constantly amazed at the price of ordinary men's slacks as sold in the Department Stores & Executive Shops around the country. You see plain pants for up to $40 per pair! So many people ask, "At 2 pair for 19.95, how can the slacks be any good?" Suffice it to say Haband has been in business more than 51 years selling direct thru the U.S. Mails to busy executives & professional men in every city & town in the U.S.A. Last year, we shipped over 1-million pairs! At that rate, we ask "How could you do any better?"

Now with the new INDELIBLE CREASE it is a good time to see for yourself. At 2 for 19.95, you'll never get a better deal!
